LIDGE'S 2D 'I O NOT CHOOSE' EARS THE AIR

Drafters' Silenced; Hooverites Glad.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Calvin Coolidge's announcement that he does not intend to be a candidate for President next year caused a lot of political tension here today.

Despite Northampton's assevera- that he intended to support Herbert Hoover for a second nomi- and his counsel to his fellow Republicans to do likewise was gen- regarded as having put an end to the "draft Coolidge" movement which has been simmering in certain political circles for months.

Mr. Coolidge announcement, pub- in today's Saturday Evening Post, drew immediate comment from political leaders of all parties. Some seized to see between the lines of the former President's article a hint which might permit him to accept nomination if called upon by an overwhelming vote of the dele- gates at next year's Republican na- tional convention.

Coast Clear for Hoover.

To the great majority of the po- litical minded here and elsewhere it definitely adopted the view that Mr. Coolidge's action removes the only possible barrier to the renomination of President Hoover.

President Hoover's partisans ac- cepted as a not entirely unexpected exhibition of party loyalty from a fellow Republican. The insurgent Re- publicans of the western regions view the "sons of the wild jackass" and find their heels agreed that, while Mr. Coolidge was definite- ly out of the presidential running, he could not, for neither Coolidge or Hoover meets with favor in insur- gent circles. They are grooming a number of favorite sons to bring for- ward at the convention, with no hopes, however, of nominating them.

Hoover Seems Amused.

President Hoover seemed to get much amusement out of the pre- vailing excitement when he held his weekly Tuesday meeting with the press at noon. A sheaf of interroga- tories based on Mr. Coolidge's article was presented to him, but he smiling- ly waived the inquiries and held the floor to other subjects.

Comment from leading political fig- ures on the Coolidge announcement came through the Associated Press and other sources, follows:

SENATOR D. FESS [Rep., Ohio].—The announcement was not less been evident to all think- ing people who are acquainted with our history and who are familiar with the character and public attitude of Mr. Coolidge. His statement should end the manufactured clamor of the administration element. It also means the all but unanimous re- nomination of Mr. Hoover and will be one of the determining factors in his election.

SENATOR JAMES E. WATSON [Ind.], Republican leader of the Senate.—The statement by Mr. Cool- idge is just what everybody expected of him. One of the main traits of Calvin Coolidge always manifest was candor, and this statement is a splen- did manifestation of that trait. I have always believed Mr. Hoover would be renominated.

REPRESENTATIVE WILL R. WOOD [Rep., Ind.]—Mr. Coolidge has shown himself true to traditions and followed the practice of the Republi- can party. He did not expect to be the Republican nominee and, of course, he is loyally behind Mr. Hoover, who will be renominated without any opposition in the Republican con- vention.

Vermonters Accept It.

SENATOR WARREN AUSTIN [Rep., Vt.]—We Vermonters always trust Mr. Coolidge's statements as gospel. We think he expressed in a few sentences the sentiment of Ver- mont.

SENATOR COUZENS [Rep., Mich.]—That is what I expected. I always thought Mr. Coolidge was too canny to go into a mess like this.

SENATOR HIRAM BINGHAM [Rep., Conn.]—The sentiment expressed is my own judgment, exactly what I have a right to expect from the great politician of our day and gen- eration. It is hardly conceivable that Mr. Coolidge could or would take any other view of the situation. Mr. Cool- idge is a splendid example of loyal support of his successor.

SENATOR ROYAL S. COPELAND [Dem., N. Y.]—I have not talked with

GANGS SPREAD TERROR IN NINE NIGHT ATTACKS

Hurl Explosives and Break Windows.

An outburst of minor terrorism, marked by three bombings, a stench bomb in a theater, and the smashing of windows in five stores, gave the police work last night and early this morning. The places bombed were:

Stench Bomb in Movie.

The stench bomb was set off in the Avaloe movie theater at 2811 Diversey parkway, and the window smashings were at five Consumers' Sanitary coffee and butter stores at 1226 East 55th street, 2020 East 71st street, 1910 East 71st street, 2148 East 71st street, and at 55th street and Dorchester avenue.

At the paint shop of Erhardt & Son in West Lake street damage estimated at $500 was done by a black powder bomb which exploded in the front doorway of the establishment. The door was splintered and windows in the building, a one story brick structure, and in nearby buildings were shattered. The paint shop specializes in painting wagons.

George Erhardt Sr., head of the concern, said the business had been run as an open shop under the Landis award plan for eight years.

Second Paint Shop Damaged.

The Gelden shop in North Wells street was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars by the bomb that was exploded there. The blast occurred at the side door of the shop in Beethoven place. A door was blown out, the explosion tore a hole in the sidewalk, and windows in buildings within a radius of a block were broken.

Albert Tachin, an attendant in Mede's garage at 1220 North Wells street, told the police that he had seen a tan colored automobile with several men in it cruising in the vicinity just before the explosion.

Gelden, called from his home at 1050 North Shore avenue by the police, said he also operates an open shop.

Blast Damages Apartments.

The explosion in Oak Park was heard for many blocks around and aroused the whole community. The explosion tore a hole in the front vestibule of the apartment house, ripped off the doors of several flats, and shattered windows in the building and in nearby buildings. The damage was estimated at several thousand dollars.

The structure contains 15 apartments. Louis Carl, his wife, and his wife's son, Leon Clarepicelli, were asleep in their apartment on the first floor when the bombing occurred. They were shaken by the blast, but were not injured. Other tenants fled from their apartments in their night clothing.

Stench Bomb Routs Movie Patrons.

The stench bomb attack on the Avaloe theater occurred in the evening while a film was being shown to several hundred spectators. The patrons rushed for the exits when the odor of the bomb filled the theater. David M. Brotman, the manager, said he was puzzled about the motive for the bombing, since he had withdrawn from the independent theater owners' organization and had been employing only union operators.

The smashing of windows in the five south side Consumers stores apparently was the work of two men, who were seen riding east in 71st street in a car, stopping only long enough to hurl bricks through the windows of the stores which were attacked in that street. The attacks on the stores in 71st street were reported to the Woodlawn police, and while they were investigating, the other stores were damaged by the vandals.

Briton Flies 408.8 M.P.H.; World Record

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALSHOT, England, Sept. 29.—Flight Lieutenant G. H. Stainforth tonight established a new world's air speed record with an official average of 408.8 miles an hour, or 6.8 miles a minute, after four dashes over a 1¾ mile course on The Solent. His fastest lap was 415.2 miles an hour, and his slowest 405.1 miles an hour.

Lieut. Stainforth, who thus broke his own record of 379 miles an hour which he achieved on Sept. 13 at the Schneider cup races, used a new fuel and a Rolls Royce motor designed solely for the test. The fuel contained refined gasoline, a high percentage of wood alcohol and ethyl.

During his record breaking flight, the airman kept as close as 100 feet above the water. The motor had 300 more horsepower than in planes used in the Schneider races. It only has a life of a few hours at this terrific rate of speed. The speed was recorded by a camera instead of by watches.

WHAT THIS SPEED MEANS.

The speed attained by Lieut. Stainforth is the greatest by far of any speed at which man has ever traveled.

At his average speed of 408.8 miles an hour a person could travel from Chicago to New York, a distance of 912 railroad miles, in about two hours; from Chicago to St. Louis, 284 miles, in about 36 minutes; from Chicago to San Francisco, 2,074 miles, in slightly over four hours; from Chicago to Rockford, 90 miles, in about 15 minutes, and Chicago to Aurora, 38 miles, in less than six minutes.

Recently Maj. James H. Doolittle flew from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast, an estimated flight of 3,000 miles, in 11 hours and 15 minutes. At Lieut. Stainforth's speed, the same flight could be made in about seven hours.

FLAMES WRECK CAR BODY PLANT; LOSS IS $50,000

Damage estimated at $50,000 was caused by a fire which wrecked the plant of Weyer & Co., automobile body builders at 2745 South Wells street, early this morning. One fireman was reported to have been injured when the nozzle of a hose broke from his grasp and struck him.

A 5-11 alarm was sounded and extra apparatus was rushed to the scene to prevent the flames from spreading in the factory and warehouse district. The origin of the fire was not determined, but Fire Commissioner Daniel Carmody said the flames spread with such rapidity that he would ask an investigation by the fire attorney's office.

BROKERAGE HOUSE SEEKS TO PUT END TO SHORT SELLING

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—With one stock exchange house on record as refusing to lend its customers' securities for use in short selling operations, the agitation against speculation for the decline received fresh impetus today. At the same time the stock market passed through another severe reaction, with the average of prices touching a new low level for the bear movement.

The stock exchange house which announced that it would refuse to lend stocks for the convenience of short sellers is Pouch & Co., which made the following statement to its customers:

"In times of universal distress such as the present, when our established systems and our very civilization are at the crossroads, short selling in the form of raiding seems utterly immoral and unwarranted. It is our belief that selling of this type should be prohibited, if not by actual stock exchange ruling, then at least by the refusal of brokerage houses to loan their customers' securities."

Six Are Hurt in Spills at Society Hunt

The Onwentsia Hunt club, which opened its season on Sunday, has had six casualties in two days of hunting, it was revealed last night. The club is at Milburn, northwest of Lake Forest.

Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, a society matron living at 1219 North Elm Tree road, Lake Forest, is in the Alice Home hospital at Lake Forest suffering from a broken vertebra as a result of a fall from her hunter on Sunday.

Others thrown from their horses in the Sunday hunt were Laurance Armour, 395 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest; Donald B. Douglas, 930 North Green Bay road, and Capt. John Flodstrom, hunt instructor of Milburn.

James Simpson Jr. Thrown.

In yesterday's hunt James Simpson Jr. of Wadsworth, son of the chairman of the board of Marshall Field & Co. and candidate for congress in the new 13th district, and Stuart H. Otis of Barberry lane, Lake Forest, were thrown.

Mrs. Wheeler was injured when her horse struck the top of a hurdle and threw her. The seriousness of her injury was not revealed until yesterday, when an X-ray photograph was taken. She is being attended by Dr. Theodore S. Proxmire of Lake Forest who said she would be incapacitated for a month and would be unable to hunt any more this season.

Otis Bruised and Shaken.

Mr. Simpson was bruised and shaken up when his horse fell while taking a jump and nearly rolled upon him. Mr. Otis' horse made a bad landing after taking a jump and threw his rider. Mr. Otis was bruised and shaken.

Mr. Armour was only slightly injured in his fall on Sunday and returned to the hunt yesterday. Mr. Douglas' horse stumbled while following close upon the hounds, and tossed its rider. Mr. Douglas' injuries were not serious. Capt. Flodstrom was hurled from his mount as he came in contact with a low hanging limb of a tree. He was unconscious for ten minutes and was severely bruised. None of the injured was taken to a hospital except Mrs. Wheeler.

Discover $2,300 Robbery at George Lytton Home

Silverware valued at $2,300 has been stolen from the home of George Lytton, 1242 Lake Shore drive, it was discovered yesterday. Mr. Lytton, who is president of the Hub clothing stores, had been absent from his apartment since June 23, and discovered the robbery yesterday when he returned. All the silverware bore the initials M. K. L.

Eleven Unions Vote Plan for Building Trust

Eighteen hundred union bricklayers in a meeting at Bricklayers' hall, Monroe and Peoria streets, last night unanimously indorsed Oscar W. Rosenthal's plan to finance the construction of needed buildings through the organization of the Construction Investment Trust.

The bricklayers are the eleventh unionized group to indorse the plan, according to Mr. Rosenthal, who is president of the Builders' Association of Chicago and also head of the Illinois Builders' league. The Building Trades council indorsed the plan two weeks ago, Mr. Rosenthal said.

Among the unions which had previously approved the plan are the electrical workers, roofers, plasterers, lathers, laborers, hoisting engineers, carpenters and structural iron workers.

Would Finance Needed Buildings.

The aim of the Construction Investment Trust is to finance construction of buildings which are needed at the present, and give employment to thousands in the building trades who now are out of work. No buildings contemplated for speculative purposes would be considered as security for loans, according to Mr. Rosenthal. He addressed the bricklayers before they approved his plan.

Where buildings are necessary to take care of housing and industrial needs, the trust would supply the funds, which are to be raised through the selling of shares to persons and companies connected with the building industry. Architects, engineers, material men, contractors, and labor unions are expected to supply the first of the money for putting the plan into operation. Later the public will be given an opportunity to buy shares.

The safety feature to investors, Mr. Rosenthal said, is the plan of spreading the risk of possible loss over all of the buildings financed. The investors would buy shares, rather than bonds or mortgages, the shares to cover the whole of the investments of the trust, he explained.

Trust of National Scope.

The trust, under the plan, would be national in scope. Properties in various parts of the country would be taken in for the spread of the investments, thus eliminating, according to Mr. Rosenthal, the danger of abnormal loss through localizing.

"There is great need for new buildings," said Mr. Rosenthal, "but right now there is no money to finance construction. The Construction Investment Trust plans to create a sizable sum to meet this emergency. Through the selling of shares to the building industry and later to the public adequate funds can be created to begin work on buildings which are most needed now. No construction for speculative purposes will be considered when loans are made."

WOMAN FOUND STRANGLED TO DEATH IN FLAT

Mrs. Sarah Siegel, 40 years old, of 809 West Van Buren street, was found mysteriously strangled to death in a bedroom of her apartment late last night when the Des Plaines police went there to investigate after they had received a telephone call from a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Fairer of 3106 South Albany avenue. Mrs. Fairer told the police that she feared something had happened to Mrs. Siegel as the latter failed to answer her telephone.

The police found Mrs. Siegel lying dead on a day bed in her second floor apartment, with a bed cover wound tightly around her throat. There were foot marks, as though made by the heavy shoes of a man, on the day bed, and the room was in disorder, with bureau drawers open and a trunk standing with the lid thrown back.

The police expressed the belief that some man who had visited Mrs. Siegel had slain her and then rifled her possessions. Benjamin Quedazella, living in a third floor apartment, said he had seen Mrs. Siegel out walking with her dog last evening. The dog was found tied on the rear porch of the apartment.

Papers in the trunk indicated that Mrs. Siegel had been divorced from Isadore Siegel in November, 1920.

LINDYS REACH HANKOW; SPEND NIGHT AT WUHU

HANKOW, China, Sept. 30 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh and Dr. Borcic, health expert of the league of nations, arrived here at 3:10 p. m. (2:10 a. m., central standard time) today, completing a flight from Wuhu, down the Tangtse river from Nanking. The Americans are on a flood survey mission. They spent the night at Wuhu.

Start Fund in New York.

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's description of his flights over the flooded area of China was a major factor in the decision today of three national organizations here to begin a campaign to raise $2,500,000 for food and medicine for China's millions of destitute.

CITY PROPOSES PLAN TO REPAIR FINANCIAL ILLS

$27,000,000 Bonds, 15% Cut in Costs.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Mayor Cermak presented to Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission last night a financial plan which he believes will lift the city corporate fund out of its most pressing difficulties without increasing taxes.

M. S. SZYMCZAK. [Moffett photo.]

The mayor's plan was considered in an executive session of the commission in the Union League club and the proceedings were not made public. It was stated, however, that the chief points in the plan received tentatively the commission's favorable consideration, as indicated by the adoption of several motions and resolutions, chiefly offered by Fred W. Sargent. The mayor's plan would provide for the issue of about $27,000,000 in new bonds and the refunding of $9,000,000 in old issues.

The Mayor's Plan Outlined.

The chief features of the Cermak program include:

1. A substantial cut in the 1932 city expenses, perhaps averaging as high as 15 per cent.

2. Sale of the $36,747,000 worth of 1930 tax anticipation warrants now held in the city treasury to the Chicago banks, thereby releasing a like amount of city surplus funds for the purchase of 1931 warrants. This would supply the city, library, tuberculosis sanitarium, pension boards, and school board with $35,400,000 to meet pay roll, voucher, and other urgent needs for the remainder of the year.

3. Refund of $9,000,000 in city bonds due Jan. 1, a procedure the county has been practicing since July 1.

4. Issuance of bonds to pay off all the 1928 tax anticipation warrants now held by the city's surplus funds and the 1929 warrants owned by the public. These warrants total $15,195,000. There are also $2,860,000 worth of 1929 warrants held in the city treasury which would be paid out of current revenue.

5. Increase of the city's working capital by $12,000,000, this cash to be acquired by the issuance of bonds.

Sees No Tax Increase.

"We believe that this plan, which includes other recommendations, can be made effective without increasing the tax burden and that it will go a long way toward reestablishing the city's credit as well as permit the city to operate its essential services," said Mayor Cermak to the commission, according to the recollection of one of the members of the commission.

"It is primarily the task of the commission to find some way—if possible—to relieve the tax burden on real estate, and I hope you will be successful along that line."

City Controller M. S. Szymczak and his chief deputy, Victor S. Petterson, who prepared the city's program, explained its details to the commission.

Szymczak Explains Plan.

According to a member of the commission, Mr. Szymczak said in substance:

"There is no way, so far as we have been able to devise, by which a substantial cut in expenses can be avoided next year. We have accomplished considerable along that line this year.

"The corporate pay roll, which reached a height of $4,468,536 last April, was cut down to $3,410,359 in August, and will be smaller in September. The expenses of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium have been cut from a maximum of $130,208 last March to $10,778 last month. Also the public library has made savings."

"What will be your cut in cost next year?" asked Mr. Sargent.

"We are working on that and have not arrived at an estimate that we can announce," replied the city controller.

The Bonding Program.

Szymczak went on to explain other features of the plan.

"One reason for the city's lack of credit is its failure to pay off its 1928 and 1929 tax anticipation warrants," he said. "The city under present tax valuations has the power to issue $27,294,379 in bonds, omitting $2,556,000 in bond authorized but unsold.

"We suggest that this bonding power be utilized in two ways. First, we deem it advisable to pay off all the tax anticipation warrants of 1928 in the hands of the city. There are none in the hands of the public.

"Second, we would also pay off all of the 1929 tax warrants in the hands of the public. That would require $15,195,000. That would leave only $2,860,000 of the 1929 warrants, which would be held by the surplus funds of the city, so we would be cleaned up as far as 1930.

"There is no question regarding the tax valuation upon which the 1930 warrants have been issued, part of which are held by the public and part by the city's surplus funds.

"Those warrants will be paid from the 1930 tax collections, which we believe will be sufficient to retire them by Feb. 1. Of these 1930 warrants, the city's surplus funds hold $36,747,000. These we suggest you [the commission] request the banks to buy.

City Needs $35,400,000.

"That will set free $36,747,000 of the city's surplus funds which we can invest in 1931 tax warrants so far as needed to carry on for the remainder of the year. We have estimated that total at $35,400,000, which would supply the board of education with $9,000,000 in cash, as well as take care of the city corporate fund, the pension funds, the library and the sanitarium.

"This plan would prevent the city from borrowing, from itself, more than its income from the 1931 taxes, even if one estimates that the 1931 revenue will be 20 per cent less than the calculated income from the 1929 taxes.

Bond Refunding Discussed.

"Refunding of the $9,000,000 in bonds due Jan. 1," continued Controller Szymczak, "is simply following the precedent set by the county, with the approval of the state legislature. That will not increase the city's bond debt.

"The last major item is a suggestion that the working cash capital be increased $12,000,000 by a bond issue. In the long run that will save the city money, because by that means cash can be obtained at a lower rate than by the sale of tax warrants to the public."

This program, it was pointed out, will probably eat up the bond borrowing power of the city until late in 1933 or perhaps until 1934, so that no increase in governmental costs from that source now seems possible in the interim.

Equitable Taxation Asked.

In the formal statement of the city presented to the commission more equitable taxation was urged. It was argued that if new taxes are inaugurated they should be in the form of substitute taxes and not additional taxes.

"We suggest, if an income tax is adopted," reads part of the formal statement, "that the tax be paid into the state distributive fund for schools and returned to the counties in proportion to the amount paid by such counties. In the next subsequent year the tax levy for schools, in each district, should be reduced by the amount received from the income tax the year previously."

Fair Distribution Sought.

Another suggestion is that the taxes collected be more equitably distributed among the several tax expending agencies. Some local governments have obtained large recent increases, while the city's share has been lowered.

The county's plan for relief of its financial difficulties was presented to the commission by President Emmett Whealan of the county board. Its principal feature is the issuance of $16,500,000 in bonds.

GOLD COAST FOLK CALL TAX VALUES 25% EXCESSIVE

Protest to Assessors on 1931 Assessment.

Real estate men and property owners from the Streeterville district and Lake Shore drive conferred with the board of assessors yesterday on tentative valuations of properties in that district for the 1931 reassessment, and immediately charged that the assessors' valuations were 25 per cent too high.

The assessors had reduced their valuations from 5 to 10 per cent below those of the 1928 reassessment. Those reductions are less, they admitted, than will be made on real estate in Cook county as a whole.

Call Figures Too High.

"Your figures are 25 per cent too high," asserted James Bistor, real estate dealer. "You are assessing property on the hangover of times which will not return for a decade."

Gen. Nathan William MacChesney was another who protested against the tentative assessments. He spoke of a speech which he heard Secretary of the Treasury Mellon make recently, while he was in the east.

"Secretary Mellon's idea of a sound tax," he said, "is a tax which will produce the revenue necessary to run the government in a year of depression."

Promises New Valuation Maps.

At the close of the meeting, Charles E. Fox, appraisal chief for the assessors, agreed to draw up new valuation maps taking into account the objections made yesterday, and to submit them at a future conference.

The property involved is that bounded by North avenue, the lake, the Chicago river, and its north branch. The assessors refused to give out any of the individual valuations.

Others who attended the conference were Mrs. Edgar Martin, owner of ten properties on Lake Shore drive; Leslie Porter, agent for a number of properties in the Gold Coast district, and Louis Sadler, real estate broker.

VISCOUNT BYNG SAYS GOOD-BY TO SCOTLAND YARD

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Viscount Byng of Vimy says good-by to Scotland Yard tomorrow. He is retiring as chief commissioner of the Metropolitan police, a post he assumed in 1928, two years after the conclusion of his term as governor general of Canada.

Lord Byng was at his desk in the "yard" early today and spent some time examining reports from various departments regarding the reforms he has instituted.

He had a conference with Sir Trevor Bigham, deputy chief commissioner, who is expected to succeed him, and later was received by King George.

Within a few days, possibly before the end of this week, Mayor Cermak is expected to announce the selection of a new commissioner of police to replace the present acting commissioner, First Deputy John H. Alcock.

The field of choice already has been narrowed down to six men—Capts. Allman, McDowell, Shoemaker, Condon, and Zimmer and former Chief Collins. From this list also is to be selected the chief of detectives.

This information was obtained yesterday from an authoritative source, according to which the process of selection has been an extraordinary one in the history of the department. The whole field of possible candidates has been canvassed for weeks by the mayor's advisory commission, headed by Sewell L. Avery, and it will be the recommendation of this group that will be accepted as soon as it is received.

The replacement of Acting Commissioner Alcock has been expected for some time. He has been a holdover from the previous Republican administration for the last five months, but recently Mayor Cermak has pronounced him lacking in the spirit of coöperation he demands.

It is possible that Alcock may resign from the department, surrendering his civil service standing as deputy commissioner and taking the pension to which he is eligible.

Allman's Name Heads List.

Mayor Cermak again declined to discuss the subject yesterday, even when he was told that the secret operations of his advisory commission in this field had been uncovered.

The same attitude was taken by Chairman Avery of the commission. He has said in the past that when Mayor Cermak gives him and his associates a subject to consider their report belongs to the mayor and will not be given out by the commission.

Verification of the statement that the field of possibilities has been narrowed down to six was obtained from a second source. It was noted that in each instance in which information was forthcoming the resultant list was headed by the name of Capt. Allman.

Capt. Allman is now director of the new police college opened in July in the old Garfield school building. He has been member of the force 31 years and was a member of former Chief Collins' advisory board. He has been a captain since 1917.

Former Chief Collins, head of the department under Mayor Dever, is now in the investment business.

Capt. McDowell in Paris.

Capt. McDowell was recently designated by Mayor Cermak to represent Chicago at the international conference of chiefs of police now in progress in Paris. He was formerly a deputy commissioner, but resigned in 1922 to become superintendent of the Illinois Masonic Orphans' home at La Grange. He was recalled by Collins two years later. Recently he has been in command at Irving Park station. He joined the force in 1896 and became a captain in 1922.

Capt. Shoemaker, now in command of the "Scotland Yard" detail, was chief of detectives under Mayor Dever. He has had more experience in this kind of work than others of the six men under consideration and therefore is considered a likely choice for chief of detectives.

Capt. Condon, now in command at Stanton avenue, joined the force in 906 and became known as "Big Tom." In February, 1930, he won the $100 TRIBUNE award for heroic police work in capturing the killer of a policeman.

Capt. Zimmer, now in charge of the stolen automobile division, created by Mayor Cermak's orders, was deputy commissioner in charge of detective work, personnel and property under Chief Collins. He joined the force in 1892 and served during several periods at the detective bureau.

Reorganization Is Predicted.

While the information obtained on this subject does not go that far, it is generally expected that the naming of a new commissioner will mean an almost complete reorganization in the high places of the department. If Deputy Commissioner Alcock resigns, a new deputy will be appointed to replace Acting Deputy Scanlan. Chief of Detectives Norton giving way to a new man also will mean that Assistant Chief of Detectives Rafferty will be replaced, it was said.

EDISON WEAKER; IS DISCOURAGED OVER FAILURE TO IMPROVE

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A gradual weakening in the condition of Thomas A. Edison, who has been in poor health since his return to his home in Llewellyn Park from Florida several months ago, was noted in a bulletin issued today by his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, which read:

"Mr. Edison had a very restless night and seems slightly weaker this morning."

The aged inventor did not go for his usual automobile ride either yesterday or today. His son, Charles, explained that the weather was too cold and damp. He said that the general condition of his father showed little change but that he seemed to "have lost ambition.

"He seems to have no interest in the things he wanted to do in the past," said the younger Edison.

Theodore Edison, another son, said that his father seemed discouraged over his failure to improve.

AQUARIUM FISH GET SCRUBBING IN COOTIE WAR

Oscar has cooties. So have his six chums. The seven live together in a glass house, where many of the fish in the John G. Shedd aquarium can see them in all their shame. Oscar is a seven foot alligator gar and his buddies, the other six, are of the same species, but not quite so big as Oscar. Alligator gars are fish with snouts like alligators.

Yesterday Director W. H. Chute of the aquarium and his assistants, Curator Fred G. Orsinger and Howard Dietz, tackled the problem of ridding the alligator gars of their cooties, which are somewhat different from land cooties and go under the name of "angelus ingens." All but a foot of the water in the alligator gar tank was drained and Orsinger and Dietz entered, wearing hunting boots and armed with whisk brooms. Oscar and his six tankmates objected strenuously, but the men gave them a thorough brushing and removed most of the "ngelus ingens."

One of the seven alligator gars arrived recently at the aquarium from down south somewhere. He is said to have brought the cooties with him.

...RGE WORKERS TO SHARE JOBS WITH JOBLESS

Committee Sends Plan to Hoover Board.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

A more equitable distribution of all available work this winter, even to the extent of the temporary surrender of seniority and civil service rights, is the chief suggestion contained in the report of the committee on unemployment plans of President Hoover's relief organization, which concluded its session in Chicago yesterday.

E. A. WHEELER. [Hedstrom & Fabry.]

It is the duty of the employers, the report states, to maintain and increase employment as far as possible, and it is the duty of both employers and employés working in each unit of industry to adjust the distribution of labor time so that the greatest number may share in it.

Not Permanent Factors.

In these first recommendations, the committee points out, it is not dealing with those fundamental and permanent factors in industrial stability which can only result from continuing study and analysis of all the complex conditions under which industrial operation must be conducted.

The report was made public at the end of the second day's sessions of the committee in the Union League club by Chairman Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago, after it had been transmitted by telegraph to Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's relief organization.

The committee suggests to the committee on administration of relief that all committees give serious consideration to relief work programs, that those needs must be met by charity that must be given wherever possible, so that the self-respect of men may be saved. There are also suggestions along the line of cutting red tape on public works.

Hit by Seniority Rights.

The suggestion that seniority rights be given up for the time being by unions hits directly at the railroad labor situation. It is, however, a suggestion made by the labor men themselves. Chairman Wheeler emphasized that the program of labor as submitted at the hearings had been put all forward in the report.

A. Johnston of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Cleveland, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, were members of the committee. There has been a report for many months that the railroad executives will make a move to lower railroad wages, particularly if their rate increase petition is denied. This, however, can be done only by application to the railway labor board and after long months of arbitration.

The Committee's Suggestions.

"It is the opinion of the committee that employment plans and suggestions should be made. It is imperative that the existing problem of unemployment should be immediately dealt with in a practical and constructive way. Necessary relief must be provided for those who are unemployed or the creation of work opportunities should be accorded first consideration.

"The committee, therefore, recommends that all work now available be equitably distributed among those regularly employed in each unit of the various industries, both public and private, in so far as it is practicable to do so.

"In order to achieve this objective it is the opinion of the committee that the owners and managers of industry and employés in both public and private industry should coöperate to the fullest extent in extending work opportunities for as large a number of suffering people as possible.

Urge Distribution of Work.

"Public opinion will support the employers and employés in every effort they put forth to distribute the amount of work in both public and private industry as equitably as possible.

"The duties of both management and employés are clear. First, management should, as far as possible, maintain and increase the number employed. Employment during the coming winter is a first consideration. It is the duty of workers to assist those who are out of work by agreeing to an adjustment of working time so that the work which may be available during the winter may be more widely and equitably distributed among a larger number.

"This may be done either through a reduction in the number of days worked per week or the hours worked per day, or through the application of such other practical methods as may be best suited to the peculiar conditions of different industries.

"A Patriotic Duty."

"In addition to the foregoing we further recommend that where agreements are in effect covering working conditions the managements and representatives of employés coöperate with a view of meeting this serious unemployment condition.

"Those workers who are protected in their employment by seniority rights or civil service should, during this emergency, forego their right to continuous employment.

"The committee recommends that steps be taken by the President's organization on unemployment relief to secure as soon as possible careful consideration by local, state and federal authorities of public work programs to lessen as far as possible the need for increased funds for direct help.

WOLL SEES HOSTILITY TOWARD "BIGOTRY OF PROHIBITION" GROWING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.] — Matthew Woll, chairman of labor's national committee for modification of the Volstead act, today asserted that the issue "has ceased to be whether we are to have a change from the present prohibition status to one of whether we are to have prohibition or repeal."

MATTHEW WOLL.

His assertion was made just prior to his departure for Vancouver, where the American Federation of Labor holds its annual convention next week.

According to Mr. Woll, reports reaching the department of labor indicate a growing tide of hostility toward the "bigotry of so-called prohibition."

"The reports that come to us daily from our branches, from all manner of labor organizations and from organizations and individuals that are no part of the labor movement show us beyond doubt that the tide of hostility to the bigotry of so-called prohibition is rising at a rapid rate."

NEEDY FAMILIES SHOW INCREASE OF 800 PER CENT

$2,110,150 Spent by Charities Group.

An increase of 800 per cent in the number of families requiring relief in Chicago during August as compared to the figures for a year ago was reported yesterday. Chicago, with a per capita expenditure for relief work of only 78 cents, has a per capita rate which is twenty-third on the list of large cities caring for their unemployed.

This situation was revealed in a report to Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the joint emergency relief fund of Cook county, by the United Charities of Chicago. A similar ratio of increase has been reported by other agencies. The emergency relief fund workers are preparing to raise $8,800,000 to carry on the necessary work during the winter months.

For the first eight months of 1931, the United Charities records show, their expenditure for relief was $2,110,154. During the corresponding period of 1930 it amounted to only $285,041. The increase, therefore, amounts to 640 per cent.

389 Per Cent Increase in Families.

"In August of 1930 our total case count was 3,766 families," said Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities. "This year it was 18,417, an increase of 389 per cent in the number of families applying for help. Of this number, 13,052 required relief in some form. In August of 1930 we gave relief to 1,440 families, and thought it large for that time of year.

"The increase of 806 per cent in relief cases this August has taxed our resources to the limit, and unless there is a generous and immediate response to the financial campaign of the joint emergency relief fund, upon which we are now almost solely dependent to meet the increased need, we simply cannot continue to help all who require assistance."

The following comparison of the total number of families given relief in the years 1930 and 1931 was included in the report:

January	1,495	9,207
February	1,667	10,440
March	1,476	11,949
April	1,389	10,341
May	1,778	9,904
June	1,396	10,121
July	1,230	11,946
August	1,440	13,052

Although the relief work of his organization is nearly ten times that of a year ago, Mr. Hunter emphasized, the average expenditure on each family is comparatively small.

Ryerson Explains Task.

"The great increase in relief necessary to meet the needs of those who are destitute will undoubtedly be reflected in the reports of other family agencies which have pooled their financing efforts in the Joint Emergency Relief Fund of Cook County this fall," Chairman Ryerson commented. "Each of these family agencies is doing its best to make the funds available for its use go as far as possible.

"Chicago is, in fact, behind many of the other major cities of the nation in the per capita amount it has been giving for the relief of its needy this year. The report of the Russell Sage foundation in New York for the first quarter of 1931 shows Chicago twenty-third on the list.

"Detroit led with an expenditure of $3.37; Boston was second with $2.26; Milwaukee ninth with $1.62; Cleveland was nineteenth with 93 cents, and New York twenty-first with 86 cents. Philadelphia and Los Angeles are the only major cities with a lower per capita expenditure than Chicago."

WIGGIN, CREDIT REPAIRER, MAPS NORMALCY ROAD

Back from Europe with Revival Program.

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—If tariffs, reparations and interallied debts are lowered, and if Germany and France settle their differences, Albert H. Wiggin, head of the world's largest bank, believes the United States soon will be "doing business as usual."

Mr. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National bank and chairman of the international committee which studied the German credit situation at the suggestion of the London conference, expressed that opinion as he arrived home today from Europe on the liner Majestic.

"The business depression is worldwide," he told reporters. "Normal business condition will not prevail in the United States until there is purchasing power in Europe, South America, and Asia, and until Europe —and particularly England and Germany—can function normally.

"England and Germany already have taken vigorous action, but they need the help of the rest of the world, and particularly the United States and France.

Credit Alone Not Enough.

"The gold of the world is concentrated in a few hands. The extension of credit is necessary, but credit alone is not enough, nor can adequate credit be given under existing conditions.

"In my judgment, an adequate program for reviving confidence and for establishing a sound basis for credit is contained in the report of the Basle committee.

"I believe prompt action along the lines of this report will speedily turn the course of world affairs so that the necessary credit to other nations can be extended and the United States again do business as usual."

He was asked what he considered the chief provisions of the report that he and his fellow conferees drew up at Basle, Switzerland, after their study of the German situation, and which he felt should be carried out to insure the speedy recovery he mentioned.

His reply was that the essence of the report said restoration of Europe's credit depended on lower reparations, lower interallied debts, lower tariffs, and rapprochement between France and Germany.

Mr. Wiggin's summary of the report he helped draw up was more definite and specific than the report itself, which not once mentioned the word "reparations."

Reporters who interviewed the man who spent the summer conferring with financial experts from all over the world found Mr. Wiggin waiting for them with his prepared statement.

When he was told that a record amount of gold, about $238,000,000 worth, had been earmarked for European countries since Sept. 20, when the English gold standard was suspended, he replied emphatically with a single word:

"Good."

Asked to amplify, he said:

"The gold situation is nearly like the story about the little boy who played marbles so well that pretty soon he had all the marbles there were and then there was no one left for him to play with."

"What forces do you think are now working to bring about an economic rapprochement?" he was asked.

"I would list the meeting between Germany and France, and the proposed meeting in Washington of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Laval."

"Do you think Secretary Stimson's visit abroad helped?"

JOBLESS MOBS RIOT IN LONDON; BATTLE POLICE

Try to Force Way Into House of Commons.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Coincident with the rushing through the last stages of the third reading of the emergency national government's economy bill, which passed in the house of commons by a majority of 55 votes, huge crowds of unemployed tonight blocked Westminster, staging angry scenes under the shadow of Big Ben.

The roughhouse between the demonstrators and mounted police, who employed baton charges to force the crowds out of prohibited Parliament square, developed into ugly clashes. Many arrests were made. Whitehall and the immediate environs of the house of parliament seethed with a mass of unemployed, who had marched into Westminster from Hyde Park determined to force a deputation into the house of commons to see Prime Minister MacDonald.

Mob Attacks Mounted Police.

Reaching the approaches of the house of parliament, the demonstrators were cut off by a cordon of mounted police. The crowds, jeering and singing the "Red Flag" and the "Internationale," were in an ugly mood. When mounted police attempted to clear the way the demonstrators surrounded them and attempted to pull them from their horses. The police then drew their batons and charged into the throng, striking right and left. Many of the demonstrators were beaten down and injured.

Police eventually got the upper hand, riding their horses on the sidewalks and driving the crowds up Whitehall. Here further riotous scenes were witnessed when the unemployed attempted to stage another demonstration around the cenotaph. One demonstrator fell under a horse and was rushed to a hospital in an ambulance.

Deputation Breaks Through.

Meantime a small deputation of the jobless got through and entered St. Stephen's hall, where they interviewed several Labor members of the house of commons.

While the riots were proceeding outside members of the house of commons on the inside passed the third reading of the economy bill, which provides for a 10 per cent cut in the payment of the jobless dole and, among other things, reductions in pay for defense services and salaries of teachers and other civil servants. The bill was immediately sent to the house of lords.

King Backs MacDonald.

Meanwhile the prospects of an early general election in Great Britain receded somewhat today, but the situation is still smothered in a fog of politics. King George returned to London from his vacation retreat in Balmoral, Scotland, and within a few hours after his arrival Prime Minister MacDonald called at Buckingham palace and reported on the developments since the monarch left London.

What Mr. MacDonald told the king and what the king told him are state secrets, but it is understood that the king has given the prime minister a free hand to do as he thinks best and has also promised him his support.

The Conservatives, who a few days ago were pressing for an immediate election, are reported to be alarmed by reports from the country that the Labor party might win if the national party is dissolved and the Conservatives go to the country without Mr. MacDonald and the Liberals. This has strengthened Mr. MacDonald's hand and he is said now to be in a position to dictate terms.

Opposes Early Election.

It is known that he is opposed to an immediate election and believes that he possesses an "emergency mandate" from the country to adopt any measures, even including a moderate protective tariff, which, in his opinion, will restore the British foreign trade balance.

The situation will be cleared tomorrow afternoon when the prime minister has promised to make a statement of his intentions in the house of commons. A cabinet meeting was held tonight at which Mr. MacDonald reported his interview with King George and declared his policy privately.

CURB WAR PLOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Great Britain has scored diplomatic victories at Ankara, Turkey, and Teheran, Persia, for the first time since the war in curbing former King Amanullah's ambitions, according to advices received in London today.

According to information received here high Turkish staff officers flew over to Tabriz in northern Persia over the last week-end for a long conference with the Persian general staff. Since the departure of Turkish officers Persian garrisons on the Turkish-Persian frontier are being withdrawn and concentrated at Meshed and Birjand on the Persian-Afghan frontier.

The Persian-Afghan frontier was closed at sunrise yesterday.

All diplomatic privileges heretofore enjoyed by Amanullah in Turkey and Persia have been suspended and it is also reported that President Mustapha Kemal Pasha of Turkey has declined to receive the former king.

Leon Trotzky, exiled by Russia, and hitherto residing on the island of Prinkipo, which is easily accessible to Istanbul, is now reported being removed to a fortress at the mouth of the Dardanelles, which is twelve hours by steam from Istanbul.

Thomas, secretary for dominions and colonies, are thus, together with all their national party colleagues, formally expelled. Two peers, Lord Sankey, the lord chancellor, and Lord Amulree, secretary of state for air, are also affected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A new high record for British jobless was recorded tonight by the ministry of labor report. It shows the total unemployed at 2,811,615. This is an increase of 22,535 over last week.

HERE'S JAPANESE SIDE OF INCIDENT THAT LED TO ROW

Charge Chinese Soldiers Butchered Officer.

In the issue of the Manchuria Daily News of Sept. 1, copies of which reached Chicago from Dairen yesterday, are details of an incident which, according to the Japanese, was one of the chief causes of the warlike steps in and about Mukden. The incident was the killing of a Japanese army officer, another Japanese, a Russian and a Mongolian by Chinese soldiers. The hostility of the Japanese authorities and people, culminating in warlike activities in Manchuria, arose out of this incident.

The Manchuria Daily News reports the assassinations as having occurred at Minanchen about June 27, last. The news was not released for publication in Manchuria until Aug. 18.

The Japanese Version.

The Manchuria Daily News, which is published by Japanese, heads the account of the killing with the line, "Butchery of Japanese Army Officer," and details it as follows:

"Capt. S. Nakamura of the general staff office, hailing from Niigata Prefecture, with N. Isugi, ex-cavalry sergeant major, and a Russian of the name of Shroekoff, and a Mongolian, each provided with the huchao issued by the proper Chinese authorities, started from near Pokotu, on the Chinese Eastern railway, western section, in the early part of last June for Taonan via Sue, west of Chalaite.

"The party was taking a meal at an eating house in Minanchen when a party of Chinese soldiers belonging to the Hingan reclamation army attacked them without warning, under orders of their superiors, and in spite of their showing their huchaos the quartet were lock up and robbed of their treasure, revolvers and other valuables.

"Shot Like Dogs."

"Under suspicion of being military spies, in the presence of Kuan-yuheng and other officers, the quartet were shot dead like so many dogs. Col. Chao-kuanwu, in command of the Chinese regiment to which the shooters belonged, happened to be at Mukden in answer to a summons.

"In order to destroy the evidences of the butchery, the remains were cremated in the hills to the east on July 1, and strict secrecy was enjoined.

"Moreover, pro-Japanese, Chinese, and Mongolians began to be maltreated, resulting in the secret escape of many of them.

"In the history of the last 26 years of the Japanese troops on duty in South Manchuria, it was the first atrocity of so hideous a nature that was committed by Chinese soldiers in peace time.

Chinese Authorities Accused.

"Besides, the protection given by the Chinese authorities to the offenders was a crying violation of the international good faith. Inquiries were started by the Japanese side from early July, and the results of investigation caused righteous indignation among the Japanese military. The details about the wanton atrocity are being sifted to the bottom.

"Tsou-tsohua is in command of the Hingan [Chinese] reclamation army. In the light of the above atrocities they are condemned as a frightful menace to the safety of the mixed residence of the Japanese in the interior.

"According to a Chinese witness of the shooting, the perfect coolness with which the Japanese officer met his fate is said to have inspired his heartless executors with a sort of superstitious fear. But after the execution the Chinese soldiers mutilated and hacked all the remains, cutting off the ears, noses, limbs, etc., besides subjecting them to nameless insults, whilst the Chinese officers looked on without interfering.

"In the Taonan-Solun Line district, in which the new Chinese railway has already been built to the extent of 180 Chinese 'li,' the Mongolians, groaning under the tyranny of the Chinese rule, have been prone to betray more or less resistance, and the Chinese authorities have been unable to get over their suspicion that the Mongolians might possibly enlist the Japanese sympathy to raise trouble with the Chinese side.

"In open defiance of the existing Sino-Japanese treaty, the Chinese authorities have been laying rigorous restrictions on the access of Japanese to the district, while westerners, like Britishers, Americans, Germans, etc., are allowed to travel freely.

"Kuan-yuheng, in command of the regiment of the Hingan reclamation army, who was directly responsible for the butchery of the party, is remarkable for his savagery. He is a lieutenant colonel in rank, but appears in colonel's epaulettes. He is a terror to people who come in contact with him.

"Consul General Hayashi at Mukden called on Gov. Tsang-shihyi of Liaoning at 3 p. m. on Aug. 17 to open an official negotiation concerning the butchery case.

"Gov. Tsang replied that the matter being news to him, he would inquire into the truths promptly, with the object of reaching an early settlement.

"News received at Port Arthur on Aug. 23 from Nanking reports a strange development of the case in question: Gov. Tsang has failed to give any answer to the Japanese side, but sent to Foreign Minister C. T. Wang a report to the effect that the slayers of Capt. Nakamura and party were not regular soldiers, but insurgents. The gist of this astonishing version was transmitted to a Japanese army officer by Dr. Wang.

"Regiment Commander Kuan, who was responsible for the butchery, disappeared on the pretext of a leave, and now the horrible butchery is laid at brigands' door.

"On the part of the Japanese army people, no matter what trickery the Chinese side might play, they hold conclusive evidences of the butchery case, as collected by a thorough investigation, considered as sufficient to offset any Chinese shirkings."

In Japan there were memorial mass-meetings late in August and a general expression of grief over the death of Capt. Nakamura and his companions. The grave military movements by Japanese in the Mukden region were a consequence, although the incident which finally precipitated the occupation was the blowing up of a bridge on the South Manchurian railway, owned by Japan.

[A Chinese version of the riots against the Chinese in Corea, another one of the incidents which led to the present strained relations between Japan and China, will be presented in tomorrow's Tribune.]

MEXICAN PAPER OPPOSES EXHIBIT AT CHICAGO FAIR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 29. — La Prensa, official organ of the national revolutionary party, today attacked the proposition to have Mexico represented in a proper manner at the "ostentatious Chicago fair" in 1933.

La Prensa declared that economic conditions within the Mexican republic and which affect the entire nation include a retrenchment plan which does not fit into such an expenditure necessary to have Mexico properly represented at Chicago where other nations are bound to make notable displays.

"Our precarious position should be well known to the United States, and yet Charles E. Peterson, vice president of the Century of Progress exposition [who is now in Mexico City], makes it an absurd and ridiculous proposition for Mexico to obligate herself to take a part in a worthy and dignified manner."

RAILWAY RAIDS BRING BRITISH IN MANCHURIAN ROW

Officials Charge Japan Is Responsible.

BULLETIN.

NANKING, China, Sept. 30.—(Wednesday.)—(AP)—The central political council today accepted the resignation of Dr. C. T. Wang as foreign minister of the Nationalist government and appointed Alfred Sze to succeed him.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 29.—The hornets' nest of international diplomatic controversies as a result of the Japanese military occupation of south Manchuria extended into the anti-Japanese zone today as a result of continued bandit depredations along the Peiping-Mukden railway, in which the British have heavy investments.

Chinese bandits today held up and looted a train near the town of Peipiao, about sixty miles from Mukden and a few miles from the new Japanese military zone. The passengers were robbed, but reported no casualties.

British Blame Japanese.

This is the second railway outrage. The first occurred on Sept. 24, when Chinese bandits wrecked a train at the town of Jeayangho and killed a number of passengers, including several foreigners, and escaped with loot amounting to more than one million dollars.

The Chinese authorities, as well as W. H. Steele, British railway superintendent, allege that the outrages were due to the Japanese action in expelling Chinese soldiers from the Mukden zone. These soldiers, it is charged, have now disbanded and become bandits.

Mr. Steele also alleges that the Japanese military are sending airplanes along the railway and dropping bombs. One plane turned machine guns on a train, killing two Chinese passengers. The Japanese claim the planes were only reconnoitering in the railway zone and were fired on by Chinese soldiers. The planes, the Japanese claim, returned the fire and the bullets accidentally hit the train.

As a result of this situation, the British railway officials demanded the right to send armed Chinese guards on trains to within one station's distance of the Japanese lines, but the situation is deadlocked due to the British consul's lack of instructions from London. The Japanese military have offered to undertake to guard the railway, but refuse to act unless requested by the British authorities or the Mukden consular body. This request has not yet been made.

Meantime the Japanese have established a company of soldiers at Shanhaikwan, about midway between Mukden and Tientsin where the Peiping-Mukden railway crosses the Great Wall at the sea, and also have occupied the town of Yingkow, at the end of a railway branch which taps the main line town of Kowpangtze.

Negotiations Open in Tokio.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Sept. 29.—Direct negotiations between China and Japan seemed to be brought nearer this afternoon when Chi Shuy-ang, a member of the Kuomintang, who left Nanking Friday, visited Foreign Minister Shidehara and conferred with him more than an hour on the Manchurian situation. Chi subsequently told officials that Shidehara's explanations had given him a new view of the affair and he expressed the opinion that if the Japanese troops withdrew completely to within the south Manchurian railway zone, a speedy start could be made with negotiations.

CHINESE HERE STAGE PARADE OF PROTEST AGAINST JAPANESE

Three thousand Chicago Chinese paraded yesterday afternoon in protest against the Japanese invasion of Manchuria. The boad of directors of the Chicago chamber of the Great China association adopted resolutions boycotting Japanese merchandise.

The parade, followed by a mass meeting, was organized by C. W. Yen, president of the Great China association, and at his order all Chinese shops were closed at noon so members could participate. The paraders, carrying placards denouncing the Japanese invasion, started at the Chinese "city hall" at 22d street and Wentworth avenue, circled four blocks, and returned to the hall, where students and officials of the organization spoke to the crowd.

The speakers denounced the Japanese invasion as a premeditated campaign of aggression. There was no disorder and the throng obeyed Yen's injunction not to molest Japanese in this country.

MAY SET UP MONARCHY

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 29.—With Mukden, capital of Manchuria, held by a Chinese group calling itself the "peace committee," and the city of Kirin taken over by independent troops under Gen. Hai Sia, former chief of staff of the Kirin army, while Gen. Chang Ching-hui is reported to have declared the Harbin area independent, it appeared tonight that China has virtually lost Manchuria to Japanese influence.

Indications tonight were that Manchuria would become part of a new empire. It is reported that Mongolia also is being organized with Manchuria to become a buffer state between Soviet Russia and China and Japan. Incidentally, it may be in the form of a semi-democratic monarchy under the last Manchu emperor, Suan Tung, who was dethroned in his infancy. He is now living in retirement at Tientsin under the name of "Mr. Henry Pu Yi."

The report that the late Chinese dynasty may be revived was published by the China Times, a leading Chinese newspaper, which alleged that the Japanese plan to establish Manchuria and Mongolia as a single state. The paper asserts that the real purpose of Japan is to establish Sun Chuang-fang, former governor of Kansu province, as governor of Fengtien province, with headquarters at Mukden; to establish Chang Chung-chang, former war lord of Shantung province, in a like capacity in Kirin province, and to establish Gen. Shih Yu-san, whose armies were recently defeated in Hopan province, as ruler of Heilungkiang province.

EMPLOYERS OF GERMANY UNITE TO SLASH WAGES

Demand Cut in Dole and Government Costs.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—After seeing Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand of France off for Paris early this morning, Chancellor Bruening opened an all-day cabinet session to prepare new emergency decrees to take care of the steadily growing number of unemployed.

German associations representing industry, trade, banking, insurance, and small employers, presented a petition to the cabinet solemnly warning if of impending chaos unless new reforms were enforced immediately.

The representatives of these business organizations demand further cuts in national expenditures, reductions in wages, curtailment in payments of social insurances, consolidations of public debts, reduction in freight and postal trade, and "reestablishment of private initiative unhampered by the government."

Cite Heavy Governmental Costs.

These business leaders point out that in 1913 when Germany was a rich country it spent only 16.2 per cent of its national income upon the administration of the federal and state governments. Today, they insist, more than 30 per cent of the national income is garnered by the state and its expenses are three times as high as before the war.

"This exploitation of the private citizens must be stopped," these leaders unanimously state, "especially in view of the fact that the depreciation of currency in England is seriously affecting German business."

500,000 Face Wage Cuts.

Half a million German workers faced a cut in wages through notifications, issued today, ending the existing wage agreements on Oct. 31. They include railway men, postal and other state workers.

The wages of nearly 250,000 miners in the Ruhr district were reduced 7 per cent under an arbitration award today. Both the owners and workers rejected it. The owners demand a 12 per cent wage cut, which they claim is necessary to enable them to compete with English produced coal.

Crowds Cheer Briand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand came home at 11 o'clock tonight from a rigidly policed Berlin sojourn. They were met by an unDisciplined and cheering crowd of 10,000 home town folks, who were so loosely held in check by republican guards and police that they bodily shoved about the official government limousines and their distinguished occupants. It was a big reception, but all the cries were "Vive la paix!" and "Vive Briand!" There were no "Vive Laval!" cries heard because the conservative Frenchmen, who are glad their ministers got back from Berlin without leaving their shirts behind to the Germans, and who credit the shrewd realist, Pierre Laval, with that achievement, stayed at home.

KILLED AS AUTO HITS BUGGY.

Robinson, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—W. O. Richards, Palestine insurance man, born the day Lincoln was assassinated, was killed five miles east of here last night when a car driven by William Matthews of Stor crashed into the rear end of a buggy, killing the horse and demolishing the buggy. Matthews was exonerated by a coroner's jury as Richards' buggy had no lights.

"This soap is marvelous for laces and lingerie," says

Mrs. John F. Jelke, Jr.

One glimpse into Mrs. Jelke's wardrobe shows the perfection of her taste. —And her pronounced preference for lace. "Really, these lacy things are quite as practical as more sturdy fabrics, if laundered in American Family Flakes after every wearing," declares Mrs. Jelke. "For this soap doesn't fade colors or cut threads the way some soaps do. You see?"—pulling out drawers of pink satin and Alençon as new-looking as though fresh from the shops. "Even this negligée"—indicating a frail pink-silk-lace confection that trails a bit and ties in back—"and these bedspreads"—lifting sheerest linen, all delicate French cut-work and Venise lace, to show that the green silk slip also looks like new.

Downstairs in Mrs. Jelke's home you'll see long cabinets of beautiful china and crystal and silver—and no other soap but pure double-sudsing American Family Flakes. Impurity in soap, you know, eventually eats off the gold and colors, just as it weakens the threads of even sturdy fabrics and causes silk stockings to run. But American Family Flakes is pure as pure can be. That's why its double-suds are trusted wherever fine china and fabrics are cared for, and why it is economical above all soaps.

Here, then, is a soap that gives you not promises but proofs—as demonstrated in the homes of 4 out of 5 of Chicago's Gold Coast women. Just as it has saved their priceless silks and laces, so, too, it will give longer wear to your lingerie, your household linens, everything that needs good soap-and-water cleaning.

Try one box. You'll know at once you've struck a pay-streak of work-saving double-suds—for dishes and pans—porcelains and woodwork—blankets and curtains—all things washable.

Mrs. John F. Jelke, Jr.

Wife of the president of John F. Jelke Company, the great margarine manufacturing concern. Her charming Lake Forest home is decidedly English in manner, as also are the lovely formal gardens which surround it. Mrs. Jelke is a vivid little person, a New Yorker, of quick wit and flashing smiles. Loves riding, tennis, swimming, figure skating, deep sea fishing, fox hunting, traveling, her farm at Milburn, everything! Runs her home on double-suds cleanliness—"It's the only household soap I buy. The laundress and maids all prefer it. They say it does better work than other soaps. And I think the clothes have such a clean, sweet smell, and always look so nice."

The Flakes—double-sudsing—the only soap trusted with the costly laundry of 4 out of 5 Gold Coast women.

The Cake Soap—double-sudsing—for 90 years used by more Chicago women than all other laundry soaps combined.

U. S. HUNTS HUGE ALIEN SMUGGLING RING IN CHICAGO

Thirty Agents Arrive to Ferret Out Syndicate.

Thirty federal agents arrived in Chicago yesterday to run down and arrest the officials of an alien smuggling ring which, it is alleged, has an annual income of between fifty and a hundred million dollars.

According to Murray W. Garsson, special assistant secretary of labor, and W. Frank Watkins, supervisor of the investigating force, there is an established price list for the racketeers' services in getting aliens over the borders, the quotations ranging from $200 to $6,000 per man, in addition to ordinary transportation costs.

Low Rate for Healthy Aliens.

Young, healthy aliens of good appearance get the lowest rate. For those who are undesirable because of disease or other reasons the higher prices prevail. Among those who must pay most heavily, Mr. Garsson said, are those suffering from trachoma, a communicable disease.

"This ring of racketeers has assumed almost unbelievable proportions," he added. "We have found that the aliens are slipped in at any one of fifteen ports. As many as 500 men have been imported in one group. "We spent several months in New York and discovered there that the work was being carried on everywhere. The managers of the larger syndicates of smugglers follow the methods of big business. They accept part payment when they take an alien for smuggling and collect the rest in installments when he is settled in some American city.

Money Extorted from Aliens.

Naturally such a system, operated by unscrupulous criminals, is subject to much abuse. We have found that in many instances aliens, after having once paid their agreed fee for entry, are bled for further amounts."

Most of the smuggled, it was indicated, were placed in the industrial cities of the east and those bordering on the great lakes. Everything from rowboats to airplanes is used in the operations, Mr. Garsson added.

The New York investigation resulted in the arrest of thirty men alleged to have taken part in the illegal entry of aliens, and Mr. Garsson expects at least forty indictments finally to be brought there against violators of the immigration laws. Hundreds of aliens, discovered through the exposure of those who aided them, are to be deported.

A Cause of Gang Wars.

So large are the syndicate rewards that gang wars have been fought in New York for control of the business, and several smuggling executives have been killed.

"Our investigation from the federal building here will cover all the lake cities," said Mr. Carsson. "We are going into the records of the known hoodlums and find out if any of them are taking this particular kind of ill gotten money. At least two-thirds of my force will work under cover."

Asked if Al Capone, the best known of the gang leaders, was involved in the investigation, Mr. Garsson replied that he was not at this time.

The operatives from Washington will have the full support of District Attorney Johnson and of Mayor Cermak. Mr. Johnson has appointed one of his assistants, James Leaton, to assist Mr. Garsson's men, and the mayor promised all the police aid they need.

Pair Fined $50 Each for False Fire Alarm

Mack Prokopek, 33 years old, 2227 South California avenue, John McKnight, 24 years old, 2151 South Leavitt street, were fined $50 each yesterday by Municipal Judge Edward E. Casey for turning in false fire alarms. They were accused of sending the alarms through a box at 21st place and Oakley boulevard, which is in front fo the Pickard elementary school.

CUBA CUTS 10,000 OFF PAY ROLLS OF GOVERNMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 29.—Ten thousand government officials and employés, representing 25 per cent of the administration's force, were discharged today when President Machado ordered the immediate curtailment of 25 per cent of all government expenditures, amounting to $60,000,000 for the fiscal year of 1931-1932, excepting those included in the so-called "fixed budget." The fixed budget includes permanent appropriations to pay international loans and salaries of members of congress and the judiciary. However, congressmen will be asked to cut their own pay. The budget slash, effective Oct. 1, amounts to $10,000,000.

The army will be reduced by 3,000 soldiers. The secret national police force, in order to avoid dismissals, will suffer a 25 per cent cut in pay. The government feels that it needs every man in this department for its own security.

The sum of $1,000,000 has been slashed from the public instruction department. This will result in the closing of rural schools, a 25 per cent cut in teachers' salaries, dismissal of all assistant professors and titular professors from all schools.

CAPONE DEFENSE FAILS IN ATTACK ON INDICTMENTS

Stage Is Set for Opening of Tax Trial.

Technical objections to the indictments charging Al Capone with evasion of the income tax laws were swept aside yesterday by Federal Judge Wilkerson and the stage was set for the gang king's trial on Oct. 6. Judge Wilkerson overruled demurrers and motions presented by the defense counsel.

Another motion by Capone's attorneys, Michael Ahern and Albert Fink, seeking a bill of particulars was also denied by Judge Wilkerson. In this motion the defense sought to have the government present a list of the sources of the income on which Capone is charged with failure to file a return and an attempt to evade payment of taxes on more than $1,000,000 for the years 1925 to 1929.

Denied Report on Interview.

Defense attorneys also requested that they be furnished with a transcript of an interview between their client and C. W. Herrick, a revenue agent. The government prosecutors, Jacob I. Grossman, Dwight H. Green, and Samuel Clawson protested. "They just want all the government evidence," said Grossman. Judge Wilkerson denied the request.

Judge Wilkerson allowed the defense ninety days in which to file a bill of exceptions. Then followed an informal discussion on the length of the trial. The government representatives announced that it would take them nine days to present their case. It was thought that the trial might take three weeks.

Bring Guzik from Prison.

The government is still hunting evidence against Capone, it was indicated yesterday, when Sam Guzik, Capone lieutenant and brother of Jack, was brought back to the federal building from the penitentiary at Leavenworth on a writ of habeas corpus. The government in applying for the writ said its purpose was to bring him before the grand jury for questioning. Guzik has served four months of a sentence to a year and a day in the penitentiary on his plea of guilty to income tax evasion. He said he had lost fifty pounds during his imprisonment.

Four other Capone lieutenants, Frank Conti, Harry Alcock, James Carney, and Joe Montagna, seized last week by special prohibition agents in a beer distributing plant at 223 East 25th street, waived examination before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. They were held in bonds of $3,500 each.

VOTE TRUE BILLS AGAINST TRIO IN EXTORTION PLOT

True bills charging extortion, conspiracy and malicious mischief against Morris Bogoslowski, Charles Fried, and Joseph Haddad, alias Jose Lopez, alleged bombers, were voted yesterday by the grand jury. Bonds for Bogoslowski and Fried were set at $75,000 each while Haddad's bond was $100,000 because of a gun toting charge against him.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne announced that he would ask for an immediate trial.

The trio were arrested Thursday in offices in the Temple building after they were alleged to have made demands of $2,000 each on Dr. Elmer D. Howe, 7601 Greneview avenue, whose home had been bombed twice, and Dr. Max Gecht.

$500,000 THEFT SUSPECT GRANTED RELEASE ON BOND

Louis I. Gottlieb, Chicago attorney charged with the embezzlement of $500,000 through his bond and mortgage operations, was released on bond yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan in the Criminal court. The action was taken over the objections of Assistant State's Attorney A. C. De Witt, in charge of bail bonds.

The $70,000 bond on which Gottlieb was freed, was signed by C. C. Campbell, 3425 North Marshfield avenue. Campbell offered an apartment building valued at $350,000 as surety, but there is a $180,000 mortgage on the property. Prosecutor De Witt insisted that in case of forfeiture, the state would not be able to collect.

Judge John Prystalski, refused to accept the bond on Friday, but allowed Gottlieb to withdraw it so that it might be offered to another judge. The defendant was represented by Attorney Joseph McCarthy, former judge of the Municipal court. McCarthy said that his client was suffering from cancer and needed medical treatment outside the jail.

Gottlieb fled from the city in November of 1929, when the losses were reported. He was arrested in Indianapolis in May, of this year.

IOWA GOVERNOR URGES A PLAN TO LIFT CORN PRICE

Calls on Federal Reserve for Cheaper Loans.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The new "Iowa idea" which pro- to raise the price of corn through the corn by getting loans for farmers who may sell their crop on market until prices ad- vance was placed before J. R. Mc- Donnell, governor of the federal re- serve bank, here yesterday by Gov. John W. Turner of Iowa.

J. R. McDOUGAL.

After a long conference the governor said he had been given a kind and courte- ous hearing, but the bank's reaction had been "not too encouraging."

The theory expounded by the Iowa executive was that it would be far easier to influence the price of corn, which has little exportable surplus, than wheat, and that once corn goes up it will be reflected in other farm commodities and start the "stabiliza- tion" of the agricultural dollar.

The new movement aims at two things: First, to stir a sentiment among farmers to hold their corn, and second, to get cheaper loans on corn at 3½ per cent instead of 5 per cent now.

Idea Spreads to Nebraska.

The movement started a few weeks ago in Iowa. It has spread to Ne- braska, where Mark W. Woods of Lincoln, one of the leaders for the corn farm plank at the Kansas City Republican national convention, is organizing. Gov. Turner plans to confer with Gov. L. L. Emmerson after he returns from his Rainy lake fishing trip with a view of bringing Illinois into the movement.

The federal reserve authorities made no official comment on the grain stor- age proposal. Last week Gov. Tur- ner and a committee of farm leaders conferred with the federal farm board, which offered a counter plan, which Iowans regarded as involving too much delay and red tape. The gov- ernor yesterday was accompanied by Ben Hasbrouck of Jefferson, presi- dent of the Iowa Bankers' associa- tion, a member of the executive com- mittee of the movement.

"It started a few weeks ago in Iowa," said Gov. Turner, "when a huge meeting of farmers was held on the corn problem. They were not radicals, but some of the most pro- gressive farmers in Iowa.

Act to Start Stabilizing.

"We recognize that 85 per cent of the corn is fed on the farm in Iowa, but there is much trading between neighbors. In Iowa today in some places they are trying to contract corn at 21 cents a bushel, which is no less than half the cost of production. And hogs are down to four and half cents. Corn has got down to such a ridiculously low price that it seems to us it is a good commodity on which to start a stabilizing process.

"Our program is twofold, to create a sentiment among farmers to hold their corn until a fair price is reached, and second to finance those who need credit while so doing. Eight per cent money is too high for financing such a program, and we're trying to bring about some way of getting 2 per cent or 4 per cent credits with the corn as security. We've got a warehouse law in Iowa, the warehouse receipts of which would be evidences of the col- lateral."

"The cost of producing corn is around 50 cents," said Mr. Hasbrouck.

GRAND DUCHESS MARIE OF RUSSIA IN U. S.; MAY BECOME A CITIZEN

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, who is the daughter of the late Grand Duke Paul, who was assassinated in Petrograd Jan. 30, 1919, entered the country today in the French liner Ile de France on a quota passport is- sued by the league of nations. Pre- viously the grand duchess had arrived in the United States on a visitor's permit. Her present document gives her the privilege of becoming an American citizen. Asked if she in- tended to do this, the grand duchess replied:

"It is too soon to talk of that."

Asked about the possibility of the czarist regime being restored in Rus- sia, she replied that the day of restora- tions is past.

MAYOR ASSAILS CITY JUDGE ON REMITTING FINES

Raps Green's Leniency to Gamblers.

Mayor Cermak, aroused at the criti- cism leveled at him by one municipal judge in connection with his anti- gambling campaign, charged yester- day that another judge of that court assessed fines against two keepers of gambling houses and then remitted them as soon as police who had ar- rested the defendants left his court- room.

The criticism of the mayor came on Monday from Judge Edward B. Casey, sitting in the Des Plaines street court. The mayor made his charge of leniency to gamblers against Judge Thomas A. Green, sitting in the jury court.

On Monday Judge Casey ordered police who brought a number of patrons and one employe of a policy game before him to go out and find the real owner of the game.

Judge Criticizes Mayor.

"I am in hearty accord with the campaign against gambling being con- ducted by Mayor Cermak," he said, "but I am equally resentful of the vicious attacks he has made upon the judges of the Municipal court. Chief Justice Sonsteby and the as- sociate judges, with perhaps no ex- ception, are doing everything in their power to assist.

"Now because they are educated men and fully appreciate the mean- ing of the oath they have taken—in- cidentally, word for word the same as the oath of the mayor—must they be the objects of his sarcastic utter- ances? I recommend for him a short course in American history."

Mayor's Reply to Court.

In reply to Judge Casey Mayor Cermak said yesterday:

"I have made no attacks on judges which were not backed up by facts. I never mentioned Casey's name, but if the shoe fits, let him wear it.

"Now that he is in the contest, perhaps he can explain why a judge, in five cases where the arresting officers had search warrants, threw three cases out on technicalities; and where in two cases there were fines assessed of $100 against each de- fendant, after the fines were paid and the police had left the courtroom, gave the defendants their money back."

Later Mayor Cermak said that Judge Green was the judge he re- ferred to. The defendants who had their fines remitted, he said, were John Cuhle, 539 North State street, and Morris Greenberg, 3 East Ohio street. Both appeared before Judge Green last Friday on charges of keeping a gambling house.

The court sheet for Judge Green's court for the cases of Cuhle and Green- berg was missing from the office of Clerk Gill of the Municipal court, but the individual records of the cases were found.

The individual case records showed the defendants to have been dis- charged, but attached to each was a pencil memorandum by the deputy clerk assigned to the court, on which the notation, "Fined $100 and costs" had been crossed out and the word "discharged" substituted. Attaches of the office said that that indicated that a fine had been levied and then remitted.

Frankie Pope Freed.

Frankie Pope, north side gambler, was freed of a charge of contempt yes- terday by Circuit Judge Joseph Burke when he swore that he was not the owner of the Aquarium Social club, a gambling resort at 514 Diversey park- way, but only a member.

He also denied that under the alias of Joseph Sanders he had signed an affidavit that there was no gambling in the place, on the strength of which Judge Burke issued a temporary in- junction restraining police from inter- fering with the operation of the club.

Attorney John J. Byrne, who ob- tained the injunction, took the wit- ness stand and testified that Pope was not the "Sanders" who had retained him in the case.

Judge Burke ordered Assistant Cor- poration Counsels William Daley and Otto F. Weiner, who represented the city in the injunction case and the contempt matter growing out of it, to send a complete transcript of the testi- mony to the state's attorney, with the recommendation that if evidence of perjury is found, the matter be pre- sented to the grand jury. Gambling apparatus seized in the club was also turned over to the state's attorney.

BRITAIN CHEERS HOOVER ORDER TO CUT NAVAL COSTS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Information received in London this evening to the effect that the United States is going to slash its naval building program when shown to various members of the house of commons in the lobby was hailed by men of all parties as a most significant move in behalf of world peace.

"It is the most encouraging news concerning international disarmament that we have heard in a long time," exclaimed Sir John Simon.

"It is splendid," said Sir William Jowitt, attorney general.

E. F. Wise, one of the left wing Labor leaders, said America is setting an example Great Britain would sure- ly follow if the Socialists are returned to power in the coming election. Com- ment from both Conservatives and Liberals also suggested that Ameri- ca's example would be found worth following by Britain, no matter what party is in power after the coming election.

LOWER MEDICAL COST IS PLEA AT N.U. ANNIVERSARY

Doctors were urged to reduce the cost of medical treatment, with a re- gard for the economic status of the patient, by Dr. James G. Carr, pro- fessor of medicine, who spoke before a group of medical students yester- day at the celebration of the seventy- third anniversary of the Northwest- ern medical school. The exercises were held in the Archibald Church Medical library in the Montgomery Ward memorial building on McKin- lock campus.

The increasing costs of medical at- tention are largely due to the physi- cians themselves, according to Dr. Carr. The public in recent years, he said, had been prone to overlook mounting expenses, and the doctors had grown careless in their own obli- gations to take into consideration the patients' financial resources. Dr. Carr urged a stand for fairness in all charges.

The general practitioner, according to Dr. Carr, has been injured by the modern tendency toward specializa- tion, which has increased the financial burden on the patient. Much of the work that falls within the care of the specialist would be better done by the general practitioner, who can see the patient oftener, the professor pointed out.

PLEA OF FORMER CANAL LAWYERS HEARD BY JUDGE

Three more former sanitary district attorneys pleaded for a reconsideration of their cases yesterday before Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, sitting as com- missioner for the Illinois Supreme court. Judge Taylor was hearing ob- jections to his report recommending punishment for lawyers who took pay from the district without rendering commensurate service. The hearings are part of the proceedings brought by the Chicago Bar association against 56 lawyers who, it was alleged, profit- ed by the padded pay rolls of the "whopee régime."

Maclay Hoyne, head of the law de- partment of the sanitary district for the years 1927 and 1928, was recommended in Judge Taylor's report to be sus- pended from practice for two years. Attorney Grover Niemeyer yesterday pleaded that Hoyne was guilty of mis- judgment but not of moral turpitude, as charged by the court. Attorneys George H. Mason, recommended dis- barred, and Harry J. Berman, recom- mended suspended for one year, were represented yesterday by Attorney George Cook. He asserted that both men had stood ready to work for the sanitary district at any time and held that they were not responsible if they were not given actual work to do.

STATE AUDITOR FACES COURT IN BANK CASE TODAY

Grand Jury to Continue Probe in Waukegan.

With the return to Waukegan today of Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady it is expected that State Auditor Oscar Nelson will post a bond on the indictment charging him with misfeasance in office because he allowed the Waukegan State bank to remain open until last June 17.

According to State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county, Mr. Nelson will be arraigned today with John Murray Connors, former vice president of the bank, who is charged with making unauthorized loans to himself, and Milton Smith, former vice president of the bank, who was indicted on charges of larceny on the grounds that he withdrew deposits of his relatives after the bank was closed.

The Lake county grand jury will be in session today. Attorney Maurice J. Freedman of Chicago will be a witness. Freedman and his partner, Attorney Lewis Schaffer, who was arrested on Monday on a charge of perjury and released yesterday on a $15,000 bond, filed a suit against the bank immediately after it was closed. Prosecutor Smith said he intended to hunt the source of their advance information that the bank was to be closed. He said a perjury indictment would be asked against Schaffer.

Other Witnesses for Jury.

Other witnesses subpoenaed to appear before the Lake county grand jury for today are Ward Castle, who was a director of the former National Bank of the Republic; William H. Miller, former vice president of the same bank; Mrs. Dorothy Walker, who was secretary to Carl R. Stenger when the latter was chairman of the board of directors of the Waukegan bank, and H. A. Donovan, publicity agent for the former National Bank of the Republic, who is alleged to have broadcast statements that the Waukegan bank was one of 17 banks affiliated with the Chicago institution.

State Auditor Nelson, announced closing yesterday morning of the Union State Bank of South Chicago at the request of its board of directors. Depletion of cash and secondary reserves was given as the reason for the closing. The bank's capital was listed at $250,000, with a surplus of $100,000 and deposits of $1,900,000.

Gives Statement on Bank.

A statement of the condition of the Roosevelt-Bankers State bank, 400 East 47th street, closed on Aug. 2, 1930, was made yesterday by Auditor Nelson. Indictments are pending against Samuel Flower, Alexander Flower, and seven other former officials of that bank, charging them with defrauding depositors of more than $2,500,000.

GAS RATE HEARINGS START TODAY; MAY LAST SIX MONTHS

Charles W. Hadley, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, yesterday indicated that the hearings may continue for six months on the rate reductions offered by gas companies which will blend artificial gas with natural gas piped in from Texas.

"The people," said Mr. Hadley, "are urging continually that the proposed price changes be made effective at once. The commission is opposed to any extended continuance as it realizes the great volume of work to be done in these cases. The hearings may last six months."

The chairman's remarks were addressed to attorneys for various towns who sought a continuance of the hearing on the offer of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois to reduce its domestic rates approximately 2 per cent after it begins the delivery of the mixed gas to 96 communities in northern Illinois.

It was finally decided that the hearing on the petition will be started today.

HOOVER ORDERS 60 MILLION CUT IN NAVY BUDGET

Resents Disclosure of Plan to Public.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A drastic cut in naval expenditures for the 1933 fiscal year was ordered by President Hoover today as a part of a general program to slash 300 millions from the estimated cost of operating the government during the twelvemonth period beginning July 1 next. The navy department was asked to slash $60,000,000 from its 1932 budget, bringing it down to $340,000,000. Other cuts during the next twenty-one month period are expected to bring the total naval economies during that period up to $100,000,000.

Disclosure in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York Times today of the impending cuts served to precipitate a first class "row" between the White House and the navy department which may have widespread reverberations in the next congress. Although the White House maintained official silence, it was made known in unmistakable terms that President Hoover was deeply resentful of what he considered a navy attempt to override his economy plans by appealing to the public through the national press.

Congressional Comment Divided.

Just what will be the outcome of this newest split between the President and his naval officers remains to be seen. Congressional comment was divided, Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval affairs committee saying he would introduce a bill to start the fleet toward parity with Great Britain regardless of White House attempts to kill such legislation. He asserted that "American reduction of its naval establishment for economy reasons was unjustified" and would "stultify the much heralded accomplishments of the London naval conference." Chairman Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.] of the house appropriations committee backed up the President.

Sidetracks New Destroyers.

The White House economy moves included paring of navy expenditures this year by scrapping completed arrangements for laying down six new destroyers. Contracts for five of a program of eleven ships were awarded today, two going to Massachusetts, one to Washington, and another to Maine. Previously a contract had been awarded to the New York navy yard. Savings effected will amount to $6,000,000 this year and about $14,000,000 next year.

The President also has smothered navy plans for winning White House approval of a projected 130 million dollar new warship authorization and construction program which would have added $25,000,000 to the navy's budget for 1933 and started the United States on the way toward a London treaty navy and tonnage parity with Great Britain.

As a result of the voluntary naval building holiday initiated by the administration today as well as other economy moves, the American fleet apparently is slated for a drop to third place in world naval rankings by the end of next year. At the end of 1931 the United States will have 53 per cent of its treaty quota in under-age auxiliary ships—cruisers, destroyers, aircraft carriers and submarines—whereas the British navy will have nearly 77 per cent of its quota built and the Japanese 88 per cent of theirs.

By the end of 1932 if no new warships are laid down in addition to the five destroyers for which contracts were awarded today the United States will rank third to Japan. On that date the United States will have less than 69 per cent of its treaty quota in under-age auxiliaries, while Great Britain will have 91 per cent, and Japan 113 per cent. The ratios on that date would be 10 for the United States, 15 for the British empire and 12.7 for Japan.

Policeman Is Run Down and Killed by Street Car

Policeman Joseph McGuirk, 65 years old, of 5415 North Artesian avenue, was struck and fatally injured by a north bound Lincoln avenue street car last night at Lincoln and Balmoral avenues. He was hurrying to catch another car when the accident occurred. He died on the way to the Swedish Covenant hospital. Policeman McGuirk had been on the force 44 years. He had been assigned to the Des Plaines street station.

HEIR OF PIONEER SENTENCED FOR JEWEL HOLDUP

Victor Varner, 23 years old, grandson of Capt. Allen Varner, who during the civil war organized a company of Union soldiers and later was a leading Illinois cattleman, was refused probation yesterday by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court. He was sentenced to one to ten years in Pontiac reformatory on a charge of grand larceny. He originally was charged with robbery as a result of the holdup of a jewelry salesman.

Varner, who comes from Indianola, Ill., had hidden his identity under the name of Victor Woods. It was not until State Senator James J. Barbour of Evanston, appearing as his attorney, called the father of the defendant to the witness stand that his real identity was known.

The father testified that the youth left home several years ago because of difficulty with his stepmother. He said that his two sons, one of them the defendant, were to inherit the Varner homestead under the terms of the grandfather's will.

Judge Denies Probation.

"Senator, what do you want me to do?" Judge Fisher asked the attorney after the latter had started to outline the family history of the defendant.

"You don't expect that I can excuse the robberies, even though this boy comes from a fine and patriotic family. I can't possibly consider probation, even though this defendant is distantly related to you through marriage. The best I can do and will do is to reduce the charge from robbery to larceny."

Aid Gets 1 to 20 Years.

John Roberts, co-defendant with Varner, was sentenced to one to twenty years and Hyman Rotskoff, 17 years old, the third member of the gang, accused of eight robberies, was sentenced to one to ten years. Roberts received the more severe sentence because he shot at one of the victims. Varner and Rotskoff said they took part only in the robbery of Ernest G. Condia, 3954 Drexel boulevard, a jewelry salesman, on July 4. The loot in this holdup amounted to $1,500.

"I did not profit by my crime, because the jewelry was stolen from me," said Varner. "However, I do not know the name of the man who stole the jewelry after I took it from Candia."

CRIMINAL COURT.

Victor Varner and Hyman Rotskoff, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory; John Roberts, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Harry Fisher.

John Malloy, robbery, sentenced to life in the penitentiary under the habitual criminal act, by Judge G. Fred Rush.

CONGRESS TO BE ASKED FOR 2½ OR 3 CENTS POSTAGE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Postmaster General Walter F. Brown today stated that he plans to ask the next congress to raise the rates on first class postal matter from 2 cents to either 2½ or 3 cents in an effort to balance an annual deficit in excess of 100 million dollars.

"Basing the estimate on the present volume of first class mail matter," Mr. Brown said, "a half cent raise will bring in an additional $60,000,000 yearly, and with a one cent increase the deficit will be more than balanced by the extra 135 millions."

According to Mr. Brown, the gross deficit for the fiscal year ending last June 30 was 150 million dollars, and the net loss was a little more than 100 millions. The gross deficit for 1929 was $86,000,000 and for 1930 $98,000,000.

EXECUTIVE ENDS LIFE; PENS NOTE AS POISON ACTS

Chester M. Angell, 46 years old, vice president of the Vesta Consolidated corporation, makers of batteries, swallowed poison yesterday in the offices of the concern at 6501 West 65th street and died soon afterward. The bottle was found near the body.

There was a note, which apparently had been written after the poison began to take effect. It was addressed to Mr. Angell's wife, Vesta, and asked her forgiveness for his act. Most of the writing was illegible. Investigators were told that Mr. Angell had been despondent since the death a year ago of his 6 year old daughter, Betty. He is survived by his widow and two daughters. His home was at 416 7th avenue, La Grange.

Mr. Angell was an electrical engineer. He became a research engineer for the Vesta corporation in 1917 and was later factory manager, vice president, and president. He became vice president in June when the company was merged with another and became the Vesta Consolidated.

FOUND HANGED IN FOREST.

Julius S. Simon, 56 years old, who disappeared on Friday from his home at 852 Fullerton avenue, was found hanging from a tree yesterday in the Edgebrook forest preserve. A note to his wife said he was "tired of life."

BOAT TRIP SHOWS LAKE SHIPS CAN USE WATERWAY

The possibility of building lake steamers capable of passing through the Illinois waterway system and the Mississippi river to New Orleans was suggested yesterday by engineers following the trip through the Chicago river of the Chester, the "bridge ducking" freighter owned by the Ford Motor company.

The Chester, a craft of 2,100 tons cargo capacity, was built for somewhat similar service. Her regular run is from the Ford plant at Detroit to an assembly plant at Edgewater, N. J., by way of Lake Erie and the New York barge canal.

Pilot House Sinks for Bridges.

She draws only 9 feet 6 inches, fully loaded, and in order to pass beneath the low bridges on the canal is constructed with a retractable superstructure. The pilot house sinks into a well in the deck and the funnels, ventilators, and other projecting parts are laid flat on the deck on approaching a bridge.

"The Chester should have no difficulty in navigating the Illinois waterway as far as Brandon road," said C. R. Andrew, principal engineer in the office of Col. W. C. Weeks, war department engineer in charge of the Illinois waterway. "Below that point she probably would be able to go down the Illinois and Mississippi without difficulty in times of high water.

Seaway Minimum 9 Feet.

"The inland waterway system was designed with a minimum depth of 9 feet. Some allowance must be made for clearance, however, so that at ordinary stages of the river navigation would not be safe for a boat drawing more than 8 feet, or 8½ feet at the most."

The Chester loses approximately 30 tons carrying capacity for each inch by which her draft is decreased.

The inland waterway system, including that portion connecting Chicago and New Orleans, was designed primarily for barge traffic, and the unwieldy barges are not safe for the rough navigation on the open waters of the great lakes. The advantage of such a vessel as the Chester, engineers pointed out, is that the expense of transferring cargo from a lake steamer to a barge would be saved by a steamer capable of negotiating the waterway system.

Mayor Cermak, City Engineer Myron B. Reynolds, members of the council committee on harbors and bridges, and representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce were aboard the Chester yesterday when she steamed up the river beneath closed bridges.

In Minor Bridge Accident.

The craft met with a slight accident at the State street bridge when the current caught her bow and swung her out of midchannel. She scraped against the south leaf of the bridge and tore about twenty feet of her rail away before the pilot cleared her. Neither bridge nor steamer was damaged seriously.

The Chester is an oil burner, driven by steam turbines geared to her twin screws. She brought a cargo of 4,000,000 cans of soup to Chicago, making the trip from Camden, N. J., in eight days. Her speed is from 12½ to 15 miles per hour.

UNITED AIR LINES CLAIM RECORD WITH DOZEN NIGHT PLANES

With twelve transport planes in flight simultaneously on the transcontinental, intermountain, and Pacific coast routes, the United Air lines last night claimed a world's record for the number of planes operating on schedule at night, carrying passengers and mail. The night flying on the lines of the one company exceeded that of all European nations combined, officials claimed.

Never less than twelve planes of the United system are in the air at one time during the twenty-four hours, and during the day the number of planes flying on schedule is eighteen. A fleet of 121 planes, 151 pilots, and a ground personnel of 600 is maintained.

FORMER CALIPH ACCEPTS SEAT IN JERUSALEM

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The former caliph and sultan of Turkey, the spiritual head of the entire Moslem world, who has been marking time at Nice, has agreed to resume his pontifical duties with temporal powers at Jerusalem. This was learned in London today.

Moulana Shaukat Ali, Moslem leader and head of the pan-Islamic movement, who is also a delegate to the India round table conference, has carefully maneuvered negotiations for several months and is now returning to London with a formal statement from the former caliph to the British government.

Fear Opposition to Move.

The formation of a union of 300,000,000 Moslems under a reëstablished caliphate, many observers point out, would be greatly advantageous to Great Britain economically and would simplify her problem in the east, but the scheme threatens not only to wreck the Indian conference, but also to rekindle the smoldering Arab-Jewish question in Palestine.

The Indian Moslem delegates to the round table conference are uneasy, for other Indians bitterly resent the Moslems turning from Indian nationalism to a pan-Islamic union and some good explanations are going to be necessary.

Caliph Accepts Terms.

Rumors of a reëstablishment of the caliphate have been current for some time, and today the word came that the former caliph was satisfied with the terms. Previously he had been holding out to get an agreement to his liking. The Palestine Moslems also had to be assuaged, and this was the most difficult part of Shaukat Ali's task.

It is learned that only a few weeks ago the grand mufti and his followers were so dissatisfied with the British mandate in Palestine that they held a conference to decide on steps to be taken. It was agreed that Mahatma Gandhi's brand of noncoöperation was as good as any other method of getting satisfaction. Shaukat Ali conferred with them on his way to London from India and finally got them to agree not to start the movement before he had a chance to negotiate.

SMASH WINDOW, ROB SHOP.

BROTHERS MEET HERE FOR FIRST TIME IN 30 YEARS

At the Park Row station yesterday two brothers were brought together after a separation of more than thirty years. One is the Rev. Mansel B. Green, rector of the Church of the Good Samaritan in Oak Park. The other is Wilton Green, retired government employé, of Moose Jaw, Sask. Each learned of the other's whereabouts through the medium of a Chicago news story carried in Canadian papers.

The brothers were boys together in Manitoba forty years ago. When he read the Chicago story of the wanderings of Mansel B. Green after he left his family to join the Royal Northwest mounted, and who finally became a clergyman, Wilton Green wrote to Chicago, to the home of the clergyman at 1112 North Humphrey avenue. Another brother, Spencer, saw a reprint of the same article at his home in Grand Junction, Colo., and also communicated with the other members of his family.

DIES OF RAILWAY INJURIES.

Archie Williams, 59 years old, 7812 West 86th street, Bedford Park, died yesterday at the Wesley Memorial hospital from injuries he suffered Monday night when crushed between a freight car and a crane in Argo.

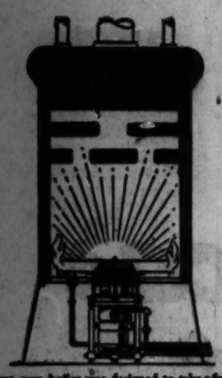
NEW OIL BURNER saves with RADIANT HEAT

Radiant heat... giving new and greater economy... new simplicity... new quiet... harnessed for the first time by any oil burner selling as low as



Your own boiler was designed to take advantage of radiant heat. Nearly 50% of all the heat your boiler absorbs is radiant heat energy from a luminous flame. That's what this new Petro-Nokol gives you... ideal, radiant heat that saves fuel. And for further economy... this radiant flame is located right at the grate level... where it belongs... where the coolest water absorbs the maximum of heat.

At 60 miles an hour... through two panes of glass ...on the coldest day, you can feel the radiant heat from a hot-fire 50 feet from the truck! You can't see it or smell it. It's just pure heat rays. The new Petro-Nokol puts this radiant heat to work in your boiler.

IT'S here... on display today... the new oil burner that saves with radiant heat. The moment you see it in operation, you will realize why it is so much more economical. So utterly dependable. So perfectly quiet.

RADIANT HEAT CUTS COST

Radiant heat... the same intense heat you feel from the summer sun... is the ideal form of heat. No smoke. No odor. No sound. Just pure heat rays. To harness these and put them to work in your boiler is the supreme achievement of Petro-Nokol engineers.

Now... at the lowest prices in oil burner history, the cost of heating homes with oil is reduced even further below the cost of heating with other fuels. And this new low-cost oil heat is assured for a generation at least, due to the world-wide overwhelming surplus of oil. In many cases, this new saving over other fuels pays the whole cost of the oil burner installation in a few years!

SAVES ON DOMESTIC HOT WATER, TOO

While you are heating your home for less than with other fuels, you can also enjoy all the domestic hot water for bath and kitchen you can use. Winter and summer. As hot as you want it...at a lower cost than with any other automatic system. A special heating element which operates with the Petro-Nokol makes this possible.

You will want to see this new Radiant Rotary Oil Burner... that surpasses in economy, simplicity and quietness last year's model that broke all sales records. With all its new advantages... the price remains the same... $295. And a $25 deposit starts it working in your heating plant... saving you money... giving you new, undreamed of comfort... and complete relief from all care of your heating plant. Be sure to see it today!

FARMER FREED IN 3 DAY TRIAL ON CRUELTY CHARGE

Jurors Find He Did Not Abuse Pigs.

WM. SCHROEDER.

William Schroeder, Wheeling farmer, was acquitted yesterday by a jury in Judge John Prystalski's court of a charge of cruelty to farm animals brought by Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin of Lake Forest. The trial lasted three days and Mrs. McLaughlin was the principal prosecution witness.

Mrs. McLaughlin was not present when the jury, after more than three hours' deliberation, returned its verdict. Schroeder smiled broadly as Judge Prystalski read the verdict. Schroeder joined the crowded courtroom in the ripple of merriment when the judge invited the jurymen to "return tomorrow to what is commonly called the bull pen."

Tells of Visit to Farm.

On Monday Mrs. McLaughlin testified that on a visit to Schroeder's farm in December she discovered that the farmer fed his animals improperly and did not give them adequate shelter.

In his closing argument Attorney R. H. Miller devoted most of his time to a personal attack upon Mrs. McLaughlin. During the attack she was seen to whisper to her attorney, Max L. Libby.

"That woman trespassed on Schroeder's land and then ran in a passion to swear out a warrant against him for abusing his pigs," charged Miller.

"I resent the defense counsel's personal allusions to me, but I won't do said after the jury retired. "It may seem silly for me to be here, but the issue is not silly. I love animals, even pigs. Schroeder wants to sue me for malicious prosecution. That's the only reason he appealed a $10 fine."

Schroeder was found guilty of cruelty to animals by a jury of his neighbors before Justice of the Peace Sengstock of Morton Grove in July, and was fined $10 and cost. He appealed the case to the Criminal court.

MAIL CARRIER WILL RETIRE TODAY AFTER 39 YEARS' SERVICE

ERNST MEINHARDT

Thirty-nine years of carrying mail for Uncle Sam will end today for Postman Ernst Meinhardt of the Armour postal station, 3019 Indiana avenue. Friends and associates of the veteran mail carrier will gather at the station to wish him well. Meinhardt is 63 years old.

Born in Chicago at 2141 Archer avenue, Meinhardt has lived at the address all his life. He started carrying mail in the old Washington park district in 1892. During the last thirty years Meinhardt has been carrying letters and parcels to the Michael Reese hospital and the surrounding neighborhood. He is unmarried.

Meinhardt's friends have compiled statistics on his mail carrying. During the thirty-nine years they estimate he walked more than four times around the world, and wore out sixty-five uniforms, ninety pairs of shoes, thirty pairs of rubbers, and eight pairs of rubber boots.

IOWAN'S 6 MOS. SPREE OF CRIME ENDS IN ASYLUM

Adel, Ia., Sept. 29.—(AP)—John M. Smith, former candidate for the Iowa governorship, accused of plotting to defraud insurance companies of $60,000, today was lodged in the men's reformatory at Anamosa as criminally insane.

A jury in Judge W. S. Cooper's Dallas county District court deliberated ten minutes and then returned a verdict of insanity.

Judge Cooper, in pronouncing the judgment, stipulated that upon Smith's return to sanity he shall be returned to the sheriff of Dallas county for trial.

Today's verdict temporarily closes the case, although state agents will continue investigating the mystery, which includes Smith's "disappearance" Feb. 3, when his burning truck was found near Denison, Ia., with a charred body in it.

13 CALIFORNIA CITIES VOTE FOR AQUEDUCT BONDS

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Thirteen cities of southern California, forming the metropolitan district, voted overwhelmingly today in favor of a $220,000,000 bond issue for the construction of an aqueduct to bring Colorado river water to their section.

The aqueduct, 226 miles long, will require six years for construction, and it is estimated $100,000,000 will be spent in wages for an average of 10,000 men.

Ask Your Druggist What to Do for Varicose Veins

Your druggist will tell you:

"Rub the surface gently towards the body with Moone's Emerald Oil. Makes your leg feel better even while you're doing it, and in minor cases often brings surprising relief.

"Then bind your leg with a bandage three inches wide, and long enough to give the necessary support. Start winding the bandage from the ankle upwards—that's the way the blood flows in the veins.

"Any veins broken? Any ulcers? Emerald Oil will heal them right up. Make your leg as good as new. It doesn't stain, so you needn't be afraid of getting it on your clothes.

"If Moone's Emerald Oil doesn't help you more than anything else you've ever tried, just bring it back and I'll gladly return your money."

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

TAXES AND HARD TIMES.

While individuals and private commercial enterprises everywhere during the last two years have been compelled to reduce expenditures to meet impaired incomes, one has looked in vain for any of the units of government to undertake to cut its cloth to fit the purses of its people.

On the contrary, in the holy name of unemployment relief, politicians have saddled huge new burdens on the taxpayers without in the least letting up on any of the multitudinous services that have become governmental commonplaces and which there has been an assumption the people needed or demanded.

There is rapidly growing evidence that, altogether aside from the conditions due to the depression of the last two years, the tax load has reached a point beyond the capacity of many to pay.

A study of Wisconsin's delinquent tax situation, just compiled by R. O. Wipperman of Milwaukee, points to that conclusion.

Total delinquent taxes in Wisconsin in 1920 were $3,251,093. In 1930 the delinquent list was $15,263,610, and in 1931 the delinquency, including almost a million dollars of delinquent special assessments, was $22,727,335.

It probably is not possible to dispute that the huge unpaid general tax for the present year may be attributed to the depression, but such explanation will not account for the almost fivefold increase between 1920 and 1930, a period in which the country reached heights of prosperity never before dreamed of, and during which agricultural Wisconsin with its skilled dairymen was serving as an example for the nation in the advantages of combining intelligent animal husbandry with diversified crop farming.

The increase in delinquent taxes during this golden decade is surpassed only by the increase in tax levies, which grew from $89,988,569 in 1920 to $184,021,966 in 1930, a statement of public revenue which does not include $34,128,678 of income tax collected from Wisconsin citizens by the federal government. In addition there was a vast increase in the decade in bonded indebtedness of counties, cities, villages, and towns.

In short, while Wisconsin's population increased 11 per cent in the decade and the assessed value of its taxable property increased 49 per cent, taxes increased 104 per cent.

It is a fine thing to have a paved road in front of every farmhouse, and the public luxuries of a generation ago have become the necessities of today, but the farmer will take no joy in the road if he loses his farm to pay for it, and even necessities can be dispensed with.

There is never a special pleader at legislative halls nor council chambers for the taxpayer, although politicians profess to hold him in the highest regard. On the rare occasions when the lawmaker releases the pressure at some point it is to apply the squeeze harder somewhere else. The tax burden gets no better rapidly.

A delinquent tax list of more than $22,000,000 for 1931 for Wisconsin with its high percentage of skilled and thrifty workers in the cities and its successful agricultural sections is prima facie evidence that the taxing authorities are out of step with the population.

There will be no relief merely in finding some other person or some other wealth to tax. The answer is to stop spending.

A legislature which would wait a few years to let the taxable wealth catch up with expenditures would have something to talk about, even better than a grade crossing campaign.

PERJURED ALIBIS.

The Association of Grand Jurors of New York County, through its organ, the Panel, is asking candidates for the 1932 legislature to pledge support for a bill to check perjured alibis. It is a device of criminal defense to spring alibis so late that they cannot be properly investigated by the prosecution. The proposed bill requires two days' notice, which seems to us to be about as moderate a safeguard as could be asked and might, with all due respect to the rights of the defendant, be considerably extended.

The objection to notice chiefly made when the bill was discussed and failed to pass in the late session was that an unscrupulous prosecution would be given an opportunity to bully witnesses supporting the alibi. Conceding this to be a possibility, it cannot weigh heavily against the need of the state for protection against the defeat of justice by perjured alibis. We doubt the objection was taken seriously by the New York assembly except as an excuse to refuse the measure, and the Panel in an editorial, part of which we reprint as Editorial of the Day, gives a strong opinion as to the influence which brought about its defeat.

Ohio has an alibi notice law enacted in 1929 on the initiative of the Ohio Bar association. We suggest the Illinois bar and other agencies interested in bettering the administration of justice in this state consider appropriate legislation on this feature of criminal practice. It is not likely to pass without strong support.

THE OPPOSITION TO PROHIBITION.

Just as the largest states with the most numerous and active people are opposed to federal prohibition so also are the largest and most influential organizations of citizens. The American Federation of Labor is opposed to Volstead and the eighteenth amendment. The American Legion has asked for the submission of the question of repeal. The American Bar association polls return a majority against the amendment and the enforcement act. Citizens and states most active in the nation's affairs cannot justify the prohibition as a federal government doctrine and cannot condone the consequences of the attempts at enforcement.

People who still support the experiment and have confidence in it are misled by a dictatorship which has learned to enjoy the dictation and by their own illusions. They define good living for themselves and they think it possible and desirable to make these definitions binding by law. If the states opposed to federal prohibition were to be lost to the nation nine-tenths of its activities, its strength and its revenue would be lost. The nation lives by the work of the people whose wishes with respect to prohibition have been ignored by government under the control of dry dictation.

WASHINGTON EXPOSED.

A number of books, of which "Washington Merry-Go-Round" may stand as the type, have enjoyed a wide reading in recent months. These works purport to give the low-down on personalities and life at the capital. If the volumes contain any truths of importance with which newspaper readers are not familiar the fact reflects discredit upon the work of the Washington correspondents and their staffs. The fact that the books have had a wide circulation is in itself an evidence of lack of confidence on the part of the public in much of the Washington correspondence which is being purveyed.

Social and political climbers set the tone of Washington. Only the most exceptional men and women can capture the social citadels by storm; the rest, if they succeed at all, must do so by making themselves as agreeable as possible to those on the higher rungs. The Washington correspondent who puts his professional duty first is, therefore, marked for failure in the one thing in which ninety-nine of every hundred men and women whom he encounters in Washington regard as the chief end in life. It takes strength to resist so overwhelming a current of opinion. The easier thing as well as the pleasanter thing is to conform to the rest, to be agreeable in order to be acceptable.

Much of the newspaper writing from Washington clearly reflects this surrender on the part of the correspondents. You may read their letters for a year without discovering once that Washington is dominated by a silly ass social code borrowed by our state department secretariat from the British court. You may never be told, directly or by innuendo, that in Washington is assembled more than a normal number of knaves and dolts. Readers of many newspapers are therefore much puzzled. They observe that the acts of congress and the executive departments are frequently stupid, to say no more, but nothing which they have read about Washington in their newspapers has given them the obvious explanation.

Men who are determined to make themselves agreeable avoid saying many things about many people. They must be nice in the sense in which old ladies use the word. They must not give offense. Accordingly, Washington, to many correspondents, is filled with sacred cows, personages whose true natures and true motives must not be disclosed.

Newspaper readers know that thoroughbreds do not produce milk wagon plugs. If Washington officialdom was as exalted intellectually and morally as much of the correspondence suggests, it is impossible to explain the quality of legislation and administration which is produced. It is in search of that explanation that readers have turned to the anonymous authors. If the Washington reporters are resentful that their field has been invaded they have only themselves to blame.

Editorial of the Day

THE ALIBI BILL.

[The Panel, New York.]

Opposition in the New York assembly to the alibi bill was headed by a lawyer, and presumably his support came from other lawyers, with lay members uninformed or bemused. The excessively high percentage of lawyers in the New York legislature who practice criminal law more or less has frequently been a subject of adverse comment. The action of the assembly in killing the alibi bill, aimed at willful perjury, will not tend to increase the respect of thinking citizens for the lawyer legislators, at least in the lower house.

The last minute alibi defense in about 98 per cent of the cases is an act of sheer treachery by the defense lawyer toward his opponent representing the people. If the defendant had a good alibi he would have offered it almost invariably at the preliminary hearing before the committing magisirate, or would have informed the district attorney before action was taken toward an indictment. No man with an honest alibi defense will wish to keep it secret while he goes through the annoyance of committal, indictment, and long delay before trial. He will offer it when arrested and ask the police or prosecutor to help him find his witnesses.

To urge the bugaboo that the police or prosecutor, in the case of a defendant with a criminal record, might deliberately frighten into silence honest alibi witnesses is absurd, but that will probably be the alibi offered for their action by the assemblymen who killed the alibi bill. Many cases are tried in New York state every court day in which the alibi defense is not offered, and the police and prosecutors have known from the first who the defense witnesses would be. If alibi witnesses are so easily to be frightened—presumably—why are not other witnesses similarly timid?

Voters for assemblymen in the coming election should demand that candidates declare their position on the alibi bill.

SPOTTED SKIN.

We get letters about vitiligo at the rate of about one a week, and this convinces us that the disease must be widespread.

In this condition there are several patches or blotches of white skin, scattered here and there on the face, neck, body, or limbs. The patches are not inflamed; they do not itch, burn, or pain; they lead to no ulceration nor to anything else of consequence; they are blemishes, and that is the sum total of their offending.

About the only advice we can give is to tell people to dye the spots to about the color of the surrounding skin. Any person can acquire the knack of keeping the skin at about the proper shade.

For this purpose a home made watery solution of juice from ordinary walnut hulls suffices, particularly if a little alum is added to the solution to mordant it. A recipe sometimes used is:

1 part fluid extract of walnut.
2 parts 5 per cent solution of carmine in aromatic spirits of ammonia.
2 parts alcohol.

The ammonia acts as a mordant and alum can be substituted for it.

One correspondent wrote me of some experiments in curing it that were being made in a university medical school, but no proof that they had found a cure has appeared in the literature.

The writer wonders if some of these cases are not related to the condition known as white spots on the nails. The nails are semi-transparent, and their normal color is the result of the color of the underlying tissues being viewed through the nail. In a white spot area the nail has lost its transparency and the pink color of the blood and tissue in the nailbed cannot be seen.

The color of the pink skin of a good complexion is due to the blood and tissues below showing through the semi-transparent skin. The color of such a skin is due, therefore, to the tissues below and not to the skin itself. One wonders if the white spots in such cases may not be merely spots in which the skin has lost its transparency and, therefore, in which the color of the underlying tissue is not transmitted. White spots on nails indicate that some irritation, inflammation, or infection operates at times on the nailbed when the nail is being formed. Prevention consists in avoiding the irritation or injury to the nailbed, be it chemical, bacterial, or mechanical. Is it possible that white spots on the skin result from some local irritation—chemical, bacterial, or physical—and that if such could be found and avoided the white spots would disappear?

In the tropics they have a skin disease called pinta. It is due to a fungus. In this disease the fungus first causes an irritation which results in excess pigmentation. Then, in the midst of the deeply pigmented areas, white blotches make their appearance. These are vitiligo patches, due to a fungus which causes irritation and this, in turn, causes extra pigmentation in some areas and white spots in others.

ASK HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

A Careful Neighbor writes: A neighbor of ours has three children who have whooping cough. They allow their children to play with any child they meet. What can be done about this?

REPLY.

Ask your health department for help. They may find that the children are no longer infective. If there is danger they have the right to take the children to a hospital and to punish the parents, if quarantine laws are being violated.

STATIONARY ENGINEER.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—I am desirous of becoming a stationary engineer and require the following information: In order to take the examination for a license what is necessary in the line of experience? How much schooling is necessary? What are the age limits? Who gives the examination; when; and where? Can you recommend any certain books I should study as a preparation for an examination?

J. J. T.

Replying to this query I wish to submit the following extract from the city ordinance: "An applicant for an engineer's license shall be at least 21 years of age, temperate, of good habits; he shall have had at least two years' practical experience as a fireman, engineer or machinist in the operation or construction of steam engines and boilers; all of which shall be vouched for in writing by two citizens of Chicago." There are no education requirements prescribed in the city ordinance, but the applicant is given a written and practical test on stationary engineering work. Examinations are conducted at frequent intervals by the board in their rooms 1008, City Hall, and applicants are notified several days in advance of the date of examination. The board does not recommend any particular books for study.

H. G. McMAHON, Secretary,
Board of Examining Engineers.

PROBATE OF ESTATE.

Sullivan, Ill., Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A relative has a case pending in the Chicago Probate court. An itemized total account of expenses incurred for medical and funeral services has long ago been paid by him. He resides in New York. The court accepted the schedule of expense and remitted a check to apply to the payment of medical services only, but expressed a doubtful opinion as to allowing funeral expense, on which I suppose they will rule when the case is called. This is presented to us by our lawyer. This lawyer has also provided us with a statement of the estate's finances, which shows a considerable discrepancy. 1. What shall we do to have him render a true balance accounting? 2. Could there possibly be a legal technicality to prevent the court allowing reimbursement for the funeral expenses already paid? 3. What may be the minimum or maximum time within which one may reasonably expect the court's action? 4. May we expect the court will consider economy in administration of this small estate? E. H.

1. If you are not satisfied with the account you should refuse to approve it and should file objections. For hearing on the objections, it may be advisable to employ an attorney.
2. Yes, we are not in a position to say that it is impossible.
3. We are not in a position to say.
4. Yes, but the court's idea may not be the same as yours.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, YOU'LL HAVE to figure it out for yourself. That's the way we have to do everything now. And this time it's whether or not Cal Coolidge is going to be the nominee of the G. O. P. next year. Cal said last time, "I do not choose to run." And we're figuring on that one yet. This time he has an article in the Sat. Eve. Post which most of the news sheets yesterday declared meant that he was not after the White House job this time, but would be kitty-at-the-rat-hole in 1936. We have read Cal's piece in the paper through very carefully and feel convinced that it is a very nice piece and that it runs around and around and around and you come out right where you went in. But one of the pictures has Cal riding the old hay rick down on the farm. That looks as if he's going to run because it's sure to make a big hit with the farmers. But there was no picture of his kissing babies. That looks as if he isn't going to run, because a candidate always puts out pictures of him kissing babies. There's a picture of Cal fishing, and that looks again as if he's thinking of running, because the fisherman vote in this country is pretty big. But, again, there's a picture of Cal in a silk hat, and if old Mister Depression keeps bobbing around the chances of a man who wears a silk hat getting a vote next election are mighty slim. After reading Cal's piece some more we are going to write to him and ask him what he said.

THE CREAM OF THE JEST.

(Hindenburg and Briand Bury War Enmity by Handshake.—Headline.)

Rise up, several million dead Germans,
From the last, long, impregnable trench,
Shake, spectrally, hands with the French.

For your youth that was ground into war-dust,
Now blown into Time's great unrest,
You may have as your guerdon a handshake...
And this is the cream of the jest.

The hands that might well have been offered
Ere war slew your youngest and best
Are withheld until enmity's harvest

Rise up, several million dead Germans,
From the last, long, impregnable trench,
Shake, spectrally, hands with the French!

"DISTANT COUSIN Opens Fight for Wendell Wealth."—The Trib. A cousin may be ever so distant and high hat you all over the place while you're alive, but if you die and leave any money even the most distant cousin will bob up and come jumping right after it.

JIM REED of Missouri has jumped into the ring as another candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency next year, which makes one and twenty-two candidates up to this time, with more arriving every hour. And we can remember away back when the Democrats had to pounce down on somebody, hog tie him and gag him, and say: "Shut up, now; you've got to be the candidate this year, so quit hollering. Somebody's got to be the goat and it might as well be you." Goodness, how times have changed!

"NORTHCLIFFE had gotten and written the story himself."—New York Times. Gotten! Oh dear, dear. The next thing we know the Times will be printing its slogan this way: "All the News That's Fitten to Print."

We're Expecting This Letter Any Minute Now.

Sir: I am sure you will be much interested in a recital of my most embarrassing moment. Really it was something terrible; honestly, I could have gone right through the ground. It was yesterday morning when I opened the news sheets and there—smeared all over the front page I read: "Aluminum Company of America Orders Ten Per Cent Cut in Wages. Company Owned Almost Entirely by Family of Andrew J. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury." Honestly I blushed to my ears, and even including my ears, as I went over to the White House for my daily talk with the President, for, of course, you know he has just set his face quite firmly against a cut in wages. Well, as I met the other members of the cabinet and the President, what do you suppose happened? I had resolved to say nothing about the Aluminum company's cut and I felt sure that everybody else would have too much good taste to refer to the matter or even hint. But just then a market wagon rumbled past the White House and a rooster poked his head out of a cage and crowed: "Cut, cut, cut, ca daw, cut!" Really, it was horrible! You could have knocked me down with a feather! Embarrassed? Oh, oh, oh! Very truly—Uncle Andy.

NIGHT.

The little leaves of the aspen tree
Clatter and whisk incessantly.
The moon cannot get dressed just right,
She tries on clouds throughout the night,
And when a cloud is to her taste
She wears it for a little space.
The pond is mirror for the moon.
The aspens are a flattering croon,
They whisper of her sweet young grace
And rustle patterns for her lace.
When by mistake she dons a shroud,
A massive black and rain-drenched cloud,
The little aspen leaves are still
And night grows softly sad and chill.

P. S. MCDONALD.

SPEAKING of what the stock market did yesterday—or maybe we'd better talk of something else. Have you noticed how short the days are getting?

THEY ALWAYS MEET AUNTIE AT THE FRONT GATE AND UNCLE AT THE BACK

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPT. 30, 1915.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Ten persons are known to have been killed, 150 injured, and property loss exceeding a million dollars caused by the destructive West Indies hurricane which struck this city last night. At intervals a terrific gale swept through the city at a velocity of 120 to 130 miles an hour. Railroad and wire communication with the outside world has been cut off and telephone, electric light and trolley service discontinued in the city.

LONDON.—In one day the Germans fired at one Russian regiment 10,000 large caliber shells. That is at the rate of two and a half shells per man. This happened apparently southeast of Oshmiana. This sudden revival of hurricane fire seems to indicate the Germans are in great haste to reach the line on which they hope to establish themselves for the winter. It probably is legitimate to suppose their haste is dictated by the sudden attack by the allies in the west.

LONDON.—The police have issued an ordinance further restricting the lighting of London at night. When the new order becomes effective Friday night virtually all that remains of directly visible lights in the metropolitan district will disappear. Necessary lights along the water front must be so completely screened as to prevent any reflection on the surface. Lights on vehicles must be further dimmed. Any illumination for advertising purposes is expressly prohibited.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 30, 1901.

MANILA.—A disastrous fight between United States troops and Filipino insurgents occurred in the Island of Samar, near Balangiga.

CANTON, O.—A mysterious attack was made on the guard watching the vault which contains the body of President McKinley, assassinated by Leon Czolgosz. Two men were involved, but their object can only be conjectured. One shot was fired at the strangers by the guard and one of the men attacked with a knife, slashing the guard's clothing. One of the raiders carried a white package believed by some to have contained explosive.

CHICAGO.—After one of the most remarkable automobile trips on record in America, Arthur Jerome Eddy arrived home. Since leaving Chicago on Aug. 1 he has traveled over 2,900 miles, and he believes that breaks all American records. He visited the Buffalo exposition, went through the Berkshire hills, and stopped at numerous cities in New England and on the Atlantic coast. At times 40 miles an hour was made.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 30, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Arthur left Washington for New York accompanied by several members of the cabinet. It is now regarded as certain that he will make no cabinet changes before Oct. 10. The President has informed Attorney General MacVeagh and Postmaster General James that it is his earnest desire that the Star Route thieves and all other public plunderers shall be promptly and vigorously prosecuted and has expressed a wish that both gentlemen remain in the cabinet at least until the prosecutions are ended.

KALAMAZOO, Mich.—Perhaps the most elegant wedding ever held in Kalamazoo was celebrated at the Episcopal church when Charles W. Rogers of New York City, vice president of the Montgomery Palace Stock Car company, and Miss Nannie Billings, daughter of James M. Billings of Denver, Colo., were married by the Rev. Mr. Conover. Mr. Billings formerly was a government contractor at Chicago on the south side, where he and his family are well known.

CHICAGO.—Emory A. Storrs said that he had been asked by Attorney George Scoville, brother-in-law of Charles J. Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield, to assist in the defense of Guiteau. He said that he had declined the request and would not take any part in the case. Mr. Scoville sent word to District Attorney Corkhill in Washington that he would go there next week.

CHILDREN IN CHURCH.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Last Sunday my wife, small daughter and I were seating ourselves in a pew of a well known aristocratic near north side church. With an uneasy feeling we observed the approach of an impeccable appearing usher with a forbidding look.

We were told that for the last fifteen years children had been forbidden this house of God; there was a parking place for these undesirables and one must either park or go elsewhere.

It was not too late, so we drove farther into the real heart of the city and found a church of a great deal less pretense and a real warm welcome. There were a number of other tots in the congregation, but throughout the entire service there was no disturbance from even the least of them.

Our child has been going to church with us regularly and has learned to be quiet there. She has learned to look forward to Sunday [strange as it may seem] and we have no intention of changing this.

Shall we tell our children, "That is the house where Jesus dwells, but you're not wanted there"?

Should we blame modern youth for shying away from the church in preference to houses of vice and crime where there is always an outstretched hand?

WHY JOHNNY PASSED.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The report sent out from the office of the superintendent of schools and published by THE TRIBUNE Sept. 21 was no doubt intended to make every one happy. The number of failures reduced 50 per cent during the last ten years should make the lazy tenant happy, and the $862,000 annual saving to taxpayers should make them happy also. Perhaps "improved methods" have done this. However, about four years ago the teachers received notice from the superintendent's office that failure to pass pupils was looked on with displeasure from the central office, and the teacher who failed to pass pupils was liable to be called in for an interview. In fact, the present superintendent wrote an article for the School Journal advising teachers to pass them on. This warning was, no doubt, more effective than the "improved methods."

Why give special attention to arithmetic? I remember hearing a well known Chicago professor of education say at a teachers' meeting that "the pupils had too much arithmetic." This was several years ago. Perhaps the doses have been diminished.

EX-TEACHER.

THE FLAG WAS STILL THERE.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—For a number of weeks, while driving on the outer drive southward bound and passing the replica of Fort Dearborn, I have noticed that they keep the United States flag on the staff, even as late as midnight. Might I inquire if there is any significance to this; if so, what? MORTON E. HECHT.

A MILWAUKEE INVENTION.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 21.—Kindly permit me a word to your readers who may have been misled by the unfortunate turn of your Milwaukee correspondent's report of the new courthouse committee's meeting Friday afternoon. The heading "Woman's Figure in Courthouse Mural Debated," was based on what appeared in the report. It was not debated, since it had long before been decided that one of the murals was to signalize the fact of the invention of the typewriter by a pioneer Milwaukeean, the late Christopher Latham Sholes [not "Nathan" Sholes]. And the mural artist, Francis Scott Bradford of New York, was explaining how he had treated the figures in his design, quoting Sholes' well known remark about his invention emancipating womankind. The artist suggested that he would like to include one or two other subjects as part of the order for 24 murals he is at work on, and it was this that was placed in the hands of the special committee as murals. The writer of this letter was placed on that committee because he had specialized in Milwaukee history as well as having been formerly a newspaper artist.

I am sorry the frivolous remark of a supervisor about a sewing machine was lugged into the report. It had absolutely no relevancy. The sewing machine was invented in New York, the typewriter in Milwaukee. And there was the added reason for making the typewriter one of the subjects, since the court reporters of America a few years ago, in gratitude to the inventor, subscribed to a fund to place a memorial monument over the grave of Sholes in a Milwaukee cemetery. Nor should your report have helped to poke fun at Sholes. Sholes having himself been a newspaper man and an early day editor. Had his invention been a New York achievement—New York or anywhere else—his name and portrait would have been in all the school books, the same as those of Morse, Fulton, Whitney, and the rest. But Milwaukee, which should claim the credit, is somewhat slow in such things.

FREDERIC HEATH.

A CHECK FOR $2,088.60.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—I have a request to make. Can any one tell me how to say or write out a check for any number like $2,088.60? Would you write, "Twenty Hundred Eighty Eight Dollars and Sixty," or "Two Thousand Eighty Eight Dollars and Sixty?" And why? Thank you. A. L.

THE ACADEMIC ATMOSPHERE.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—The teacher who wrote up on high school schedules knows her groceries. My daughter goes to Carl Schurz High school and of all the smart people there they have her program made as follows: Swimming, lunch, gym. After gym go to your rooms and smell of perspiration the rest of the day. No wonder the teachers are crabby.

10 TRUE BILLS VOTED AGAINST EMBEZZLER WOLF

Walter E. Wolf, who embezzled $3,666,929 from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company while he was a $75 a week employé, was reported named in ten true bills voted yesterday by the grand jury. The indictments are to be returned this afternoon. Each charge of embezzlement carries with it a term of from one to ten years. Wolf's total bonds were placed at $150,000. The true bills are reported to have specified thefts totaling $1,047,000.

WALTER WOLF.

Wolf was not called before the jury by Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers. All officers and employés of the bank were formally absolved of any blame in the huge embezzlement in a formal statement issued on Saturday by State's Attorney Swanson.

Witnesses Before Jury.

Witnesses taken before the grand jury by Prosecutor Ayers to testify against Wolf were Joseph Oberlock, employé of the bank; Milton Stone, auditor for the bank; C. J. Andersen, auditor for the state's attorney's office, and Miss Christine Everding, an employé in the coupon department of the bank, of which Wolf was the head.

Attorney Martin Gorski, former assistant state's attorney, entered the case yesterday. He and Wolf conferred for a long time in the morning. The attorney did not reveal what plans had been made for the defense.

Helps Prosecutor's Inquiry.

Meanwhile Wolf, known as the biggest embezzler in Chicago's banking history, is one of the least spectacular persons accused of major crime. He has aided the prosecutors in untangling the maze of records by which he kept his defalcations hidden. Wolf dresses somberly, despite the fact that millions in stolen securities passed through his hands. He states that he lost the entire sum through stock speculation, that he spent none of it on himself, and that he was alone in the crime.

The beginning of Wolf's stock market gambling was on June 26, 1916, according to State's Attorney Swanson. This was the earliest record found by auditors of a trade between the bank employé and a broker.

It is reported that the prosecution will ask that Wolf's sentences run consecutively instead of concurrently.

Will Act Against Weiss.

At a meeting of a special investigating committee of the Board of Trade yesterday it was decided to prefer charges against David Weiss, who handled $1,000,000 worth of Wolf's stock market deals. The charges, it is said, will involve the ethical side of Weiss' transactions and they may affect his membership in the Board of Trade. He will be given a hearing on Tuesday.

SWEDISH SINGER SUES OTTO KAHN FOR HALF MILLION

New York, Sept. 29.— [Special.] — The alleged failure of Otto H. Kahn, banker, and chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Opera company, to live up to a promise to give Mme. Lydia Lindgren $160,000 on condition that she drop a slander action against another opera singer—an affair in which Mr. Kahn's name was mentioned, was revealed today as one of the reasons why Mme. Lindgren, a Swedish singer, is suing Mr. Kahn for $500,000 for breach of contract.

OTTO KAHN.

The other reason, outlined by Emil Baer, counsel for Mme. Lindgren, when the case went to trial today before Supreme Court Justice Charles J. Druhan and a jury in Long Island City, was that Mr. Kahn failed to keep a promise to get her a good manager and generally help her along to making appearances in and around the metropolis, thereby damaging her nerves and causing her losses in bookings.

"Publicity," Lawyer Charges.

George Whiteside, attorney for Mr. Kahn, who was not in court, said the slander suit, instituted against Mme. Julia Claussen, of the Metropolitan Opera company, was "merely for the purpose of securing such publicity" as might come from having one's name linked with that of Mr. Kahn.

He said that a gift by Mr. Kahn of $13,000 to Madame Lindgren on Feb. 11 last year was "an expression of the desire of Mr. Kahn to let her know he had forgiven her for her publicity stunt."

After addresses to the jury by attorneys for the plaintiff and defense the suit was adjourned until tomorrow, when testimony will begin.

Today's proceedings were marked by arguments over the failure of Mr. Kahn to appear in court and by an agreement that both the plaintiff and the defendant deny a remark linking Mr. Kahn's name with that of Mme. Lindgren.

Lawyers Hold Conferences.

Immediately after the case was called Mr. Baer asked if Mr. Kahn was in court. He had subpœnaed Mr. Kahn, he said, and felt he should be present while the jury was being selected. Thereupon Mr. Whiteside requested that the court confer in private with the attorneys for both sides. A brief conference ensued, and when Justice Druhan and the lawyers emerged from the judge's chambers nothing more was said about Mr. Kahn's personal appearance, and a jury was selected.

A recess was taken, during which Mme. Lindgren, who in private life is Mrs. Raoul Querze of Flushing, and who has been described as "the Swedish Nightingale," lunched and posed for reporters.

States Plaintiff's Case.

In opening the afternoon session Mr. Baer said witnesses would be called to show that his client is a singer of excellent voice and dramatic ability and that Mr. Kahn had assisted her soon after her appearance in this country. He asserted Mme. Lindgren was "compelled" in 1928 to start a slander action against Mme. Claussen to stop the latter from saying unpleasant things, such as that Mme. Lindgren had no voice and no art.

He quoted a remark, supposed to have been made by Mme. Claussen, to the effect that a certain relationship between Mr. Kahn and Mme. Lindgren was the only reason Mme. Lindgren had made any progress at all.

Here, another court conversation ensued and it was agreed that both sides deny this remark since Mr. Baer was only quoting Mme. Claussen.

Draw Up Agreement.

Mr. Baer said his client went to Florida in February, 1930, "to hear from Mr. Kahn's own lips" his desire for her to withdraw the slander action, but she met Mr. Kahn, instead, in the Pennsylvania station in New York. Mr. Baer said his client, Mr. Kahn, Mr. Whiteside, and a lawyer representing Mme. Lindgren, met in the Whiteside offices, where Mr. Kahn induced the singer to let the attorneys make an agreement for $13,000 and turn over a withdrawal of the slander action, "and promised that privately he would give her $160,000 additional."

Attorney Whiteside said the defense would prove that the Claussen slander suit had been "framed."

WILKINS GRANTED PERMIT BY U. S. TO SINK NAUTILUS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Permission to sink the submarine Nautilus in the North sea, off the coast of Norway, was granted today to Sir Hubert Wilkins by the shipping board. Sir Hubert had planned to use the submarine for an under ice expedition.

Secretary Adams was consulted after Sir Hubert sought permission to scrap the boat about three weeks ago. First denied permission, he explained to the board he considered it dangerous to attempt to return the submarine to America under her own power.

Secretary Adams said "it would appear that any method of selling or scrapping the vessel outside the United States would be attended by certain difficulties." He added he could see no objection from a navy standpoint to sinking the vessel in deep water.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

'Drafters' Silenced; Way Open for Hoover.

a single Republican in high office or a private citizen who is not against Hoover, not one, and there has been a clamor on the part of many Republicans for Mr. Coolidge. Mr. Hoover no doubt will heave a sigh of relief over this statement.

Relief to Brookhart.

SENATOR BROOKHART [Rep., Ia.]—The second term idea is wrong, and Mr. Coolidge was eliminated, anyhow.

SENATOR FRAZIER [Rep., N. D.]—His announcement makes no difference, as the northwest is looking for a candidate who is a real progressive.

SENATOR DALE [Rep., Vt.]—A very direct statement which cannot be misconstrued.

REPRESENTATIVE JAMES [Rep., Mich.]—Coolidge is too shrewd to run when between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 are out of employment.

MAYOR CERMAK of Chicago—I'll let the Republicans comment. I'm a Democrat.

SENATOR GLENN [Rep., Ill.]—All good and patriotic Republicans should be in accord with Coolidge's definite expression. President Hoover has earned the gratitude of the people of the United States.

SENATOR ROBINSON [Rep., Ind.]—Herbert Hoover should be renominated and reelected. The American people should not swap horses in the middle of the stream.

SENATOR MOSES [Rep., N. H.]—The expected has happened.

GOV. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT of New York—Wait until he sees my budget.

REPRESENTATIVE FIORELLA H. LAGUARDIA [Rep., N. Y.]—Coolidge's gesture seems to me to indicate a most pessimistic outlook for Hoover in 1932—something, indeed, that the Republican national convention may well consider.

NORMAN THOMAS, Socialist leader—I congratulate Mr. Coolidge on his Vermont thrift in getting good Saturday Evening Post money for telling the world he won't run.

COOLIDGE ARTICLE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge does not intend to run for President in 1932, but proposes to support Herbert Hoover for a second nomination.

"When we need more harmony, more cooperation, and more confidence," said Mr. Coolidge in a copyrighted article published today by the Saturday Evening Post, "it would be a distinct disservice to promote a factional conflict against a President in office. . . .

"The responsible elements of our party should offer a solid front in their support of the President. That is the course I propose to pursue."

"Since leaving Washington I have avoided all personal political activity. . . . It is impossible for me to prevent the speculative use of my name in public discussions. I cannot follow up rumors.

Forced Finally to Speak Out.

"Some people will always assume I am conniving at office. . . . Every man with political experience will be told by some people that he is the only one who can save the party or save the country. These conditions are chronic, and while there is no remedy for them, they cannot always be ignored entirely without some danger of appearing to approve by silence.

"Those who are suggesting, under the present disturbed conditions in our own country and in the world, that a former President should use his prestige to attempt to secure a nomination against a President of his own party probably have not stopped to consider fully what would be implied by such a course. It would . . . arouse animosities and create bitterness which would afflict the people for years to come. In comparison with these things, the relative success or failure of an administration is not very important.

"One of the things a political party most needs is integrity. . . . Before it is always the necessity of standing by its principles and supporting its loyal leaders. Under such a course, an occasional defeat may be encountered, but if its policies are sound it will emerge stronger than ever and remain a vital instrument of government.

"It has long been the practice to give a President in office a second nomination. It is a practice that has been beneficial to the country. Any other course is open to grave objections and in danger of being attended by serious consequences."

DEMOCRAT WINS IN MISSOURI; TIES G.O.P.'S 214 SEATS IN HOUSE

Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 29.—(AP)—While state and national political leaders watched for an indication of which party will control the next house of congress, the Seventh Missouri congressional district, in a special election today, overwhelmingly elected Robert D. Johnson, Democrat, of Marshall.

Johnson's election gave the Democrats 214 seats, the same number now held by the Republicans. There is one Farmer-Labor member.

Six other special elections, all of which will be held by the night of Nov. 3, will determine which party is to organize the next house.

Complete unofficial returns from 230 of the 241 precincts in the district gave Johnson a lead over his Republican opponent, former Representative John W. Palmer of Sedalia, of 9,240 votes. L. L. Collins, independent anti-prohibition candidate, was far behind with 3,721.

In the 1928 Hoover landslide Palmer defeated the late Sam C. Major, Democrat, of Fayette by 6,485, but Major was elected again in 1930 by 2,579.

It was Major's recent death which made today's special election necessary.

ST. PAUL KIDNAP VICTIM TRACED HERE BY LETTER

Leon Gleckman, president of a St. Paul finance company and a former bootlegger, who was kidnaped five days ago, is believed to be held for ransom in Chicago, St. Paul authorities informed Chicago police yesterday.

Gleckman's wife in St. Paul received a letter from her husband which stated: "I am being treated nicely. I am held in Chicago. I don't want news of this to leak out because something is liable to happen to me."

Gleckman was convicted in a prohibition conspiracy in 1922 and served a 13 month sentence at Leavenworth prison. Business associates asserted that he retired from bootlegging after his release from prison.

Here's Another Proposal for Massacre Memorial

Another proposal for the relocation of the Fort Dearborn massacre monument, salvaged by the Chicago Historical society from its original setting at 18th and Calumet to save it from vandals, was received yesterday by Mayor Cermak.

Tenants of the Medical and Dental Arts building and the Old Dearborn Bank building at Lake and Wabash joined in a petition to have the bronze group set up again in the plaza at the intersection of Wacker drive and North Wabash, which, it is pointed out, overlooks the site of the old Fort Dearborn.

NOTABLES WHISTLE REPLY TO PROFESSOR'S, "MOST MORONS DO"

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Whistling, an "unmistakable sign of the moron" in the opinion of Dr. Charles Gray Shaw, professor of philosophy at New York university, is indulged in on occasion by at least some of the world's great men, a survey showed today.

Over the wires from official Washington whistled the first reactionary comment to Dr. Shaw's declaration of yesterday that "no great or successful man ever whistled."

"Hoover, Hughes, Mellon, and Secretary Lamont," said the dispatch, "have not been heard to whistle in late years."

In his denunciation of the practice yesterday Dr. Shaw demanded:

"Can you think of President Hoover whistling? Can you think of Einstein or Edison or Mussolini tuning up to 'Dancing with Tears in My Eyes'? No!"

"Einstein occasionally whistles, frequently fiddles."

Civil War Vet Who Fought with Wilder Brigade Dead

Effingham, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Samuel Harris, aged 89 years, once a member of the Wilder brigade during the civil war, died at his home here today of paralysis.

BELIEVES G. O. P. FAVORS CHICAGO FOR CONVENTION

Washington, D. C., Sept 29.—[Special.]—Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] predicted today that Chicago will be selected for the Republican national convention next year.

"Since my return to Washington I have talked with many members of congress and Republican officials," Mr. Britten said, "and during these conversations I have made inquiry concerning the attitude of various groups toward the selection of a city for the Republican national convention. It would appear that there is but one choice and that Chicago is certain to have the Republican convention."

Lets His $25,000 Violin Drop; Truck Crushes It

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A $25,000 violin, made in 1691 and the gift of August Hecksher, philanthropist, slipped this evening from the grasp of its owner, Harry Braun, 22, violinist, who was to have made his début at Carnegie hall on Jan. 15, and was crushed beneath a truck. It was a Guarneris.

Jane Stetson, Daughter of Former Diplomat, Elopes

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The elopement of Jane Stetson, 22, daughter of John B. Stetson Jr., former minister to Poland, was revealed today. Her parents received a telegram from Maryland saying she had eloped with Thomas Cartledge, 27, Saturday.

How Go-Getters Rock U.S. Ideals Out of Cradle

T. Adams Writes "The Epic of America."

Today there is published "The Epic of America," by James Truslow Adams, Pulitzer prize winning historian. It is a book of true historical importance and should, I felt, be read, if not by a jury of peers, at least by one peer of the author. William E. Dodd, chairman of the department of history in the University of Chicago and Chicago's most eminent historian, is that peer. "The Epic of America" is the October choice of the Book of the Month club. —Jonas Butcher.)

BY WILLIAM E. DODD.

"The Epic of America," by James Truslow Adams. [Little-Brown.] Published today.

JAMES TRUSLOW ADAMS has done much to revolutionize thought about the United States and its history. He first subjected the Puritan fathers to realistic criticism; he next reviewed the New England contribution in the making of the country; of more recently he set high standards of biographical methods and criticism in "The Adams Family."

JAMES TRUSLOW ADAMS.

In all sections of the country who read the author's scrutiny of things not previously supposed to be beyond historical revision. But few historians have done much to stimulate new thought and to compel sober reassessment of a great section of the United States.

This new book, written in a different form and cast upon the immense canvas of the nation as a whole, will be more disturbing than any of its predecessors; it is a solemn and sorrowful appraisal of the ideals, the aspirations and the hypocrisies of the men and the parties that have directed the course of American history. The old fashioned reader who still thinks this country a democracy, true to the great dream of its founders, will cast it aside in anger only to pick it up again to pursue its interesting pages. "The Epic of America" is the story of the greatest betrayal in all history, the abandonment by a rich and powerful people of the generous aspirations of their hard pressed and high minded ancestors.

There is no need of retracing here the chapters in which the author describes in brief outline the settlement of the eastern river bottoms and poor hillsides of the older colonies, of the quarrels with the mother country, and of the eager, lawless, ruthless frontiersmen who laid foundations in the western wilderness and set examples in social behavior which were to become the models of those who later undermined the whole democratic structure.

These chapters are brief, well Pearsoned, and true to the greater facts; but they do not profess to be additions to knowledge. They recount the rise in the great American dream as conceived by Jefferson and contested by Hamilton. In "The Sun Rises in the West" the reader gets into the essential results of Turner's lifelong work with graphic picture of the violation of the most solemn treaties with the Indians, the ruthless seizure of vast stretches of Indian territory, and the wild scramble for the gold that made California. It shows that young America had learned the method of England in the eighteenth century and of Germany in the nineteenth only the American imagined always that he would make of his conquests the bases of democracy.

Under the heading "The North Begins to Hustle" we are shown the intricacies of political intrigue and of economic profiteering which attended the whole course of the industrial revolution in the United States: tariff robberies, exploitation of labor, and the wholesale watering of stocks. Here Mr. Adams is most at home in his portrayals, brief, but pointed, of the methods of business exploitation, having made up himself from the very center of financial and speculative life in New York. However, it is not the tale of a disappointed seeker after hasty wealth, but the story of one who grew wiser as he saw his fortune grow and watched the world which made him. The north as it appeared on the eve of the civil war had set the tempo of American life that was to be.

The south with its plantations and its Negro slaves looked on with fear at the amazing pace of its rival, neither section much concerned with the American dream. The middle west alone really believed in the great sectional conflict that followed. It was the Hamiltonian profiteers of the east who fixed the new course during the hot and angry years that followed the death of Lincoln.

THE STAGE

AMERICAN playgoers may expect to get a taste of the quality of Benito Mussolini, premier of Italy, as a dramatist before many months have passed. He has written a play with Napoleon as its central character, called "The Hundred Days." Sidney W. Carroll, a journalist of London, controls the English-speaking rights, and the same Mr. Carroll is now in New York seeking to make arrangements for a New York production.

As the title indicates, the play deals with Napoleon in his Waterloo phase—after his escape from Elba and up to his departure into final exile on St. Helena. It has already been staged in Italy and Budapest; it recently went into rehearsal in Paris with Firmin Gemier in the leading rôle, and Berlin will see it in November. The English translation was made by John Drinkwater.

The Stratford-upon-Avon Shakespeare festival company, numbering twenty-three players, has arrived in New York to begin its third annual tour of the United States and Canada. It will make a start in Boston next Monday. The cities of the Pacific coast will be visited in the early winter, after which the Stratfordians will come east by easy "jumps." Wilfrid Walter, leading man of the company on its last two visits, will be prominent in the cast of "The Venetian," to be staged at the Harris theater next Monday night under the auspices of Maurice Browne and the Dramatic League of Chicago.

The Chicago Civic Shakespeare company, otherwise Fritz Leiber's all-stars, will begin a preliminary tour in Fort Wayne, Ind., next Friday night. It will spend next week in Detroit and the week of Oct. 12 in Cleveland. The Chicago première will take place at the Majestic theater Oct. 19, probably with "Hamlet." Mr. Leiber will be the Hamlet, Mr. Faversham the King, Tyrone Power the Ghost, and Helen Menken the Ophelia.

Al Jolson began his tour in "The Wonder Bar" in Newark, N. J., last Monday night. His company includes Claire Windsor, Patsy Kelly, Lina Basquette, Edward Raquello, Al Segal, and Augusta Aramini. This entertainment will figure in the Chicago theatrical season. C. C.

Good morning!

There's not an honest thing about "East of Borneo" but the acting of Charles Bickford and Rose Hobart.

The piece is a conglomeration of synthetic horrors that weary and induce ironic laughter, but never inspire the thrills they so laboriously court. It's chockful of action that never convinces.

Miss Hobart is discovered on a hunt for her doctor husband, from whom, you learn later, she had been separated, due to one of those triangle misunderstandings. She finds him "east of Borneo," acting as court physician to a movie shah of some kind with a bandanna wrapped round his head, who lives at the foot of a volcano which will erupt when he dies—he and the volc. having some sort of a secret pact.

The lady and her husband have a terrible time getting to a happy ending, due to the shah's biological urges toward the former. He finds her "most dee-sir-a-ble" and would have her for his own. Instead of taking her to football games or bull fights he escorts her to alligator swallowings. For it seems that, east of Borneo, when one is a prince and wants to show a girl a good time he has SOME of his subjects throw ONE of his subjects into alligator infested waters. The trick is to bet which wins, the man or the alligator.

Lady no likee.

Well, Mr. Bickford stops drinking himself to death in time to offer his usual he-man brand of protection. The finale shows the volcano in eruption and the hero and the heroine and all the beasts of all the Hollywood zoos running like everything . . . !

Was I bored!

"How MUCH like his daddy Douglas Fairbanks Jr. IS!"

That's the thought that will pursue your inspection of this picture.

He's like his daddy, and "I Like Your Nerve" is a heap like the pristine screen exposures of Douglas Fairbanks Sr. The scenario calls for an agile and laughing young American to rescue the stepdaughter (also American) of a minister of finance down in Central America from a stepfatherly plot to sell her to an opulent elderly roué in order that a treasury stepdaughter has unlawfully dipped into may be replenished.

The salvation of the damsel is accomplished in true Fairbanksian fashion.

Loretta Young is charming as the maiden in distress. Henry Kolker is sly and naughty, as he's supposed to be. Supporting players get along all right and the director handled his featherweight material with a light, deft touch.

"I Like Your Nerve" is nothing to get out an extra about, but it serves to make an hour pass pleasantly.

Woman, 109, Is Dead; Danced When 106; Enemy of Dry Law

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A tiny old lady from Brittany, who had been having birthday parties since she admitted she was 90, and who was still spry enough to dance and play an accordion on her 106th birthday, died this morning at her daughter's home in New Brighton, Staten island. She would have been 110 on Oct. 4.

Mrs. Francesco Levapresto, for that's her name, was a Staten island celebrity. Born in France Oct. 4, 1821—the year Napoleon Bonaparte died—she came to America after her first husband died in 1859.

She had seen France go through the revolutions of 1830 and 1848. The voyage took her 48 days and she came here alone. Shortly after arriving here she found herself another husband and with him she ran the Hotel de France, an immigrant hotel on Moore street, just off West Broadway. The couple had ten children.

Her second husband husband died in 1898 and Mrs. Levapresto went to live in the little gray house in Grant City, where she stayed until a few months ago, when she finally consented to accept the hospitality and shelter of one of her daughters in New Brighton.

While she did not mind the elaboraete birthday fuss that was made over her each year by friends, relatives, school children, she insisted upon her solitude. The house she surrounded with neat little flower gardens and walks something like the gardens in Brittany, where she was born.

As the years went by, the little old lady became bent and withered, but she never lost her spryness and interest in life. She had many convictions which she maintained stoutly. One of these was that prohibition is not a good thing. She had her bottle of wine regularly up until a short time ago. It was, she insisted the one thing that kept her alive.

Chicago World's Fair to Open on Time; Work Is Going Well

Chicago's World's Fair not only will open on time but right now, twenty-one months before the opening date, June 1, 1933, the big exposition is a full year ahead of any other similar world's fair ever held, according to Harvey Wiley Corbett of New York, chairman of the fair architectural commission. Mr. Corbett, accompanied by the other members, made a tour of the fair grounds yesterday. The others were: Raymond M. Hood and Ralph Walker, both of New York; Hubert Burnham, John A. Holabird, and Edward H. Bennett of Chicago; Paul Philippe Cret of Philadelphia, and Arthur Brown Jr. of San Francisco.

"We came today to make a review of the summer's work and to get ready to concentrate on the completion of the fair in the time remaining," said Mr. Corbett. "There is not the slightest doubt but what the World's Fair will be ready to open on time.

"In construction, financing, and in every way the Century of Progress exposition is a full year ahead of any other similar world's fair at this period of its existence."

Garfield Park Now Has Goose Flower in Bloom

Science Finds Modern Era Still Is Young

Predicts Greater Changes for the Future.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"THE American scene: A Survey of Thought and Expression in the United States," forms the concluding chapters of the syllabus on "The Humanities," the fourth major course in the new plan of education offered at the University of Chicago. It examines the beginning of the nation, takes up the middle period extending from the time of President Jackson to the civil war, and closes with the development since then.

Science and the industrial revolution are placed in the foreground as the dominant influences on the philosophy, literature, and art of western civilization.

"The medieval world," it is stated, "might be typified by the cathedral, the feudal castle, and the merchant guild hall, with the banner of the cross over all. The contemporary world needs other and more numerous symbols, but among them might well be the scientific laboratory, the factory, the freight train, the cargo steamer, the school house, the ballot box, the newspaper, the world's fair, the postal union."

The industrial revolution is regarded as still very much alive and active.

"There is every reason to believe that what science, invention, and cooperation have already done to enable men to satisfy their wants by modifying and exploiting the natural environment is only a beginning compared with what later generations may accomplish."

The impact of science upon philosophy has profoundly altered the old absolutes and made that thinking tentative. The industrial revolution is reflected in new ideas and ideals. Describing the United States as in the very midstream of modern life, the following trends are found:

"That an optimistic ground swell still underlies and buoys up the mass of American thought admits of no doubt. Our optimism goes back to the eighteenth century, having been born of the science and the advancing knowledge of that age. It was the eighteenth century thinkers [Turgot, Condorcet] who, prompted by the constantly increasing control of our environment, put forth the concept of progress which became the almost instinctive possession—nay, the religious faith—of the whole nineteenth century.

"For the United States the progress idea, conceived as an indefinite perfectibility of man and society, continues to command a vast popular following. Let us therefore set it down as our leading intellectual trend. But among other trends two cannot escape mention. For a small but growing body of our intellectuals the once bubbling wine of optimism has turned into vinegar, their once burning faith into doubt and misgiving. Among these spokesmen of discouragement and pessimism is Henry Adams, distinguished scion of that Massachusetts family which is perhaps foremost in our history. In his autobiography "The Education of Henry Adams," one of the outstanding books of our literature, Adams can see nothing coming out of the machine age but a subjection to forces too strong for us to control. We are therefore bound to lose every vestige of that spiritual freedom which has been the hope and dream of mankind throughout the ages.

"The other trend we may define as neither optimistic nor pessimistic, but prompted by the objectivity of science. It is the product of the first formal school of philosophy entirely native to our soil. Scholars acclaim William James as the founder of this all-American doctrine."

Says 12 Million of Brown Race Live in America

E. R. Embree Reports on His Researches.

A new race, brown skinned, formed of the fusion of blacks, whites and yellow browns, a group new in biological makeup, has been found twelve million strong in the United States by Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund. He sets forth his discovery in a book just off the presses last night, "Brown America, the Story of a New Race."

The family tree of the browns in America, he writes, has deeper roots than that of the Mayflower descendants, while the group has evolved in a century as contrasted with the aeons required to develop the Egyptians, Greeks, Jews, or Chinese.

Mr. Embree's researches lead him to the conclusion that more than one-half the Negroes in America have some white or Indian blood, and that with no more white interfusion, a few more generations will see nearly every Negro with some white blood through the distribution of inheritance strains.

"Black forefathers of the new race," the author write, "were among the first settlers of the new world. In 1619, according to John Smith's Generale Historie, there arrived in Jamestown 'a Dutch man of warre, that sold us twenty Negars.' So just twelve years after the establishment in Virginia of the first permanent British colony in America, and a few months before the Mayflower landed the Pilgrims at Plymouth the beginnings of the new race were made."

The diversity of Africans brought in during slave days, even with no admixture of white or Indian blood, Mr. Embree says, would itself have produced a new race different from any single tribe in Africa. But white and Indian blood began to be fused with the black.

"No special odium," he writes, "was attached to the begetting of mulatto children in slave days. It was regarded almost as a matter of course. Thomas Jefferson was reported, when President, to have regretted that certain of his own children were estopped from voting because of the conditions imposed by their maternity.

"When a yellow girl, reputed to be the daughter of President Tyler and living in his entourage in the White House, eloped with a white man, and in punishment was 'sold down the river,' the matter was so ordinary as to cause only a piquant wave of gossip in Washington society.

"These blood mixtures of slave days were often what scientists today would call eugenic. Often the best white blood, represented by the white planters and their sons, joined with that of Negro girls chosen for their comeliness, intelligence, and attractive personalities. Patrick Henry was so impressed by the superiority of the mixed breeds that, while speaker of the Virginia assembly, he introduced a bill offering a state bonus to children of mixed parentage."

Mr. Embree says the general history of the new brown race has two peculiarities.

"First, it has been formed in an amazingly short time—about a century—as contrasted with the thousands or more years that went into the making of the Japanese or Germans, and the millenniums that were required to develop such ethnic groups as the Egyptians, Greeks, Jews, or Chinese. Second, instead of developing from savagery into its own slowly discovered and painfully perfected arts and industries, it has grown up in immediate association with a highly developed civilization—western industrialism."

The author speaks of the impress the brown race has made upon the white, in music, dialect, religion.

"He gave his impress to the English language, so that today one of the proud possessions of the Virginia lady is her Negroid southern drawl."

He says America might be less troubled without the race problem, but less interesting and colorful. Mr. Embree says of the Negro:

"In one phase he brings gifts of his own, quite beyond the American standard. The Negro is expressive. He has an amazing capacity for meeting buffets with laughter—not with a smile, but with hearty guffaws of Olympian laughter. He laughs at himself and his own embarrassments; he laughs at his persecutors; he laughs at the quaint habits and intricate ratiocinations of his Nordic neighbors. He sings at his work, and plays and dances as soon as his work is done. He has native dignity, grace and good manners."

C. Vanderbilt Whitney Weds Gladys Hopkins at Quiet Ceremony

Strafford, Pa., Sept. 29.—(AP)—With only a few relatives and friends present, Miss Gladys Crosby Hopkins, daughter of Mrs. Stevens Heckscher, today became the bride of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, of New York.

The ceremony, quiet because of the recent death of Mr. Heckscher, took place at the country home here of Mrs. Heckscher, the Rev. Edward Hamilton officiating.

Mr. Whitney, who is known to his intimates as "Sonny," is the son of the late Harry Payne Whitney. From his father the young man received the bequest of one of America's great fortunes.

The ceremony took place before an altar of flowers. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mark Hopkins Jr. Her only attendant was her half-sister, Miss Elizabeth C. Heckscher. Mr. Whitney's best man was Warren Leslie, of New York.

The bride introduced a recent Paris innovation by wearing a tinted gown instead of the conventional white. It was of pale seafoam panne velvet, made on simple lines. It was sheath-like, close over the hips, falling in a godet flare from the knees. The unusually long train was fan-shaped. The sleeves extended close to the wrists and the gown had a V-neck.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin and Don Philippe de Rodriques, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom Libby, arrive in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy. Tom and Irma inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a young daughter, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. Bill and Wallace shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with Philippe and quits the act.

INSTALLMENT IX.

NO ROMANCE ANYWHERE.

Wallace came back to them then. "The Carlsens," he explained, "are fit and talkative. Awfully nice people, though."

Bill looked over and observed Mr. Carlsen tossing crisp, dry noodles at one of his guests. "I can't see that for myself," he commented.

"Lord, you're sour, Bill," Wallace said.

"I'm tired. Come to think of it. I don't want any chow mein. See you both tomorrow."

He was gone before either Irma or Wallace could think of anything to say.

"What's the matter with him?" Wallace asked.

"I don't know," she lied.

Wallace rested his elbows on the table and leaned toward her. "Irma, did you think any more about—about us?"

"Yes."

"And?"

"And my answer's yes, if it's all right with you."

"Well, I knew it was all right with you. That was just sort of a figure of speech."

"O, I see." He laughed a short, perfunctory laugh. "I'll have to get used to all your little sayings so I'll know which ones you mean and which you don't."

"Yes," she said. "You'll have to get used to them."

The Chinese waiter materialized from somewhere.

"Two chow meins," said Wallace.

Irma's girlhood had been too full of reality for her to have ever dreamed of the moment when she would whisper yes to some adoring man. She smiled to herself as it occurred to her now that had she had time for dreaming she would never have visualized this. The drunken Carlsens and their guests shouting close by, her adoring man becoming very literal and the Chinese waiter echoing his request for two chow meins. She wondered how she would have pictured this moment that should be so very romantic. Her mind obligingly offered a suggestion. "How about a balcony," it said,

"I hope you and Irma will be friends," he said weakly.

"dim lights, a good looking man with a sense of humor and the orchestra playing Samson and Delilah in waltz time?"

Irma stirred uneasily.

"What's the matter, dear?"

"Nothing."

"Are you sure?"

"Certainly." She tried to keep a note of irritation out of her voice. Was he going to be like his Aunt Tessie?

"I know what's the matter with you. You're thinking about Bill."

"About Bill?" Did he know then that Bill——

"Yes, you're worried that he's ill."

"O, no, I'm not. What do I care about him?"

"Why, we all care about Bill. He's a grand chap." Wallace's tone was reproving.

Irma wanted to laugh. She did not yield to the desire for she felt that once she started she'd never stop. She said, "Wallace, we've just become engaged. It's my first time. It's a romantic moment, or at least it should be. Don't take me literally or nag me or gently correct me until we've been married at least a while."

"Why, dear, I didn't mean——"

"I know you didn't, Wallace. Just be sweet to me and forgive me for being so nervous." She was more surprised than he to see her tears splashing on the grayish table cloth amid bread crumbs left by the former occupants.

He didn't ask why she cried. To him it went under the heading of "Things I don't know about women." Irma was glad that he didn't ask. She couldn't tell him that she cried because he was a stranger to her and because there was no romance anywhere.

Wallace Graham unlocked the door of his house some forty-five minutes later and stepped into the little foyer. His face felt feverish and there was a numb sensation in the pit of his stomach. From the street he had seen the light in the living room that had warned him that Aunt Tessie would be up. He had hoped to have the night in which to consider how the news should be broken.

Aunt Tessie squinted into the dimness where he stood. "That you, Wallace? Got home safe, did you?"

"O, sure." He came into the living room, scaling his hat toward the window seat as he walked.

"Did you see the young lady off?"

"No. She didn't go."

"Didn't go? Why didn't she go?" Aunt Tessie folded her knitting and crammed it into a brightly colored straw bag.

"Why, she quarreled with the owner of the act, Aunt Tessie, and refused to go to Garchester with him."

"Well, what's she going to do in Thrace?"

"I was coming to that. She's—I've asked her to come here."

"Here? There's no room, Wallace, unless you ask Mildred to share her room and I don't think it's fair——"

"I've asked Irma to marry me, Aunt Tess."

"O." Aunt Tessie's eyes wandered about the rug.

Wallace said, "I know you think I'm crazy. A week ago tonight I'd never laid eyes on Irma."

"What do you think Mildred will say?"

"Mildred? Why, dearie, she won't care. She'll want you happy same as I do, but she'll rear high first time Irma gives her an order."

"Irma won't give her orders, Aunt Tess. That's your job as long as you want it."

The adjective which she used to describe Irma pierced her nephew like a sharp, shining blade. There would be titters in Thrace when he married Irma. "Good Lord," people would say, "she could be his daughter." He thought of Anne. She would be thirty-seven now if she had lived. Certainly to avoid the titters he should have a wife who was at least thirty. But he wanted Irma.

Aunt Tessie packed away her knitting. "I said, Wallace, that your young wife might not like me around."

He realized that he had kept her waiting for the hearty reassurance which her comment had demanded.

"O, of course she will. She liked you very much. Besides this is your home the same as it is mine or Mildred's."

"And Irma's," she prompted.

"Yes, it will be Irma's, and I know she will appreciate it. Her life has been a very hard one. We must be very gentle with her."

When are you planning on getting married?"

"Maybe Monday. I'm going to tell Mildred tomorrow."

Mildred took the news calmly enough, looking up politely from the Sunday puzzle page to listen. Wallace felt at a distinct disadvantage. She was sitting. He was standing.

"I want you to understand," he faltered, "that this is no disloyalty to your mother. Older people will know that but you are so young I thought it best to mention it."

She thought of the photograph, the locket, the bit of ecru lace, the straight blond lock of hair and the tiny white book called "Chips from Thackeray" that lay in the bottom drawer of her bureau. These things represented her mother. Oftimes she had bent above the open drawer gazing upon the relics, handling them, hoping to feel a sudden overwhelming sadness, or at least a kinship, with the girl in the Merry Widow hat who smiled up at her and who had been at some vague, unremembered period, her mother. It was cruel to feel nothing. Now with her father standing here telling her that he intended to marry again was her chance to prove that she was not unfeeling. For the sake of the heart shaped locket and the bit of ecru lace she yearned bitterly to resent the intruder, but instead she could only feel pleased at the novelty of the situation.

"I hope you and Irma will be friends," he said weakly.

"I guess we will."

"I think we'll be married tomorrow."

"O, yes? Tomorrow's Jane Malcolm's birthday, Daddy. Will you give me a few dollars to buy her something?"

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Asks for Baby Carriage.

"My 19 months old baby has been sick for a long time, and should be out in the air a lot. I am not well and cannot carry him around. Could you get me a baby buggy or stroller for him? The other children are in need of clothing, too. The girls wear sizes 12, 10, and 8. The boys wear sizes 15, 6, and 4. I wear size 38 and need a coat badly. My shoe size is 7½ or 8. My husband wears a suit size 38, shirts 15½. Anything you can do to help us will be greatly appreciated. MRS. M. W."

If you are planning a new fall wardrobe, I am sure you will find garments in fairly good condition among last year's things which you no longer want. Here's a large family which could make use of a number of the things.

More Cheerful for Less Pay, Preachers' Task

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Sale of eight church buildings or parsonages, because of difficulty in meeting operation costs, was voted by the Illinois Methodist conference at its closing session here today.

Funds from the sale of the house at Cameron will be given to the Sheffield church and from Lynn Grove they will go to the Walnut Grove congregation to be applied on indebtedness.

Appointment of ministers by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes was the closing business of the 108th annual session. Before announcing the list of pastors for the coming year, Bishop Hughes urged the ministers to accept salary cuts with fortitude and go on "trying to communicate joy to a world that has no income, knowing that people need your message of hope now more than ever before."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

No More Sliced Bread.

One day mother sent me for a loaf of sliced bread. I was coming gallantly down the street with said package under my arm when my embarrassing moment came. Ten or more people shouted "Hey, lady, your bread is falling out."

Well, I can assure you no more sliced bread will I buy. M. C. A.

Bright Details for Dark Daytime Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris has abandoned the half-and-half dress for fall and winter. Frocks for practical wear this fall are in one color and one alone, but they are preserved from somberness by bright details, such as dickies, scarfs, belts, collars and cuffs, and so forth.

These dresses are, also, kept from too much tailored severity by their sleeves, which are frequently given frivolous little caps and puffs at the top, to make their shoulder lines look wider and more graceful, and to make the waistline look more slim.

A frock in the new mode is shown in the sketch. This dress is designed for runabout wear throughout the day, and Bruyere makes it of rusty brown corduroy, which is wool and looks like velvet, and which is thin and light in weight. The silhouette is slim, with a straight blouse and a skirt that is flared only slightly above the knees. The sleeves are puffed at the top, and straight from the puff to the wrists where flaring cuffs of green crêpe de chine droop over the hands.

The blouse is cut open in a big U in front, at the top of which are two triangular flaps that are attached at their tips to hold the bodice together. Under the U-opening is a straight vestee. A scarf made of green and terra cotta pink crêpe de chine bias bands twined together is hung like a necklace around the neck, and passed under the triangular flap at the right side so it stays in place. The draped girdle is also in these two bright colors of crêpe de chine.

Newest Hair Styles Are Death on Locks Longer Than 6 Ins.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If anything looks more ridiculously out of date with one of the new hats than straight hair with severe boyish lines, we haven't glimpsed it yet. They tell me in the trade that not since the bob swept the country has there been such rejoicing among hairdressers as at this moment. The new styles are already revolutionizing the coiffure game and we're only in the infant stage, as yet. Not only is the Eugenie influence felt but the entire Renaissance period is being rifled for inspiration both as to dress styles and coiffure.

Some see writ into this new fashion ruling a definite decline [and fall with the shears] of the long hair. That tight little, or big, wad on the nape of the neck does not allow for enough fluffing to frame the sides and back of the present day hat.

As for the top of the head, in order to fit and look a perfect complement to the shallow crowned hat, it has to be thinned out so that the hair lies flat and smooth as can be.

At a meeting of the Coiffure Guild of New York, a hair style to be known as the "Diane" was sponsored as the style for 1931-'32. And to achieve this style the hair can be only between two and three inches long at the neckline with no hair on the entire head daring to measure longer than six inches. Shorter than the two or three inch length won't do, because there'd be not enough, then, for curls. And curls and nothing but appear to be set in the mind as the better rôle of faminity.

But the line of the massed curls must be shapely, tapered, and slenderizing. That's where the ear comes in or, I mean, comes out, to give a shapely line. There must be some break so that the hair doesn't fall into a straightish line from temple to a point on the neck below the ear lobe.

And speaking of hair, you can take a slender tendril, weave it into a soft pin curl, and let it ride far out on the cheek. In fact, you may have a little parade of these pin curls down the side.

"KEEP YOUTH THROUGH THE YEARS!" says Jack Mulhall

JACK MULHALL
popular screen star

"Youth is a delightful, fascinating thing," says Jack Mulhall. "It is certainly a woman's most endearing charm.

"And nowadays birthdays don't seem to matter at all! A woman keeps that glowing, youthful charm at almost any age!

"Every day here in Hollywood I meet actresses famous for their charm—more alluring now than they were ten or even fifteen years ago!

LAURA LA PLANTE
vivacious star

The stage and screen stars KEEP complexions youthful through the years. In Hollywood (605 of the 613 there!)—on Broadway—in Europe—they use Lux Toilet Soap for every type of skin.

Deweys Return to 1507 N. State After Travels

BY THALIA ——.

THE Charles S. Deweys are back again in their Chicago residence—the house at 1507 North State parkway that they bought, remodeled, moved into, and occupied for just four days nearly a decade ago—only this time they expect to get settled for awhile. Of course, they did then, too, as they didn't foresee that Mr. Dewey was to be called to Washington to serve as assistant secretary of the treasury, nor could they realize that the Polish government would be wanting him to advise them about its finances after his term in Washington was over and that they'd be themselves to Warsaw for several years.

They moved in on Monday, having been at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest for most of the summer. Miss Edna, the subdebutante of the family, returns this morning from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Frederick M. Peyser Jr. [Suzette Dewey], in Detroit, and is departing on Saturday for Washington, and her brother, Albert, went back to St. Paul's school a few days ago.

Mr. Dewey's father, Mr. Albert B. Dewey, who is in town at the moment, staying at the Ambassador East, plans to be in Pasadena for the winter, and the Albert B. Deweys Jr. are to be with him there for the first part of the winter, at least. Mrs. Dewey and the baby have been at the Ambassador East since they gave up their apartment at 1220 North State parkway, and Mr. Dewey Jr. has gone on to Pasadena and taken a house for them. The others will depart next week to join him in California.

Indoor Tennis Court Part of Mrs. K. C. Reed's Home.

The grand new indoor tennis court that's to be part of Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed's new Lake Forest estate is nearing completion now and is being used on rainy days by Miss Mary Reed and her friends. The workmen are still in the building though, and the furniture and drapes won't be installed in the dressing rooms for another two or three weeks. The latter means that Mrs. Reed is having to wait won't be ready to move into her new house next summer. She and her daughter are coming into town this week, but they plan to week-end in the country until quite late in the fall.

Jean Armstrong, daughter of the Samuel White Armstrongs of Winnetka, who is proficient at both tennis and golf, has played in one tournament right after another all summer, but now she's packed her rackets and clubs and is off for a season of European travel. She played in a tournament in Buffalo the first part of last week, and then went to New York to sail on Saturday on the Britannic with a group of young women. Her mother was in New York to bid her bon voyage and also to see about visiting the Armstrongs' younger daughter, Mary, in an eastern school.

At the annual meeting of the Lake Forest Garden club, held last Wednesday, the officers were all reelected. Mrs. Edwin B. Frost is the president; Mrs. Catherine B. Osborne, first vice president; Mrs. Henry P. Isham, second vice president; Mrs. John Jennings, secretary, and Mrs. Addin P. Fox, treasurer.

Service Club Showoff Night Stands Talent for Stage.

The Service club had what they called an amateur show-off night Monday evening to determine what special talent is to be featured in "Hit the Deck." Some of the hits of the show were Mrs. Eric Lambart's toe dance, which probably will earn her a part in one of the toe ballet numbers; Mrs. Jean Gillette's ballet dance, Mrs. Harriet Dow's singing, Jimmy O'Keefe's really facile tap, buck, and wing, and also dancing and clogging; Orrin Johnson's ballad, and the skit Jimmy Wise and Emily Pope are to do. Mary Offield has offered to "touch" Godfather Wrigley for the gum for the Klondike party Miss Marjory Wise is to give on Oct. 10 to add to the club treasury. The party will include dinner, dance, and games.

Hostabilities—Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Miss Rosemary Baur are to get into town this evening, after their summer abroad. Mrs. Chadwick went to New York to meet their boat . . . Mrs. T. Philip Hall, who has been at Virginia Hot Springs, met her mother, Mrs. Phelps Talbot, in New York when she landed from Europe on the Ile de France . . . Mrs. William B. Storey has left Santa Barbara house and is visiting for a few days in San Francisco before returning to Chicago . . . The William S. Covingtons are departing this week for Washington, D. C. Mr. Covington and the two children have been in the Charles H. Morse house in Lake Forest for the summer, while Mr. Covington has been commuting . . . Chicago friends of Chris—officially Christopher Columbus—Baldwin, who lived here several years ago, received invitations for his marriage to Miss Katharine McCluney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. McCluney of St. Louis. The wedding is to take place on Monday, Oct. 19, at St. Michael and St. George church in St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair and Watson K. Blair returned from abroad on the White Star liner Majestic yesterday.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Dickinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dickinson of Hubbard Woods, to Gerald E. White of Grand Rapids, Mich., was solemnized on Sept. 5 at the Winnetka Congregational church.

EPISCOPAL SESSION ADOPTS COMPROMISE ON WEDDINGS, DIVORCE

Denver, Colo., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Protestant Episcopal church adopted a new matrimonial canon today. The house of deputies raised few voices in protest as the Rev. Z. B. Phillips, Washington, D. C., its presiding officer, called for the vote. The vote was not recorded but was overwhelmingly favorable.

In the house of bishops, 70 affirmative votes were cast against 19 nays after Presiding Bishop James De Wolf Perry of Rhode Island had guided the bishops through a parliamentary maze and speakers had presented final objections amid cries for the question.

The canon, as finally adopted, was a compromise between the bishops and the deputies. Questions not definitely settled were referred to the next general convention. Futile attempts were made in both houses to recommit the entire question to the joint commission.

The canon provides for the establishment of an ecclesiastical court operating through the bishop for the consideration of matrimonial cases, in each diocese and missionary district, at the discretion of the diocese or district.

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 29.—The board of trustees of the University of Illinois at its monthly meeting today announced a presentation by Dr. David Kinley, president emeritus, of a sum of $20,000 for a fellowship in memory of his wife, the late Kate Neal Kinley. She died in Shanghai, China, on April 28 of this year.

"It shall be open to students whose principal or major studies are in instrumental or vocal music or in other fine arts, but shall not be open to students whose principal or major studies are in architectural construction, city planning, or landscape architecture.

Boys Smoke Dad's Cigarets, Says Vi, and Dad Objects

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I wish that you would call to the attention of modern youth, particularly those who are loudest voiced in their objections to the independent girl, the cigaret question as some of us see it and experience it.

"It used to be that the gentleman calling would bring his own supply of cigarets and be offended if the girl did not smoke his brand, provided she smoked. Now, he fails to bring any with him and puffs away the evening long on hers or dad's, which is worse. It has been the cause of many a family fight. It's laughable and petty from some angles, to be sure. But when you consider that I have to buy a carton at least every four days, it becomes an item of expense to be considered.

"In our household, a boy who brings his own cigarets is noticeable. Due for a cheer—from dad. It's not an infrequent happening to have the evening's Romeo pocket a package of ours and leave us stranded. And does my father give me—you know what, next day."

Now, young men, you know how to make a hit with father. And with father's girl, too.

I've heard older women—the bachelor housekeeping type of women—register complaints about this overtaking of hospitality. But the younger men, it was thought, hadn't graduated into the meanies whose entertainment becomes not only a matter of expense, but of irritation. There are just some things that the most independent girls and women cannot accept in men without a painful wrench for the good old days when men were men and women were glad of it.

"Vi," the young complainant, suggests that a man may figure he is only one and the number of cigarets consumed is small. But to a girl with a number of boy friends and a dad who watches his cigaret supply, it becomes more than a light irritation.

Anyway, you empty cigaret case boys know what Vi thinks of you and you can gather a pretty fair idea of what Vi hears about you next a. m. at the breakfast table.

Foster Mother Tells Child in Story Form About Its Adoption

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

On the principle that nothing could be more helpful or more encouraging to foster parents than the successful experience of other foster parents, the following letter is printed because it contains the actual words in which a mother told her child of his adoption.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: A man whom I know was adopted when less than 6 months old by a middle aged couple who had never had the pleasure of children of their own,, although they had been married many years. As to telling or not telling the child that it had been adopted, his foster mother met the situation in this way and very successfully:

"When he reached the 'tell me a story' age [perhaps 4 or 5 years old] she told him this one about himself. He liked to hear it best of all his bedtime stories, even though he knew it by heart after many tellings.

"Once upon a time there were a man and a woman who had been married a long time but had never had any little ones of their own to love. So, since they very much wished to have babies, they decided to adopt some little baby that had no one else to love and care for it. So they went one day to an orphans' home where there were many children of all ages and among them was one wee little boy, tinier than all the rest. He had eyes as blue as the sky and yellow hair, and they fell in love with him at once and took him home to live with them, and, being so tiny, he was very helpless and dependent upon them. But as each day went by they grew to love him more and more until it soon seemed as though they had had him always.

"He grew strong and became a fine, manly little boy whom they were proud and happy to own. Who do you suppose that little boy was?"

"At this point he would expand his chest a little more proudly and beamingly would pretend he didn't know just to get her to finish the story. Then she would say, 'That little boy was you and the man and woman were Mother and Daddy. And so now you are our own little boy and no one can ever take you away from us as long as we live, for we will love you always.'

"And so he grew to manhood fully informed of the truth concerning his adoption, but loving them as entirely as if he had been born to them and respecting them all the more for having told him at an age when the knowledge of it wouldn't affect his affection for them. This seems to me to be a beautiful way of bridging the gap and as it had no ill effects in this case perhaps others might find it effective, also."

To be sure, each mother would want to adapt the story to her individual needs, but it ought to be a splendid guide to those women who are completely at sea regarding the telling of the fact of adoption.

Elissa Landi Delays the Seaboard Express Here

In a dash from the west coast to catch a steamer for England, Elissa Landi yesterday held up the Seaboard express of the Pennsylvania lines for five minutes, until her diminutive pumps skipped up the steps. Hollywood's latest favorite, the star of "Body and Soul" and "Always Goodbye," was racing to London to the bedside of her mother, Countess Elissa Zenardi, who is critically ill.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Jim, the newsboy, after hauling a paper to his customer, who was an exceptionally large man, was giving him his change for a quarter. With each penny, nickel, and dime, he would look at the man. The man became much annoyed, and asked, "Well, sonny, do you think you'll know me the next time you see me?"

Much to his surprise, the boy quickly replied, "Yes, if you don't get a puncture."

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This new waistcoat type of dress would be stunning made of a black woolen for the skirt and one of the vivid red woolens for the double breasted bodice. The buttoned cuffs and side trimming pieces below the waistline suggestive of pockets are snappy. Plain brown for the skirt with a brown and red plaided woolen for the bodice is another suggestion.

The pattern, 3347, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for the skirt and ⅞ yards of 39 inch contrasting for the bodice.

Food Talk.

Cabbages are such solid, respectable citizens of the vegetable kingdom that we seldom give them the attention they deserve, which is usually the treatment accorded to "respectable citizens" of any kingdom or country. We have a tendency to dismiss them in terms of corned beef and cabbage, sauerkraut, and coleslaw . . . foods in themselves delicious, though by no means do they provide for the great cooking versatility of our red and white headed garden friends.

In late September and throughout October we are lucky in having an abundance of vegetables to choose from in our local markets. Economically thinking, both the red and white cabbage offer us tasty diversions in vegetable dinners, and now that the weather is cooler you can indulge yourself and family to the extent of a true boiled dinner, if you so choose.

Remember, cabbages keep well in an icebox. Should you be one of those loyal wives whom husbands enjoy showing off to their friends, you will keep an emergency head of cabbage in readiness to supplement a meal for the last minute guest, or guests.

RICE AND CABBAGE SOUP.

2 cups of shredded, half cooked cabbage.
2 quarts of soup stock.
½ cup of raw rice.
Parmesan cheese.
Butter.

Fry the half cooked cabbage in butter. Wash the rice and then boil until tender in the stock, which should be well seasoned. Add the cabbage and let boil for a few minutes. Pass freshly grated Parmesan cheese when it is served.

CABBAGE SALAD.

Shred a crisp head of cabbage and grate a little Spanish onion over it. Sprinkle lightly with celery seed. Add one-half of a chopped green pepper or chives. Mix together with a cooked salad dressing to which whipped cream has been added; or use a sour cream salad dressing.

GERMAN CABBAGE.

2 tablespoons of butter or drippings.
2 tablespoons of vinegar.
2 tablespoons of brown sugar.
Pinch of salt and pepper.

Cut the cabbage in half and shred for cooking. Soak in cold water for half an hour; drain and put into a hot spider with the butter. Cook covered for about fifty minutes over a slow fire. Stir occasionally. Remove the cover from the pan; add the vinegar, sugar, and seasonings, and cook for ten minutes longer. Stir frequently during the last ten minutes of cooking. Serve immediately.

WALNUT KISSES.

2 tablespoons of flour.
3 egg whites.
1 cup of rolled walnut meats.

Sift the sugar, flour, and nut meats together. Beat the egg whites until stiff and dry. Add the sugar mixture to the egg whites slowly. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet, and bake in a slow oven [275 degrees Fahrenheit]. They will brown slightly on the top when done.

NOTABLES TO LECTURE FOR CHICAGOANS DURING FALL, WINTER

Celebrities from many fields and varying nationalities will present the twelve lectures constituting the Town Hall series to be held in Chicago this winter for the first time. A similar schedule has been featured in New York for the last few years.

Patronesses and members of the events here comprise a representative list of well known Chicago women. The talks will be given at the Palmer house, usually on Saturday mornings.

William Lyon Phelps of Yale will open the series on Oct. 17, with a discussion of "Some Contemporary Books." The Right Honorable Winston Churchill, British author, statesman and orator; Cosmo Hamilton [Gibbs], author and playwright; Mary Garden, Rafael Sabatini, Jehan Warliker, authority on India; Lennox Robinson, the Irish dramatist, and others will follow.

Especial interest is being manifest in the appearance of Baroness Helene Nostitz von Hindenburg, niece of the president of Germany, who will visit Chicago for the first time when she comes for her engagement on Oct. 31. As an author, an artist and a leader of the social life of Germany, Baroness von Hindenburg is scheduled to tell about "The Old and New Germany" in an informative vein, from the courts of the empire and kaiser to the present. While in Chicago she will be entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum.

Kotex protects health as well as comfort

PLEASE don't ever think a sanitary pad is "just like Kotex" because it looks the same. You need more than surface resemblance.

You need the purity of Kotex. Your health requires its hygienic safety. Its care in making.

No sanitary protection that fails to meet these standards should ever be considered. You know Kotex is safe. You know hospitals use it.

This assurance of safety is beyond price. Don't give it up for the sake of a few pennies, when this saving means you must take some questionable substitute of whose makers you know nothing. Kotex assures every comfort. Amazing softness, that lasts. Scientific shaping, for comfort and inconspicuous lines. Easy disposability.

get rid of it

If you use Listerine after a shampoo; you can part your hair or arrange it where you choose. Moreover, when used full strength, frequently, Listerine is a preventive of loose dandruff—also a remedy. Tens of thousands of cases have yielded to it. You simply douse it on full strength and massage thoroughly. Keep the treatment up several days. You will be delighted by results.

If infection is present on the surface of the skin, Listerine attacks it. A powerful germicide, it kills bacteria in 15 seconds, the fastest killing time accurately recorded by science.

Listerine helps to dissolve oily crusts and quickly removes them, as well as horny scales. And Listerine quickly relieves that burning, itching sensation. It soothes inflamed or irritated areas of the scalp.

If scalp is excessively dry, a little olive oil may be used in connection with the Listerine shampoo, or independent of it. The oil aids in dissolving crusts and scales and keeps hair from drying out. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

For the nineteenth time over a long stretch of years the White Sox and Cubs are going to get together again today at Wrigley field. The occasion of the meeting is another dispute over the city baseball title and the matter will not be definitely settled until one or the other of the contenders has won four decisions.

In the many meetings between the town enemies, one being a world series won by the Sox and the other a city series tie, the American leaguers have a vast bulge in the matter of successful results. They have ten of the city games to their credit, whereas the Cubs, victors in the last two, have only six. But the Sox this time not only are back on their heels as the result of devastating injuries, but are a bit groggy from being booted around unceremoniously the last few weeks of the season.

Reynolds Still Doubtful.

Mr. Donie Bush, who still is of sound health despite his summer of misfortune, had to admit defeat again yesterday in the matter of playing Carl Reynolds. The fleet Texan worked out in the games at St. Louis and, while not so hot, looked like a possible starter. Yesterday, in the final workout, he displayed in an unmistakable way that his recently broken ankle had not returned to normalcy.

Not having Reynolds, at least for the first couple of games, means that Johnny Watwood will have to patrol center, with Fonseca in left and Jolley, another limping performer, in right. It was Watwood who muffed a fly which let the Cubs have their first run after Red Faber had blanked them for five innings in the recent charity game. If he drops one on Red today the veteran spitballer probably will file a complaint with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Pitchers.

Faber or Frasier?

Picking Faber to get the starting call over Vic Frasier is merely a guess, as Bush yesterday refused to be responsible for naming anybody in advance. It is not because of any effort at strategy that Bush is uncertain. He is so accustomed to being whipped regardless of whom he picks that he no longer attaches much importance to his choices. Faber, on form, is the best bet.

The Cubs took their final rehearsal yesterday and nothing happened to take any of the regulars out of the opening lineup. Most of Hornsby's men seem to think that, unless one or two of the pitchers crack wide open, they will be able to start their annual homeward dashes Saturday night.

There will be approximately 20,000 grandstand and bleacher admissions on sale at Wrigley field today. Some box seats also are available. Regular season prices of $1.50, $1 and 50 cents will prevail.

ANKLE BOTHERS ADAMS; HIGH MAY PLAY 3D

Athletics on Way to St. Louis.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 29.—The St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National league, had their parade this noon and it was just a dandy. The police were masterful in driving back the autograph nuts, the airplane squadron which dropped roses on the caravan did not forget to stay up in the air, and the scalpers pronounced it one of the most stirring spectacles they have viewed since the slump set in.

Sparky Adams may not be able to play third base for the Cardinals in the opening game Thursday because of an injured ankle. Adams participated in the workout this afternoon, but he obviously was not in the best of condition.

Adams' ankle, hurt ten days ago, pained him so much that he told Manager Street after the practice that he doubted his ability to play in the first two games here. Andy High will start at third if Adams is not sufficiently improved to take the field Thursday.

With the Philadelphia Athletics high hatting the St. Louisans by staying out of town just as long as possible, the natives here are having ample opportunity to concentrate on their own heroes. The ghost writers for Gabby Street, Burleigh Grimes and Frankie Frisch, just about have the local populace convinced that Mose Grove and George Earnshaw are a couple of stiffs and that the Red Birds will win under wraps.

Grass to Surprise A's.

No one here, of course, can figure why the A's had to linger in Philadelphia to stay out of St. Louis, but the fact remains that the world champions did not leave their quaint city until after dark this evening and will not cross the Mississippi until late tomorrow afternoon.

The champs apparently have doped out that they know all about Sportsman's park here, having played 11 games on the premises against the Browns and need no practice. But they are scheduled for a surprise, for when the A's last were here there was but a modicum of grass on the infield. Since that time the ground keeper has teased up several thousand blades of greenery.

While Connie Mack continues to do his big mystery act, the dopesters here are proceeding on the theory that Grove is to be the opening pitcher, opposed to the youthful but calm Paul Derringer for the Cards.

Williams May Replace Boley.

The Cardinals are expecting only one change in the Philadelphia lineup they faced a year ago—the substitution of Dib Williams for the veteran Joe Boley at short stop.

Freshman Pep Martin has his rubber leg under control and will start in center field for St. Louis, Wally Roettger will be in right field if Grove pitches and Watkins, who played in four games last year, will play right if Earnshaw works. The Card infield will be the same as last year's if Adams gets into condition to play and Jimmy Wilson again will do the catching.

Officials of the National and American leagues and Commissioner Landis and his retinue arrived here tonight and the social and business phase of the series perked up amazingly immediately thereafter.

Our constant readers and old subscribers, who doubtless are counting on us to dig up a little dirt, will be disappointed to learn that in two days here we haven't been able to unearth a ticket scandal. And, worse still, it doesn't appear there is going to be any scandal.

Despite the promise of a capacity

AL MOORE, N. U. VETERAN, OUT OF NEBRASKA GAME

Wilson, Harper on Air

KENNETH L. WILSON, athletic director at Northwestern university, and Jesse C. Harper, athletic director at Notre Dame, will talk over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station, tomorrow evening at 9:15 o'clock. Football teams from their schools will meet at Soldiers' field Oct. 10 in what is expected to be the biggest attraction of the season.

Ill luck, which has beset Al Moore, veteran Northwestern half back, since the start of practice, cropped up again toward the close of practice last night when Moore received an injury that will keep him out of Saturday's opening game with Nebraska.

Playing at left half back in a scrimmage against the reserves Moore received a blow on the kidneys that made it necessary for him to be helped off the field. He had just returned to practice after recovering from a leg injury. Coach Dick Hanley continued to use Ken Meehan, sophomore, at Moore's position.

The Wildcat coach has just about decided upon his starting combination and win, lose, or draw, he plans to give this group a thorough test.

Refuses to Take Chances.

"We can't afford to do much experimenting against Nebraska," Hanley pointed out. "This game differs from the usual opener and we plan to rise or fall on our first stringers. Our reserves are, for the most part, uncertain and hardly warrant a test against such competition as Nebraska affords."

The varsity was sent through a long scrimmage against the freshmen in which both offense and defense were stressed.

Ollie Olson, sophomore full back, continues to impress the coaches with his kicking, which in addition to his all around qualities as a passer and ball carrier, will make him invaluable this fall as understudy to Russell. His blocking, which at the outset of the season was not up to standard, has shown steady improvement.

NEBRASKA EYES RUSSELL

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Nebraska's football team is in the best of condition for Saturday's game with Northwestern at Evanston. Head Coach Bible announced today that the squad for the Evanston trip will include at least 30 men.

McPherson, first sub center, and Penney, a regular back, are the only casualties from the game with South Dakota. Their injuries are expected to respond to treatment, permitting them to play Saturday.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Northwestern and Notre Dame have two rugged foes to hurdle before they collide at Soldiers' field a week from Saturday. The Purple meets Nebraska at Evanston this week-end and the South Bend eleven goes to Bloomington to play Indiana.

MARCHMONT SCHWARTZ.

But for most of the supporters of Northwestern and Notre Dame this week's game are only a merry prelude to the main attraction. No matter what happens Saturday or any other Saturday after Oct. 10, the season will be a success or failure at Evanston and South Bend, according to the result of the battle on the lake front.

Fans already are steamed up to the point where they are writing letters to the sports editors. Once we escaped the cross-fire in the Sox-Cubs newspaper warfare we decided we never would get caught in that position again.

But here we are ten days away from the biggest football game of the year and our desk loaded with literature from subscribers who want to tell the world what they think about the Wildcats and the Irish. So here goes with a letter from Jeremiah Long, who, I believe, is pulling for Notre Dame:

"I see that you are again giving lots of space to those Northwestern Wildcats and how they are going to beat everybody this year. Already they have won from Nebraska, run Notre Dame ragged, and won a Big Ten title. Perhaps I should remind you about last year.

"Those Wildcats won seven straight games last year from a lot of pushovers in the Big Ten and Tulane and Centre college. You remember then how Northwestern was all ready to beat Notre Dame, don't you? After Schwartz and Carideo and little Metzger got through with them all they could talk about "we held Notre Dame scoreless for 54 minutes" and "we could have won but we fumbled."

"Now it seems that Coach Hanley's veterans, with Russell and Rentner in the back field, are counting their chickens a little early. Sure Notre Dame is whipped already. Last week they looked terrible against their own reserves. Rockne's gone and they only have 100 players left to play under Anderson.

"Well, Anderson knows more football than all Northwestern put together. Notre Dame will miss Carideo, the four full backs they lost last year, and Marty Brill. But Northwestern should remember Marchy Schwartz. He's still with the Irish and he's the boy who broke the Wildcats' hearts last fall.

"Notre Dame has lost good players in other years. And they always beat Northwestern. If they had to, their shock troops could beat Northwestern and they have a lot more than shock troops.

"Don't you get the idea that Evans or this new Northwestern center can stop Banas when he hits the line. Give him a little practice against those Wildcats and he'll be in shape to meet the Army and Southern California. Don't laugh at Sheeketski's name either. He can block like nobody's business and he'll let some of those soft Wildcat ends know he is in the game.

"How about Notre Dame's veteran line? Northwestern couldn't score last year and this year those Irish are better than ever.

"Northwestern never has beaten Notre Dame. Once they were ahead 10 to 0 at the half and look what happened. The Irish won, 13 to 10. Another time Baker kicked a couple of lucky field goals, but the Horsemen ran over him. That was at Soldiers' field, too, where Notre Dame will whip the Wildcats this year.

"Ask those big boys from Evanston if they remember that left handed passer, Parisien, who made them look like prairie players the same year he beat Southern California.

"Bring on Riley and Marvil to Soldiers' field. It'll be the third licking they have taken from Notre Dame. If they do get lucky some Northwestern player will do a 'Bruder' and drop the ball.

"Here's to Hunk and the Irish."

LUKATS' ANKLE BROKEN; OUT FOR REST OF SEASON

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Nick Lukats, leading candidate for the full back position on the Notre Dame football team, probably will be out of the game for the entire season. This was indicated today when an X-ray examination revealed that Lukats left ankle is fractured.

Lukats was injured in scrimmage last week, but X-ray photographs did not reveal the fracture and the injury was not regarded as serious. He continued to limp through practice, and when he complained of a pain in his ankle today Coach Heartly Anderson sent him to a specialist. Five X-ray photographs were made before the fracture was discovered.

Indiana Plays Work.

Students Win Ticket Fight.

News of the loss of Lukats cast gloom over the campus, which earlier had been cheered by the students' victory in their fight for cheaper tickets for the Notre Dame-Northwestern game at Soldiers' field on Oct. 10.

The Notre Dame Athletic association announced that it would purchase a sufficient number of tickets at regular rates to enable the students to see the game free of charge.

The armistice came following a conference between Athletic Director Jesse C. Harper, Senior Coach Heartly Anderson, school authorities, and student leaders. The solution of the problem caused by the students' planned boycott of all Notre Dame home games will mean an outlay of approximately $12,000 to the school's athletic association.

Charity Begins at Home.

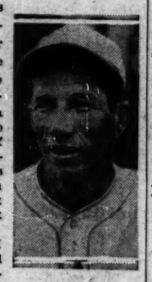
"This is a charity game," Athletic Director Harper said, following today's conference, "and since charity begins at home, we are giving the boys a free ride."

On the original home and home arrangement, the game would have been played in South Bend, but because of the charity angle involved it was transferred to Chicago and regarded as a Northwestern home game. This imposed the necessity of making Notre Dame students pay the regular admission price of four dollars, whereas they would have been admitted to the game at a minimum charge had it been billed as a Notre Dame home game.

DOPING THE OLD SERIES

BY SPENCER DROOLE
[Per Westbrook Pegler.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 29.—As the world series impends, I am forcibly reminded that the trouble with this country is too little respect for law, too little home discipline for the younger generation, and a disposition on the part of some of our leaders to dismiss the problems of the hour with a shrug of "Let the government do it."



LEFTY GROVE.

My theory, as I frankly explained to President Hoover when he called me to Washington to ask my advice on the growing menace of crime, is that if every man in the country were to buy a lawnmower, a suit of clothes, and a pair of shoes, there would be an immediate rise in commodity prices, employment would pick up, and the factor of crime with relation to the solvency curve would show unmistakable signs of reabsorption, reaching a maximum within the present fiscal period.

O, Yes, Grove May Start First Game.

Lest it be thought that all this has little to do with the coming world series between the Cardinals and the Athletics, let me explain that these two baseball clubs clearly illustrate the operation of a famous old socio-economic principle which, briefly, is that men who are engaged in playing games are not likely to be found cracking safes. It is this very tendency, as I told Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald when he asked my advice on the dole question, which obviates the necessity for a compensating element when employers discharge their workers, creating a situation which we commonly describe as hard times.

I have absolutely no sympathy with the criminal, but on the other hand I am steadfastly opposed to our present policy and, regardless of whether Connie Mack starts Grove in the first game, it is the duty of the authorities to formulate a definite, concrete, progressive program looking toward the adoption of a coherent plan to set in motion the forces which now lie latent in the situation.

Grove, I understand, has won 31 games for the Athletics this year, but on the very eve of the world series, notwithstanding this remarkable record, holdups continue in St. Louis and the constituted authorities are baffled.

I am proud to call Connie Mack my friend. He has won many pennants and he is now entering the world series again, veritably the grand Old Man of the national game. To such a man I gladly extend the hand of friendship and for him I publicly avow my admiration as happened today when I willingly posed for my photograph with him.

It is a matter of sincere regret to me that several ladies, two newsboys, and a crippled apple vendor happened to bump into one another and fall down in the confusion as I reluctantly and modestly stepped into the focus of the lens for the photograph. But I tell you that as the cheers rolled up from the throats of the crowd there I was glad for Mr. Mack's sake, because without any affected modesty I truly believe the ovation was partly intended for him and for myself.

All Interesting, These Sport Leaders.

I take men as I find them—Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Connie Mack. They all have their place in the great American scheme, leaders in their chosen lines, and I find them just as interesting in their way as the great crowned heads and statesmen of the world.

So now we come to the matter of the prohibition law in its relation to the present situation. The principal defect of the whole position, as I flatly warned Mr. Mellon, is that the law has not been efficiently enforced and the wonder of it all is that the Cardinals could come on to win their pennant again, considering all the factors in their case.

But what I have been striving for is an awakening of the public conscience to a realization of the hard, cold facts. There is good stock in the average American citizen; he is a fighter when aroused to a sense of the wrong that is going on around him, but without leadership no army can hope to win a war and no ball club a pennant.

For this reason, I pay to Manager Gabby Street the same honor that I accord Mr. Mack, and I have this evening been telephoning the news reel photographers, who, I understand, are hunting high and low for me, to simplify their task by making a definite appointment to have my picture taken with him, also, with sound.

And Not One Has a Prison Record.

The editor who engaged me to cover the world series from the standpoint of the serious student of affairs has asked me not to complicate my discussion with dull, technical considerations, such as relative ages and batting averages, but I cannot refrain from one observation in this regard which seems highly significant to me. That is that you may search the averages for the last twenty years, and in all that great body of sportsmen, all of whom I would be proud to call my friends and shake by the hand anywhere, not one has a prison record.

Does this mean anything to the average honest American citizen? I think it does. But whether the lesson will sink in is something that only the future can tell.

(This is the last of a series of one article by Mr. Droole on a seldom treated aspect of the annual fall classic of the world series.)

Therefore He Finishes Last at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Yes, sir! Jim Dandy, the cup horse owned by the wealthy Californian, Chaffee Earl, needs his mud if he is going anywhere.

Jim, in Chicago to run in the Hawthorne Gold cup, quit praying for rain and a muddy track long enough yesterday to make a start in the Ridgeland purse, the day's feature at Hawthorne.

All prayers for rain and no exercise make Jim a dull boy, his trainer, James McKee, thought. So Jim, after a few idle weeks, paraded out with Jockey E. James up against a band of very ordinary sprinters.

Runs Last Throughout.

Then the colt which shocked the world a year ago by beating the champion Gallant Fox and the near champion Which One proceeded to run last from flag fall to the winning post.

Jim simply could not untrack himself on the lightning fast Hawthorne track. He ran so slow at some stages it looked as if he had stopped to pray for rain.

The winner was the very ordinary Homer L. from the stable of John Marsch of Chicago. Port Harlem, which made most of the pace, was running gamely near the end and was second a head behind. Old Martie Flynn, slow to get going, made up much ground and was third.

Whipped by 16 Lengths.

Jim Dandy was ten lengths back of the pack plugging along like any good mud horse would be on a fast track. The customers didn't have much confidence in Jim and he would have been at 40 to 1 in the betting. But odds mean nothing to Jim. He was at 200 to 1 when he beat Gallant Fox. Fiddler was the favorite and he didn't run much faster than Jim Dandy. Homer L. paid $17.48.

Cheers, which has been winning races around Chicago nearly all season, conquered another band of sprinters in the Prospect purse at six furlongs. The favorite Martha Jones was left at the post, having developed into the most notorious bad post performer of the season.

The fleet Tombereau made the early pace and when he headed into the stretch two lengths in front victory seemed assured. Cheers, racing far out from the rail, soon pulled up even with Tombereau, however, and once conquered Tombereau dropped back very fast.

On Sir Wins Easily.

Seguro racing from far back got up to be second and Tombereau saved the money. There had been quite a plunge on Calf Roper, but he never could get up. Cheers won by two and one-half lengths and paid $10.50.

Earlier in the afternoon there had been an upset in the Andover purse when On Sir, owned by young Jim Norris of Chicago, won by a length from Red Diamond with the favorite, Dis Dat, third.

On Sir, at more than 5 to 1, never left the result in doubt after he gained the lead. He raced along two and three lengths to the good all the way with Red Diamond, Dist Dat and Uma all making futile challenges. Jockey Chiavetta rode On Sir.

"O" Horses on Vacation.

Persons who play the track handicapper's "O" horses have been treated harshly of late. Not an "O" horse won at Lincoln Fields last Saturday. Not an "O" horse triumphed at Hawthorne on Monday and everything but an "O" horse won at Hawthorne yesterday.

YACHTSMEN FIND MANY GOALS FOR PLEASURE TRIPS

But Poor Harbors Take Joy from Cruise.

(This is the third and last of a series of articles on the status of yacht harbor improvements in the Lake Michigan district.)

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Some place to go is paramount in pleasure boating, and Chicago yachtsmen have never wanted for an objective, what with more than three hundred miles of the east shore of Lake Michigan to greet them. However, the business of setting sail and charting a course for a certain port is not the only requirement of an average cruise, for there is always the problem of getting into that port without striking a pier or breakwater, a problem often made more difficult during a squall.

What has the east shore of the lake to offer in the matter of adequately protected harbors for Chicago sailors? That is a question which has members of the three major local organizations—the Chicago, Columbia, and Jackson Park Yacht clubs—somewhat divided, for while many Michigan ports are maintained satisfactorily, others are not consistently dredged or their piers and breakwaters are partially dilapidated, making entrance, not to mention mooring, an uncomfortable and often hazardous proposition.

Mackinac Real Haven.

Four harbors on the other side of the lake form annual objectives for Chicago boats. The most important of these is Mackinac island, 330 miles to the northeast, which constitutes the finish of the Chicago Yacht club's cruise each July. The sailors from Belmont harbor also race to Black lake, near Holland, Mich., and about 95 miles northeast of Chicago. The Jackson Park Yacht club holds an annual race to Saugatuck, Mich., about 90 miles northeast from Chicago harbor. Both the Jackson Park and Columbia clubs stage races each summer to Michigan City, Ind., which lies approximately 38 miles east of the mouth of the Chicago river.

Mackinac island provides a real haven for the boats each year. The boat owner finds protection in quantity here, despite the heavy seas and boisterous winds common to the Straits of Mackinac.

Black Lake Also Good.

The sailors find no complaint with the harbor at Black lake. Because of its proximity to the city of Holland it benefits by government work in connection with Holland, which is a commercial harbor. The channel from Lake Michigan to Black lake is approximately 2,500 feet long and varies in width from 260 feet at the entrance in Lake Michigan to 120 feet between the inner piers and revetments to Black lake. Present government plans include the extension of the present entrance piers to the shore. Inner piers and revetments are completed. The plan also includes annual dredging of the channel, the last one providing a depth of 18 feet from Black lake to Lake Michigan.

Saugatuck, one of the most popular harbors on the lake because of its recreation facilities, is not as fortunate in the matter of an improved harbor. It is solely a rendezvous for pleasure boats, the government having abandoned it within recent years, so that the question of repairs and improvements eventually rests with the state of Michigan and the town itself.

Harbor Is Shallow.

The harbor is located in the Kalamazoo river. Saugatuck is situated two miles upstream from Lake Michigan, at the lower end of Kalamazoo lake, which is merely an enlargement of the Kalamazoo river and not more than a mile in length. Parallel piers and revetments, about 200 feet apart and approximately 2,500 feet in length, are in need of considerable repairs. This harbor also has lacked sufficient dredging, one yachtsman who made a stop there during the early part of the season reporting the depth at little more than five feet. He pointed out that mooring a boat with a heavy draft running would be extremely dangerous. The effect of dredging on the river is only a temporary one, shoals reappearing with the first lake storms following the dredging.

Michigan City, being a commercial harbor, also benefits by government improvements, so that Chicago yachtsmen have voiced no objections insofar as piers and breakwaters are concerned. Their score against this port, judging from the replies of a number questioned, lies in the undesirable nature of the waters of Trail creek, where arriving boats eventually tie up. These are generally marred by industrial waste and the municipal sewage. Michigan City is without a sewage disposal plant.

Sailing on Decline.

The state of Indiana originally fixed a time limit for various shore line municipalities on disposing of sewage in the lake, allowing them a certain period in which to construct proper disposal plants. Financial difficulties have prevented Michigan City, among others, to build a plant, so that the state has extended the time limit periodically. For example, the Wewinnoo, a white hulled, 50 foot deckhouse cruiser owned by C. J. Peterson of the Chicago Yacht club, vice commodore of the Lake Michigan Yachting association's power yacht squadron, still bears along its waterline a memento of a stop made at Michigan City on June 17.

A majority of Chicago yachtsmen appear to be more interested in finding harbors that might be reached within a day or week-end. This directs attention to the Indiana dunes region. Both George W. Schaeffer, secretary of the South Shore Power Boat club and John P. O'Rourke of the Jackson Park Yacht club declare that a point in this section would make an admirable harbor.

A recent project to develop the territory near Burns Ditch, about ten miles below Gary, as a summer resort and harbor for yachtsmen failed, but Mr. Schaeffer declared there are several other stretches which might serve, notably that between Tremont and Michigan City. Parallel piers and a breakwater alone would serve as protection. Many south side yachtsmen have made cruises to the dunes, but only during good weather, and then they have been forced to row ashore, after mooring their boats out in the lake, and hoping against a squall.

LEVINSKY SEEKS QUICK WIN OVER SEKYRA TONIGHT

It's Slugger vs. Boxer at Coliseum Opener.

Joe Sekyra and King Levinsky are ready for their ten round battle tonight, which opens the indoor boxing season at the Coliseum. They rested yesterday, except for brief gymnasium exercises, and this afternoon will appear before the Illinois athletic commission for examination.

Tonight's bout is another chapter in an old story. King Levinsky, perhaps a better boxer than he was two years ago, still depends on a right hand, which somehow or other hits a bit harder than the right hands of most heavyweights. It may be the King swings from a greater distance, but without going into that there is no denying the power.

Sekyra Is Clever.

Sekyra, an ordinary puncher, was clever enough to beat Charlie Retzlaff. It was this victory which brought Sekyra back into prominence after a season of fighting second rate boxers. Sekyra also recently stood up to that boxing expert, Tommy Loughran, and, although he lost the decision, he penetrated Tommy's defense consistently and the defeat was not overwhelming.

Sekyra is risking his renovated reputation against Levinsky, while the King hopes to put over a one punch victory, thereby holding his following, which likes quick knockouts but grows tired of ten rounds of wild flailing without results.

If the King Connects.

If Levinsky finds the range against Sekyra as he did against O'Kelly it is almost certain the Bohemian will be finished before the fight is well under way. O'Kelly came through a disastrous first round, but it isn't probable that Sekyra also possesses such remarkable stamina.

In support of the heavyweight battle the Coliseum schedule brings together a number of Chicago boxers. Paul Dazzo, who under the name of Leberto fought on a Chicago Golden Gloves team, is matched with Paul Dempsey for six rounds. Another six rounder will send Joe Corbett and Charley Young into action.

Iowa Engages in Scrimmage for Pitt Game

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Coach Burt Ingwersen today sent the University of Iowa's football squad through the last hard scrimmage before Saturday's game against Pittsburgh.

Injury to Edward Dolly, mainstay in the line since the loss of Magnussen, caused Coach Ingwersen to make further shifts. Dr. Leonard Ristine, medical adviser, said Dolly would not be in uniform for at least two days, and it is doubtful whether he will be able to start at center against Pittsburgh.

In today's practice Case continued as varsity center. Tompkins and Hantelman were the guards, Rogers and Dee the tackles, and Fisher and Story the ends.

HOOSIER REGULARS RELAX

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Indiana's regulars practiced passing and kicking in Memorial stadium this afternoon in preparation for the Notre Dame game here Saturday.

Meanwhile, the reserve squads worked against freshmen as the coaches scanned the field for players to be recruited for the first two squads. Coach Hayes aims to develop two equally good men for each position.

CHANGE GOPHER LINEUP

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Minnesota may have four new players in the first string lineup against the Oklahoma Aggies Saturday. Coach Fritz Crisler made several changes in the regular lineup in the first scrimmage of the week, sending Burdick and Johnny Hass into the back field in place of Swartz and Walt Hass, respectively. Roy Oen replaced Stein at center, and Dennerly was used at right guard in place of Reihsen.

Minnesota's line will lose more than 70 pounds in weight if Oen and Dennerly retain their first team berths. Dennerly weighs 157 pounds and Oen 165.

LIGHT OHIO DRILL

Columbus, O., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Ohio State's varsity engaged in signal drill and brushed up its offense today. Practice was lightened to allow players on the injured list to recuperate. Barring further injuries the Buckeyes should line up as follows:

FIRST TEAM—Rabenstein, L. E.; Habrich, L. T.; Gailus, L. G.; Smith, C.; Varner, R. G.; Rosequist, R. T.; Nasman, R. E.; Cramer, Q. B.; Hinchman, L. H.; Holcomb, R. H.; Vuchinich, F. B.

SECOND TEAM—Conrad, L. E.; Bell, L. T.; Kile, L. G.; Delich, C.; Lukz, R. G.; Van Blaricom, R. T.; Hosket, R. E.; Oliphant, Q. B.; Keefe, L. H.; Carroll, R. H.; Welever, F. B.

If the injured respond rapidly the lineup is subject to change with Ferrall replacing Rabenstein and Baumgarten replacing Van Blaricom.

PURDUE FINDS DROP KICKER

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—For the first time in years Purdue may have a capable drop kicker. During this afternoon's drill Paul Pardonner, sophomore quarter back, sent drop kicks between the goal posts with regularity.

Pardonner appeared in a back field made up of three sophomores and Roy Horstmann, veteran full back. This combination took most of the afternoon's attention as the coaches groomed the squad for Saturday's double header with Coe and Western Reserve.

While the veteran Risk-Purvis-Yunevich-White back field watched from the sidelines, Horstmann and Pardonner, with Fred Hecker and Doxie Moore, showed to advantage against a third string eleven in scrimmage.

MORE REST FOR MAROONS

Members of the University of Chicago varsity who have been quartered in the new residence halls on the Midway will get an extra hour or two of sleep tomorrow morning. Classes at the university begin tomorrow and the players will move today to their own residences, where they hope to be safe from Coach Pat Page, who has been routing them out of bed every morning at 6:45 for four laps around the baseball field.

Morning practice yesterday was slowed up by university registration, but Coach Stagg sent the squad through a spirited scrimmage in the afternoon. He has been hearing much of Herman Everhardus, one of several brilliant sophomores on the Michigan team, and is working his back field on pass defense.

Paul Stagg, for the first time in his three years' competition, will be unable to participate in practice for several days. He suffered a slight leg injury during scrimmage.

Double drills will end after today and thereafter the Maroons will be on a regular two hour practice schedule.

BADGERS SHAKEN UP

Madison, Wis., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin football team was given a shakeup today. When two varsity teams took the field for the first scrimmage of the year against freshman elevens, it was difficult to pick the first team. The one on which Capt. Smith played, however, had Schneller at full back, Catlin and Thurner at ends, and Kabat at guard, and was generally given that distinction.

The changes produced the best offense shown thus far. Rebholz and Linfor ran well behind improved interference, and Strain passed accurately. The freshman defense was weak, but three frosh tackles, Mario Pacetti, Babich, and Sowle, made considerable trouble for the varsity backs. Goldenberg was again used at left wing back.

TESSMER STAR AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Zit Tessmer appears to have gained the first call as Michigan's quarter back. Of course, Harry Newman, nursing an ankle injury, still is having trouble getting around, but Tessmer has shown that he can handle a team and can carry the ball. Today his punting was the best seen on Ferry field this season. Thus he is likely to start Saturday's main game against Ypsilanti Normal.

Herman Everhardus and Jack Heston, two sophomore punters, are disabled but are expected to be ready Saturday. It is possible that Everhardus will start in the Ypsilanti game, working with Fay at half back. Heston may start in the Mount Pleasant contest.

ILLINI STUDY FOES' PLAYS

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The University of Illinois scrimmaged today against the freshmen, who used St. Louis university plays. St. Louis will open the Illini schedule here Saturday, using the Notre Dame system, which Illinois will meet again a week later in the conference opener against Purdue.

Gil Berry, half back, was among those who participated in a place kicking workout. Dave Cook, Berry's sophomore running mate, missed two chances for extra points in the annual freshman varsity contest. More than 3,000 Boy Scouts will be guests of the athletic association for the St. Louis game.

FOOTBALL for the FAN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The forward pass is the complement of the running play in gridiron attack. The pass, which is credited with saving football when injuries and excessive roughness 25 years ago had aroused protest against the game, has been developed until, in some instances, a team which is outclassed in line play will defeat its opponent by its air play.

The lateral pass, which will be considered later, has not been developed to its greatest extent. The regulations concerning lateral passes have been changed recently to encourage their use. The lateral pass ordinarily permits a runner to get free before reaching the line of scrimmage, while the forward pass, by itself, may gain long distances.

The principal restrictions on the use of the forward pass are:

1. Only ONE forward pass may be made during each scrimmage by the team in possession of the ball. The team which did not put the ball in play cannot make a forward pass. If it does, the penalty is loss of 15 yards. This is a violation you will seldom see. The only possibility is an attempted lateral pass which unintentionally is thrown slightly forward.

Loss of Down for 2 Passes in One Scrimmage.

A second [and illegal] forward pass by the team putting the ball in play may have been intended for a lateral pass which was thrown inaccurately. The penalty for two forward passes from the scrimmage is loss of a down.

[Note. A forward pass may be thrown at any angle toward the opponents' goal.]

2. The passer must be at least FIVE YARDS behind the line of scrimmage when he throws the ball. He does not have to be five yards back when he receives the ball from the center or a team mate.

3. Who may catch a forward pass?

Any of the 11 opponents on the defense may catch [intereept] a forward pass.

The two end men on the scrimmage line of the team putting the ball in play, and other players who are at least one yard back of the line of scrimmage when the ball is snapped, are eligible to catch a forward pass.

A diagram of the team in possession of the ball, showing which players are eligible to receive a forward pass, follows:

Seven players [at least] of the offensive team must be on the line of scrimmage when the ball is put in play. The end men [Nos. 1 and 7] are eligible on this play to receive a pass, no matter what position they customarily play in the line. The other four players [all at least one yard back of the line] are eligible. Obviously one of these men [A, B, C, D] must throw the pass, unless you figure out a freak play. So we arrive at a number of five players who are eligible.

Never More Than Four Go After Pass.

Generally THREE players—never more than FOUR—are used in a forward pass play.

Let us continue with restrictions on catching a forward pass:

When one of these eligible receivers has touched the ball he is the ONLY PLAYER of the offense who may recover the ball unless the ball has been touched by an opponent.

An eligible player who goes out of bounds becomes INELIGIBLE to catch a pass unless he comes back in the field of play and in the meantime the ball has been touched by an opponent.

When an opponent touches the ball ALL PLAYERS [22] are eligible to recover the pass.

[Note: When the forward pass strikes the ground the ball is dead. The pass is "incompleted."]

What happens when a pass is incomplete?

1. The offense loses a down or loses a down and additional yards as penalty or loses the ball. If the incomplete pass was made on fourth down, the ball becomes the possession of the opponents at the point where it had been put in play unless a penalty changes that location. [If the pass is incomplete over the opponents' goal line, no matter the down, it is a touchback and the ball goes to the opponents on their own 20 yard line].

2. For a second, third or fourth incomplete forward pass in the same series of downs the offense loses five yards. Example: The offense passes unsuccessfully on first down. Now it is second down and 10 yards to gain. Again an incomplete pass. Third down and 15 yards which includes the loss of five yards. Once again an incomplete pass. Fourth down and 20 yards. Another incomplete pass, penalty of five yards and the ball goes to the opponents for failure to make required distance in four attempts.

Penalty Even If There Is a Running Play.

More often you will see the following combination, which involves a five yard penalty and which ordinarily puzzles the spectator.

First down and ten yards to gain. An incomplete pass. Second down and ten yards. A running play which does not gain ten yards. Third down and another incomplete forward pass. This is the SECOND incomplete pass in the series. A penalty of FIVE YARDS is inflicted. Fourth down and the team punts, runs or passes.

(Tomorrow's article will continue the discussion of the forward pass.)

Notre Dame May Meet Ohio State on Grid in 1933

Columbus, O., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Ohio State university may meet Notre Dame on the gridiron in 1933 and 1934, it became known today. The announcement was made by the Rev. Father Patrick Carroll, C. S. C., former vice president of Notre Dame and now on the college staff, who is visiting friends here.

The proposal, the Rev. Father Carroll said, called for the first game to be played in the Ohio stadium in 1933.

Director of Athletics L. W. St. John of the Ohio State university refused to confirm the report, but added that the matter had been brought before the Ohio State board early in the year. Nothing definite had been done about it, he said.

York-Maine Game Heads Suburban Bill

York High school, the 1930 champion of the West Suburban conference, will play its opening league contest Saturday afternoon, meeting Maine at Des Plaines. In other games, Riverside will play Downers Grove and Hinsdale will be at Glenbard.

In its two practice games, York defeated Argo but lost to West Aurora last Saturday. Boelz, who played center last year and in York's two practice games, has been shifted to the back field and will play left half against Maine.

The members of Marshall's football team, which traveled to Ironwood, Mich., Saturday, to score another practice victory, in addition to practicing several hours each day, are being kept busy packing and unpacking their traveling bags. The squad will go to Rockford, Ill., Friday night to meet Rockford High school.

The Chicago Public High school league sports schedules continue to come out of A. H. Pritzlaff's office. The soccer program was received yesterday. The opening games will be played Oct. 6. Crane will meet Tilden, Schurz will battle Harrison and Lane and Lake View will play at Winnemac park.

There is nothing but gloom in the Loyola academy camp. Griff Healy, Vincent Daley and Justin Sheridan, three of the outstanding players of the football team, will be out of the lineup for several weeks. Loyola will play its first league game Sunday afternoon against St. Michael.

Several teams in the City league have open dates on their football schedules. Lane Tech is without a game for Saturday, while Parker is seeking a game with an out of town team for Thanksgiving day.

Frank Leonetti, the regular Harrison Tech full back, probably will play against Harrison Saturday afternoon at Normal park. Leonetti, who was injured last week, donned his uniform again yesterday.

Kinsella and Cain, who were injured in St. Mel's game with St. Patrick, will not be in the lineup when St. Mel faces St. George Sunday at Logan Square park. Forward passing was stressed by Coach Paddy Driscoll in yesterday's drill.

"Eddie Gustafson undoubtedly will be one of the outstanding punters of the league this season," writes Wilbur Anderson, Lane Tech correspondent. "He kicks around 50 yards consistently and is one of Lane's best ball carriers."

Soccer Teams Compete for South Park Title Saturday

The annual south parks soccer tournament will be held Saturday at Washington park. Competition will be in two classes. The 95 pound teams meet in the morning and the 110 pound teams in the afternoon. Although all teams will consist of 11 men, no team may compete at any time with less than 8 members. There will be two halves of 15 minutes each.

CITY SERIES.

CUBS and White Sox will inaugurate another city series this afternoon at Wrigley field. While the previous record of this internecine diamond warfare stands ten victories for the south siders and six for the present north siders, once west siders, odds in the present instance favor strongly Rogers Hornsby's young men.

Because readers already now about all that there is to know, if there is anything to know, about the opposing teams we'll look at the speculative end, as indicating chances, and tell what a loop bookmaker has to say of the proposition. In response to our query he said:

"Figuring this series as we figure horse races, the Cubs should be favorites at odds of about 1 to 4. During the season I take bets on single baseball games, but I'm not seeking any trade on this series. While the Cubs figure so strongly, largely because of the pitching as well as apparently general all around strength, I don't like to lay 4 to 1 against anything in these times. Such odds probably would draw Sox wagers, but I doubt whether Cub fans would give better than 1 to 3, perhaps not that." So much for that opinion.

Enthusiasm of fans, stimulated by the Cubs-Sox charity game which realized $44,000 for the unemployed, since has been somewhat dissipated by White Sox defeats on its eastern trip and the crippled condition of the team. Let the south siders annex a victory or two, however, and you'll see those south side rooters out with all their old enthusiasm. Public interest, in general, will hinge on whether Bush's men do better than expected in the first two games.

Did You?

Did you ever think when you drained your ale
A few years ago by a brass decked rail
That you'd soon be paying about five times the price
For a poor kind of ale that would never suffice
To fill up your body, expanding your trunk
Till your spirit withdrew itself, pleasantly drunk?
That the ale would be cut and then recut again
Till its kick was as weak as the kick of a wren;
That the ale that you got would be bootlegged right through
From the still where it's made past the cops straight to you;

Youthful Champions.

It is rather remarkable that in sports requiring as much practice and tournament experience as tennis and golf two champions of 20 years old have appeared in one season. Ellsworth Vines, men's tennis singles champion, and Miss Helen Hicks, women's golf champion, may be starting such a reign as Big Bill Tilden and Miss Glenna Collett Vare enjoyed—or they may not. Both accomplished more than expected of them in 1931, and both promise much for international competition.

Vines Protects Standing.

By a California friend we are told that Ellsworth Vines, new tennis champion, formerly worked in the sporting goods department of a Pasadena department store where his mother for years has held a managerial position. When his tennis gave promise of national prominence he gave up this position so no question of his amateur standing could be raised, although his work there in no way was based on his tennis standing, because he did not have such standing when he first took the job. He is now a sophomore at University of Southern California. It is gratifying to know that he is esteemed highly by those who knew him before he had achieved notable tennis honors.

U. OF I. DOCTOR HITS 'POLITICS' IN COUNTY HOSPITAL

Dr. Meyer, Warden Zimmer Answer Charges.

The political administration of the Cook county hospital and the hospital's failure to pay attending physicians in charity cases were attacked yesterday by Dr. W. F. Petersen, professor of pathology at the University of Illinois, in an address before the American Hospital association, meeting in Toronto. Dr. Petersen's comment brought out a sharp reply immediately from Dr. Karl Meyer, chief of staff of the hospital, and Michael Zimmer, the warden.

"At the Cook county hospital," Dr. Petersen said, "there is no control—no one to keep watch on how well the work is done. In one service, gall bladder operation may result in a 50 per cent mortality, in another it may be 5 or 10 per cent—without responsibility, the character of the work suffers, and the patient bears the burden.

"But, unfortunately, mortality statistics—which, incidentally, are nonexistent—would probably interest the administrative political board much less than the cost per diem and places for henchmen.

Raps Political Control.

"Political boards of control usually employ many auditors to account for every dollar expended. But do they ever investigate the comparative expenditure of human lives by standard operative procedures?"

The theory that doctors should serve the charity institutions of the community without pay is an outrageous imposition, Dr. Petersen said. He criticized it as one of the main reasons for inefficient and indifferent medical service. Doctors serving without pay, he said, do so for one of several reasons—for experience, for prestige, as a means to obtain a professorship in a medical college, or for pure delight in practice without pay.

Dr. Petersen said a special analysis of 100 cases of ex-ophthalmic operations at the hospital showed a mortality rate of 15 per cent, which, he added, was fifteen times greater than it should be.

Dr. Meyer and Zimmer Reply.

In reply, Dr. Meyer said that Dr. Petersen had been "sniping" at the Cook county hospital administration for four years in an effort to gain control of the institution.

"There are no places for henchmen on our staff," he said. "The staff is under civil service, and right now 160 of the city's best physicians are taking an examination for appointment to the staff. As for serving without pay, the value of the service to the physician is the reward. There is no comparison with the cost per diem at the hospital and the care of the patient. The patient comes first, always."

Falls from Judge's Chair to Street; Fatally Hurt

Thomas Haywood, 60 years old, whose last address was the Salvation Army shelter at 509 North Union avenue, slipped past police in the Desplaines street station on Monday night and up to the second floor courtroom, where he went to sleep in the judge's swivel chair. The chair tipped back, he fell through a window to a pavement twenty feet below, and suffered a fractured skull, which caused his death yesterday in the county hospital.

CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER IN AUTO DEATH

Fred L. Workman, 222 Leicester road, Kenilworth, vice president of the Workman Manufacturing company, blank book manufacturers, was arrested in Gary on a charge of manslaughter last night after the automobile he was driving struck and killed Mrs. Mary S. Miakowski, 23 years old, 945 Marshall avenue, Gary. The accident occurred at 5th avenue and Kentucky street, Gary.

Responsibility for 68 per cent of all automobile deaths in Cook county can be traced to the drivers of motor cars. This was the assertion of Coroner Bundesen yesterday when he announced that motor vehicle casualties for July, August, and September had surpassed the total for the first six months of the year. There were no automobile deaths yesterday and the toll remained at 910. For the first six months the fatalities numbered 406.

"Carelessness, selfishness, and discourtesy are the three factors which largely bring about accidents. The carelessness of yielding to a mania for speed, the selfishness of drivers in not considering the rights of pedestrians, and the discourtesy with which motorists 'hog the road' from one another and fail to give 'right of way,' are accident causes," the coroner declared.

WIDOW APPEALS IN FIGHT OVER SPINDLER WILL

Mrs. Helen Spindler, widow of Oscar Spindler, former head of the Decorators' Supply company, yesterday appealed to the Circuit court in an effort to get approval to a codicil to her husband's will. Mr. Spindler died on July 11 leaving an estate of $1,000,000. Oscar S. Kaplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner refused to approve the codicil, under which she would receive $150,000. The will, which bequeathed her $50,000 in cash and the home at 3974 Lake Park avenue, was probated.

Raymond W. Spindler, 4724 Greenwood avenue, a son, and Mrs. Ilse Fulks of Yonkers, N. Y., a daughter, divide their father's estate under the will. Mrs. Spindler, her husband's second wife, received her share of the estate under an anti-nuptial agreement made in 1928. The agreement also stated that she should receive $5,000 for each three year period she resided with him. This clause was not invoked, since Mr. Spindler died at the age of 62 years a few months before the first period would have been completed.

The codicil was rejected by the court after three former employés of Mr. Spindler testified that he had been of unsound mind during the latter years of his life.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.

TWO NEW SUSPECTS BEING INVESTIGATED IN COLLINGS MURDER

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The investigation of the murder of Benjamin P. Collings on Long Island sound on Sept. 10 will center tomorrow in Westchester county, where Assistant District Attorney Fred Munder of Suffolk county will go in connection with two suspects who are under surveillance by the Westchester county police.

This was learned on good authority tonight in Huntington, L. I., after Mr. Munder had closed his office for the day. It was not known how long the Westchester suspects have been trailed by the authorities in that country, or whether they have as yet been apprehended.

During the day the body of an unidentified man was washed up by the tide at Asharoken beach, L. I., across Huntington bay from the spot where Collings was found several days after he was thrown from his yacht, Penguin, to drown, bound hand and foot. At first Mr. Munder expressed the belief that the body might be that of the "wounded man" mentioned by Mrs. Collings in her story, but it was found later that the body had been in the water too long to fit this theory.

An earlier clew which concerned an elderly man and his son who spent most of last summer near Stamford puttering around an old boat on the sound also exploded. Mrs. Collings studied three pictures of the pair and, though inclined at first to see remote resemblance in the photograph of the older man, said positively later that they were not photographs of the men who murdered her husband.

AS HOLDUP MAN JAMES IS ALSO A POOR ANATOMIST

Richard Withey of Los Angeles, James Johnson of Phoenix, Ariz., and Roy Owens of Hattiesburg, Miss., all about 24 years old, are stickup men who came to Chicago not so long ago in the hope of making their fortunes.

The trio went into the office of Dr. John P. Woitalewicz at 1652 West North avenue last night. Bandit Johnson held his left side and groaned that he had a bad case of appendicitis. In the office was Frank Brooks, 1521 North Paulina street, who knew that appendicitis doesn't pain on the left side. He left without betraying that he believed there were bandits present.

Brooks notified the police and the radio was used to announce that a robbery was going on in Dr. Woitalewicz's office. So, while the stranger robbers were leisurely tying up the doctor, his brother, Leo, and William Schuman of 1526 North Spaulding avenue, policemen were on the way.

The trio were just finishing the work of taking $56 from their victims when in walked Policeman Peter Lally and Sergt. Edward Ganshow. Two bad men from the west and one from the south surrendered meekly.

EX-PROSECUTOR IN COURT; REALTY MAN IS ACCUSER

Theodore W. Miller, 1629 Fargo avenue, formerly an assistant state's attorney, was arraigned in the South State Street court yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct brought by Homer Ingalls, a real estate operator of 10 South Wells street. Ingalls said Miller attacked him when he went to the former prosecutor's apartment to serve a notice ordering the latter to move.

Miller, who told the court he was an engineer, said Ingalls burst into his home without explanation and that he forced the intruder out. Miller said he had once prosecuted Ingalls on the complaint of a woman, who was unable to prove her charges, involving money matters. Judge Matthew D. Hartigan continued the case to Oct. 9 to enable the calling of other witnesses.

Miller was discharged by State's Attorney Swanson last winter, and eight months later he prepared an affidavit saying he was ousted because he was too active in raiding the Rex hotel. Mr. Swanson replied that he was discharged because of constant trouble with his fellow workers.

Hendricks was called into court by a neighbor who regarded wheat sowing as a flagrant desecration of the Sabbath.

POLICE SQUAD LEARNS NAME FOR POLECATS

A VOICE—A fierce wild animal is disturbing us here at 6418 North Albany. I think it's a mephitis mephitica.

SERGT. LYNG—Whatever it is, lady, we will take care of it, even if it is a lion.

Forth went Sergt. William Beehan, hero prize winner and Beau Brummell; Policemen Peter Jancin, William Mielke, and Sebastian Ruhl. An interval of some twenty minutes passed. Then the telephone at the station rang again and Sergt. Lyng answered.

A VOICE—Jancin speaking. Sergt. Beehan and Mielke are outside. We found that animal and it showed us its teeth. It didn't look so bad and the sergeant said he thought it was an Angora cat. I'll slip up behind it and kill it," says he.

SERGT. LYNG—Was it a mephitis mephitica, and did he get it?

JANCIN—It was and he did.

SERGT. LYNG—And did this animal get Sergt. Beehan?

JANCIN—It did, and it got Mielke, too. That's why they're outside.

SERGT. LYNG—Tell Sergt. Beehan and Mielke to go home without coming to the station. I just looked it up and found out myself that a mephitis mephitica is a polecat.

CITY BUYS FORTY TRUCKS; TO END RENTAL SYSTEM

Through the purchase of forty large trucks, the city yesterday started a program to eliminate the hire of trucks except in cases of emergency. The trucks will be paid for on the installment plan out of savings represented by the difference between the operation cost of $16.50 a day and the $37.50 a day paid for a private truck.

The purchases, made by Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, are 20 International Harvester five ton trucks at $5,646 each, the company taking 16 old trucks in trade for a total of $1,604, and 20 A. C. Mack five and one half ton dump trucks at $6,021 each, with 17 old trucks traded in at $2,318 for the lot.

NEVER REALLY RESTED ◆◆ BECAUSE OF CONSTIPATION!

© 1931, Standard Brands Incorporated

He Slept 10 hours a Night —yet he was always TIRED!

That's generally a sign of Constipation, doctors find

NEVER really rested. Never refreshed by a night's sleep.

So many people are like that today! Listen . . .

Chronic tiredness — like headaches, poor appetite, unpleasant breath, skin troubles, etc.—is in most cases traceable to a very common cause . . . Intestinal Fatigue!

In Intestinal Fatigue, food wastes accumulate in the body, to give off poisons that seep into your blood.

And when this happens, "pep" vanishes. You feel "logy" and dull. And while this condition persists, no amount of sleep will give you the pure, relaxing rest you need.

So attack Intestinal Fatigue! But not with cathartics or pills. Turn to the sensible method doctors advise. Eat fresh Fleischmann's Yeast!

Eaten regularly, three cakes a day, Fleischmann's Yeast actually "tones" and strengthens your sluggish intestines. At the same time it softens the excess waste matter that is poisoning you.

Thus, healthy elimination is restored, your whole system purified. You sleep better. You wake up bright and refreshed. And your early morning energy lasts all day!

If you're skeptical, try it. You can get Fleischmann's Yeast at grocers, restaurants, soda fountains. Directions are on the label. Add it to your diet—starting today!

IMPORTANT!—Fleischmann's Yeast for health is sold only in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label. It is yeast in its fresh, effective form, the kind famous doctors advise! Rich in vitamins B, G, D.

FATHER AND SON SENTENCED FOR SECURITY FRAUD

Superior Judge Peter Schwaba yesterday fined William N. Reynolds, 71 years old, $8,000 and sentenced his son, C. Doyle Reynolds, to six months in the county jail and a fine of $1,000. A Criminal court jury recently found the men guilty of conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses in connection with their operation of the Hill State Bond and Mortgage company. Judge Schwaba had reserved sentence after the trial before him when the judge was assigned to the Criminal court.

Neither father nor son is in custody, both having appealed to the Appellate court. Both are under indictment for embezzlement. Their case will go to trial on Oct. 7 in the Criminal court. The Reynolds were charged with taking $50,000 of the mortgage company funds to finance other ventures.

Conspiracy charges against Patrick A. Clarey, William W. Hemenway, and Thomas E. Bottenberg, salesmen for the company, were dismissed. Peter Bormann, a fourth salesman, will be tried in November on a conspiracy count.

SIMMS OIL CO. OFFERS TO BUY ITS OWN STOCK

Takes Step to Ease Distress Selling.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The Simms Petroleum company yesterday proposed action to relieve "distress selling" of its stock. It proposes to purchase a large block of shares at approximately present market prices, either from stockholders who care to sell directly to the company or by buying stock in the open market.

A letter to stockholders explains the plan and calls for a special meeting on Oct. 13 to approve it. It would seem that the plan should set an example for other corporations that have large surplus funds and believe their shares are selling below real values. For a corporation to purchase its own stock below par value means the enhancement of the equities of its remaining stockholders, while it offers a market equal to the open market to such stockholders as may wish to dispose of their holdings.

Plan of Company.

The plan of the Simms Petroleum company is to purchase 100,000 of its shares at an average price of not more than $6 a share. Stockholders of record Oct. 16 would be given the right to sell to the company their holdings up to 12½ per cent of their holdings. In case the entire amount of 100,000 shares is not purchased directly from stockholders, the deficiency would be made up by purchases in the open market.

"The price of $6 a share is approximately the level at which the stock has recently been traded in on the open market and of course reflects the current severe depression in all security quotations," the company says in its letter. "It is not to be considered indicative of a valuation placed upon the stock by the directors, nor is there any request or recommendation on their part that the stockholders exercise the right to dispose of a portion of their holdings at this price.

Has $1,200,000 on Hand.

"As of Aug. 31, 1931, the book value of the stock was in excess of $15 a share and the net current assets, value of inventories at market, were in excess of $4 a share.

"Since the end of June the company has purchased 1,500 additional shares of its own stock at $6 a share, so that there is now held in its treasury 48,890 shares of its capital stock.

"The company has on hand more than $1,200,000 in cash, which substantially exceeds the amount necessary to provide for its obligations and operating requirements. Utilization of the surplus cash in reducing the outstanding shares would result in increasing the proportionate ownership in the company's properties represented by each share remaining outstanding."

Trade News Colorless.

General news of trade and industry yesterday presented about the same colorless picture as in recent weeks. The railroads reported an upturn in freight loadings during the week ended Sept. 19, but this resulted from the fact that the preceding week contained Labor day. Current freight movement is sharply below a year and two years ago, and is below seasonal tendencies.

Loading of revenue freight totaled [illegible] cars, an increase of 74,878 over the preceding week but a decline of [illegible] from the corresponding week in 1930. Miscellaneous freight was of 106,582 cars in the comparison, with merchandise down 36,888; coal, [illegible]ore, 18,930, and forest products, [illegible]. Coke, grain, and grain products, and live stock showed more moderate declines.

Steel ingot production in the last week has held around 28 per cent of capacity, which also was about the rate for the two preceding weeks, according to the American Metal Market. September output has been at about the same level as prevailed during the 1921 depression, which then marked the lowest level since 1908.

Bradstreet's reported 497 business failures in the last week, which was the largest number since last May, and compared with 430 in the preceding week.

Expect Canadian Statement Soon on Gold Position

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 29.—The status of Canada and its gold standard will, it is expected, be brought to a focal point tomorrow or the following day with redemption of the maturing "second war loan," the maturity date of which is Oct. 1. The balance of this loan outstanding, variously estimated between $8,000,000 and $13,000,000, is payable in gold.

The major portion of this loan is held in the United States. Because of the exchange position between the United States and Canada, where a 12¼ per cent difference favors the American funds, Canadian banks have been in receipt of large numbers of these bonds from the United States with specific instructions that gold must be forthcoming in return.

The position of the Canadian banks, it is pointed out, is embarrassing in view of the dominion government's implied embargo on shipment of gold to meet exchange conditions. Under the circumstances, it is expected that authorities at Ottawa will make clear the gold position and some statement to this effect is expected momentarily.

"No Trade Significance."

The order in coupcil, which has been passed approving regulations of the national revenue department in respect to imports from countries whose currency is either depreciated or at a premium has no trade significance.

This was the declaration today of the acting minister, C. H. Cahan. His attention being directed to reports that the new impost has been designed as a new preference for Great Britain and penalty for the United States, Mr. Cahan scouted the suggestion.

"It is a plan simply to preserve the revenues of Canada," he said. "The object is to take account for customs purposes of the decreased value of the pound sterling on the one hand and the premium on the American dollar on the other."

Will Pay Interest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 29.—All arrangements have been made to meet the interest payment due Oct. 1 in New York on the $100,000,000 loan which matures in 1960. The interests amount to $2,000,000 and will be paid in U. S. funds. The money is now in New York awaiting the due date.

CLOSE CHICAGO OFFICE.

Robert S. O'Meara, Canadian government trade representative here, announced yesterday that the dominion government will close its Chicago office as a measure of economy. The office was opened in 1929. All inquiries are to be handled through the New York office of the dominion government.

EUROPEAN CURRENCIES SHOW DEPRECIATION IN TERMS OF DOLLAR

Practically all European currencies have depreciated in terms of the American dollar in the last ten days, during which time Great Britain, Sweden, Norway and Denmark have suspended exchanging their paper money for gold coin. AMERICAN CAN CO. AUTHORIZES $1 EXTRA DIVIDEND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Directors of the American Can company authorized an extra dividend of $1 a share on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of the same amount. A similar extra dividend was paid at this time last year.

Directors of S. H. Kress & Co. announced today an extra dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, payable in special preferred stock, besides the regular quarterly dividends of 25 cents on the common and 15 cents on the special preferred stocks. Similar payments have been made on several previous occasions.

The Community Finance Service, Inc., has declared an extra dividend of 20 cents a share on the class A and B preferred stocks and on the common stock, all payable Sept. 30 to owners of record Sept. 28. Directors also declared regular quarterly dividends on the preferred stocks.

The R. C. Mahon company today omitted the quarterly dividend of 50 cents due at this time on the preferred stock.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—The first heavy shipments of gold from New York to Europe since England and other European countries suspended the gold standard went out of New York today on two steamers, the Aquitania and Europa, which carried in all $22,920,000. This comprises the exports announced yesterday by the Federal Reserve bank and about $1,467,000 additional.

Of the shipments, $17,900,000 was consigned to France and $5,020,000 to Switzerland. These consignments do not conform to those announced by the Federal Reserve bank, but it is quite possible that some of the gold consigned to France will be forwarded to other capitals on arrival abroad, as it has been reported that France is taking gold from this market and at the same time shipping gold from Paris to European central banks.

More Shipments Expected.

The $5,000,000 shipment to Switzerland was listed by the reserve bank yesterday. Still, it is understood at that bank that today's shipments approximately cover the amounts taken from the bank yesterday for export. More shipments are expected to be made later in the week.

Of the shipments today, $21,400,000 was forwarded by the Guaranty Trust company to France and Switzerland. The Guaranty Trust also announced that it shipped last Friday $1,025,000 gold to Holland, and on Saturday $370,000 to Switzerland and $30,000 to Belgium.

Lazard Frères sent $1,500,000 to France today, which is included in the total.

Besides these shipments the Federal Reserve bank reported yesterday that $31,500,000 in gold had been set aside under earmark for foreign account. This, added to the heavy earmarkings of $182,586,000 last week, carried the total withdrawals of the precious metal up to $238,337,600 since Great Britain suspended the gold standard.

Position Is Strong.

It is not believed in local banking circles that the loss of the metal will in itself have an undue firming effect on the New York money rate. The reserve position of New York City member banks is said to be extremely strong, and the institutions had excess reserves of $60,000,000 today. Record breaking earmarking operations in the first two days of last week brought the excess reserves down somewhat, but the surplus is said now to have been restored despite gold losses on Monday.

Authorities point out that the gold which is now being earmarked for foreign account consists of "free" gold, which has been available for sudden demands such as are now being made. Bankers state that it is logical that the first result of a general suspension of the gold standard should be the shifting of metal on a large scale from countries which still maintain a free gold market.

Under this movement runs its course it is probable that gold will once again come to New York, representing the newly mined South African gold sold in the London open market.

Central Public Service Reports August Sales Gain

An increasing rate of gain in both electricity and gas sales is shown by Central Public Service corporation in a report covering periods up to Aug. 31. Electricity sales for August were 52,724,454 kilowatt hours, 7.81 per cent higher than August, 1930, compared with a gain of 2.12 per cent for the eight months and a loss of .07 per cent for the twelve months to Aug. 31. Gas sales of 1,088,054,400 cubic feet for the month were 15.31 per cent higher. Increase for the eight months was 15.09 per cent and for the twelve months 10.93 per cent.

Illinois Central Reports August Operating Income

The Illinois Central railroad yesterday reported net railway operating income for August of $1,422,062, as compared with $1,497,576 in August, 1930, a decline of $73,514. Net railway operating income for the first eight months totaled $5,931,447, as against $12,848,023 in the same period last year.

G. M. REYNOLDS A BANKER FOR 51 YEARS TODAY

Fifty-one years in the banking business will be the record hung up today by George M. Reynolds, chairman of the executive committee of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. And two months from today he will complete 34 years in Chicago finance.

But such anniversaries do not mean a great deal to Mr. Reynolds, whose service ranks him as dean of Chicago financiers. Today and tomorrow will just be other business days, he said as he sat at his desk yesterday. He disclaimed any intention of retiring.

"I still get a lot of enjoyment out of banking," he explained, "although I hope to get a little more in the next few years than I have in the last two years. I've witnessed good times and bad, and so I know that renewed prosperity will follow the present depression."

It was on Oct. 1, 1880, that Mr. Reynolds began his banking career as a messenger boy in his father's bank, the Guthrie County National, in Panora, Ia. Later he became cashier of a bank in Des Moines and then president. It was on Dec. 1, 1897, that he began his Chicago career as a cashier of the old Continental bank. He became president in 1906, occupying that position until 1921. During these years Mr. Reynolds' bank became one of the big institutions of the country through mergers and natural growth. He became chairman in 1921 and then chairman of the executive committee when the Continental bank absorbed the Illinois Merchants bank several years ago to form the present "billion dollar" institution.

$52,649 PAID OUT IN ROCK ISLAND JOBLESS RELIEF

The Rock Island lines' employés relief committee during the ten months ending Sept. 1, 1931, expended a total of $52,649 for food and fuel to employés temporarily out of work, according to announcement made by L. C. Fritch, chairman, and Carl Nyquist, treasurer, of the executive relief committee. A total of $88,695 was subscribed voluntarily by fellow employés and officers of the railroad, leaving a balance of $36,045 to be applied to the relief work which will be continued during the coming winter. This fund will be augmented by additional subscriptions by the personnel of the railroad.

Board of Trade Orders 10 Per Cent Salary Cut

The Chicago Board of Trade directors yesterday ordered a 10 per cent cut in salaries for all employés receiving more than $125 a month.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29. — New low prices for the bear market were chalked up by a long list of standard industrial and specialty stocks as selling was renewed on a heavy scale today. The close found fewer than a score of issues out of the 1,100 and more listed on the exchange selling for as much as $100 a share.

In view of the curb which the exchange is understood to be maintaining on price "raiding" the bulk of the day's selling was accepted as liquidation by holders grown more discouraged over the immediate business outlook. Brokers reported a heavy volume of selling orders from abroad.

Some of the oldest and most conservative of England's investment trusts were said to be letting go of American stocks because of the present low rates on sterling. The losses they had to take because of lower stock prices were made up at least in part, it was explained, by the wide difference in exchange rates between sterling and dollars. Something of the same condition applies to Canadian holders of American stocks.

Market Under Pressure.

With the exception of two ill-fated attempts to rally the list, once on the strength of a rumor that the interstate commerce commission would grant a 7½ per cent increase in rail freight rates and later on the declaration of the usual dividend on American Can stock, the market was under pressure for the whole five hours of trading.

Final prices were around the lowest of the day and represented losses on the more active shares of 1 to 5 points, with the dips in extreme cases running 11 to 17 points. On the face of the closing figures today, the yield on the rank and file of industrial shares showed an alarming proximity to the high levels which marked the bottom of the 1921 bear market. Latest available records show the average yield on industrial stocks as about 6.74 per cent compared with the return of 3.2 per cent offered at the peak in 1929 and with the low of 7.30 per cent in 1921 when commercial paper

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing.

I own a small amount of Westinghouse Electric common stock, but have been advised to switch. Please let me know what you think of the stock I hold? A. L. W.

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, second largest concern in its field, manufactures and distributes electrical equipment. On Jan. 1, 1930, it transferred the radio division to Radio Corporation of America for a stock interest in the latter.

For the five years to 1929 earnings covered common dividend requirements by good margins. In 1930 sales were 16½ per cent under those reported for 1929 while net income declined 56 per cent. This was due mainly to generally decreased business activity and partially to the transfer of its radio manufacturing division. Unfilled orders at the close of 1930 were $40,208,181, the smallest figure reported in many years. At the close of 1929 unfilled orders were $62,025,399. Net income in 1930 was $11,881,706, or $4.46 per share on combined preferred and common shares, against $27,062,611, or $10.15 per share, on combined shares in 1929.

Orders received in the first half of 1931 totaled $74,928,169, compared with $94,393,180 in the first six months of 1930. Sales billed declined about one-third. Loss for the period was $1,959,341, against net income of $8,357,362 or $3.13 per share on combined preferred and common shares for the first half of 1930.

On June 30, 1931, current assets were $105,022,447 and current liabilities were $12,110,379. Cash was $22,011,026. Working capital was $92,912,068, against $99,917,266 at the close of 1930 and $114,029,931 on Dec. 31, 1929.

The company has outstanding 79,974 shares of 7 per cent preferred [par $50] and 2,586,341 common shares [par $50.] There is no funded debt. The preferred has preference as to dividends at the rate of $3.50 per share. After the common has received a like amount the preferred participates equally share for share in all further distributions. With the dividend payable Oct. 31, 1931, both preferred and common will be on a quarterly dividend basis of 62½ cents per share.

Light weight spring pigs, 40@60 lbs underweight, continued to pour into the hog yards yesterday and swept away Monday's slight gains in prices. Losses of 25c were general in the lightest weights, while medium and weighty butchers were pulled down 5 @10c, the extreme top at $5.55 showing 10c loss. The general average price came down 15c at $5.05, establishing a new 23 year low. With the wholesale market loaded with carcasses from these light weight hogs, anything weighing under 170 lbs yesterday was discounted severely.

Thousands of good healthy 140@160 lb spring pigs are being sacrificed at prices 75c@$1.00 below the market for choice medium and weighty butchers. Although the quality of these light weight hogs is good and many of the 40@80 lb averages are sought after for roasting whole, the outlet for hogs that are too small to produce regular "cuts" is always limited and only a moderate increase causes a glut. Larger houses have been buying this class freely at the decline in an attempt to keep supplies of live hogs moving off the market and avert congestion, but intimated yesterday that they are unwilling to take on more than their quota of underweights. Their buyers swung into the stronger weight hogs and these strengthened up at the close. Many of the 7,000 left in the pens were light and underweights.

October Bids at $5.00.

Bids of $5.00 were made for October hogs weighing 210@260 lbs on the futures market yesterday and 170@210 lb averages carried bids of $4.75. December mediums were offered at $4.80 and heavy offers were down to $4.60. On the "to arrive" market 170@210 lb hogs were bid $5.25 for today's delivery, while 210@260 lb averages were bid $5.40 and 260@310 lb hogs, $5.30.

An increase in cattle receipts for the first two days of the week failed to change the position of the general market to any great extent and bulk of offerings changed hands on a steady basis yesterday. There was a strong undertone in the market for well finished offerings, but the low level of the hog market lately has discouraged any thought of a substantial upturn in steers, despite the fact that there is a shortage of highly finished stock. Prime 1,185 lb medium weight steers sold at $10.15, only 5c under the highest price paid for cattle last week. Yearlings averaging 1,008 lbs reached $10.00. Butcher stock ruled steady to strong. Calves were mostly steady. Stockers and feeders met better demand at steady prices.

Lambs Advance 25c.

A decrease of 80,000 head of sheep and lambs at 20 leading markets in two days sent buyers scurrying through the yards for slaughter stock yesterday, and salesmen scored the easiest gain of 25c in recent weeks. Bulk of natives showed the full gain, most "sorts" going to packers at $6.75@7.00, while city butchers took about 300 of their selections at $7.25. Top range lambs also reached $7.25, but the bulk consisted of medium grades at $6.25@6.75. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged. Feeder lambs were in fairly good demand at $5.00@5.35, only plain kinds going below the inside figure.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD PLACES $2,500,000 LOCOMOTIVE ORDER

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A $2,500,000 order for the construction of the chassis and mechanical parts of 60 electric freight locomotives has been announced by the Pennsylvania railroad.

Thirty of the freight engines will be constructed by the Lima Locomotive works at Lima, O.; 20 by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company at Eddystone, Pa., and 10 in the Pennsylvania railroad shops at Altoona, Pa.

Electrical equipment for these locomotives and for 90 electric passenger engines was ordered in the spring from Westinghouse and General Electric at an approximate cost of $16,000,000. Chassis and mechanical parts for the 90 passenger engines cost $4,700,000. These were ordered several months ago.

COTTON MARKETS LOWER

Cotton markets finished at the lowest prices of the season, with New York down to 6c on spots and other markets below that level, to the lowest in over 30 years. The range of prices, however, was narrow and net losses on futures for the day were 7@9 points in Chicago and 3@9 points in other markets. New Orleans was off 5 points to 5.70c, with Houston 5.75c and Galveston 5.85c.

The carryover in India, as estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange service, is 3,305,000 bales, compared with 3,380,000 bales last year. The Murray-Clement Curtis report was 15,905,000 bales, an increase of 323,000 bales over the September government report. Low prices for raw cotton have resulted in a reduction of around 25 per cent in cotton goods. Prices follow:

GRAINS DECLINE IN SYMPATHY WITH STOCK MART

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Action of the stock market dominated grains yesterday and prices gradually worked lower in sympathy with Wall street, with all deliveries of corn selling at a new low for the season. There was buying on resting orders by shorts and against bids, which checked the decline, but grains showed no disposition to rally and the finish was well toward the inside figures.

The demoralization which prevails in the stock market has caused a change in sentiment in some quarters, with a belief that unless there is a change in conditions still lower prices are likely to be witnessed for wheat. Today sees the windup of the September deliveries in all grains and erratic price changes are expected. September wheat at the inside yesterday touched 45c, or within ¼c of the lowest figure of the year, and the close was at 45⅞@45¾c, showing a net loss of 2¼c, and was 2½c under December at the last, compared with ½c on Monday. The distant futures were off ⅝@⅝c for the day, with December, 47¾c, and May, 51⅝@51¾c.

Liverpool Wheat Lower.

A belief that England will impose an import duty on wheat is resulting in the diversion of cargoes afloat to that country and it is understood that considerable unsold grain is now at various ports, which tends to create caution on the part of buyers. Canadian and Russian offerings yesterday were reported at lower prices, and Liverpool futures finished 1⅛@1⅞d lower, with the December quoted at 52¾c on the basis of $3.85 for sterling, firmness in the exchange rate offsetting the decline in the price to a slight extent.

While there was rather limited hedging pressure at Winnipeg, the latter closed ⅛@⅜c lower, with December finishing at 54¼c in Canadian currency, which was quoted at 10 per cent discount, as compared with American. Favorable weather prevailed for threshing in the prairie provinces and deliveries at interior elevators increased rather sharply in consequence. Foreign demand for North American wheat continues to be restricted by the exchange situation, but sales of around 250,000 bu of Manitobas were reported to the continent.

Selling of September against purchases of December wheat were in evidence yesterday, and there was also liquidation in the nearby future by scattered longs. Argentina has 41,000,000 bu wheat still available for export, according to official figures, or 24,000,000 bu less than recently given by Broomhall.

Corn at New Low Levels.

Liquidation was on in corn futures yesterday and all deliveries dropped to a new low for the season, with September touching 37⅛c and December 35⅜c, and the finish was at the bottom, with net losses of ⅝@¾c. September closed at 37⅛ to 37⅝c, December 33⅞ to 35⅛c, and May 39⅛ to 39¼c.

Country holders of cash corn, who were apparently waiting to see whether there would be fireworks in the September delivery the same as during the last few days of July, apparently made up their minds that there is a little likelihood of untoward developments and started to sell old cash corn at the best price obtainable, resulting in purchases to arrive of 208,000 bu. Deliveries on September contracts aggregated 138,000 bu, with the basis in the cash market ¼@1c lower as compared with the future.

Favorable weather prevailed over the main corn belt for field work and cutting of the new crop is progressing. Argentina still has around 119,000,000 bu corn available for export, according to official figures, which compare with Broomhall's recent estimate of 142,000,000 bu.

Oats and Rye Weaken.

Weakness in other grains was reflected in lower prices for oats and rye. Scattered liquidation by tired longs was in evidence in oats, with the finish at net losses of ⅝@¾c, September being 20⅝c, December 23⅜c, and May 24½@24¾c. Closing of spreads with corn gave rye some support, but net losses were ½@⅝c, with September 36⅞c, December 37½c, and May 40¾c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today and in absence of business prices were unchanged at 3.40c for spots duty paid.

Futures were steadier on covering and buying by houses with Cuban connections, with the market closing net unchanged to 3 points higher. Approximate sales were 8,900 tons. Prices follow:

BUYS 80 ACRES IN HILLSIDE; TO BE SUBDIVIDED

Syndicate Is Purchaser of Tract.

BY AL CHASE.

Alexander H. Marshall of the law firm of Marshall & Marshall yesterday purchased for a syndicate an eighty acre tract in Hillside, at the northwest corner of Wolf road and Harrison street, from Henry L. and Lillie D. Royce for a reported $80,000. The property already has sewer and water and, it is stated, will be subdivided and put on the market next year.

The land is crossed by the Illinois Central railroad right of way. It has two golf clubs directly across Wolf road. At the northeast intersection of Harrison street is the Maywood Golf club and at the southeast corner is the Hillside Golf club. Fischer & Fischer were attorneys for the sellers.

Add to Forest Preserve.

Trustees of the forest preserve district yesterday secured title through condemnation proceedings to a thirty-five acre tract between the Des Plaines river and the West River road, on both sides of Devon avenue, in Leyden township, at an indicated $35,000. The property was obtained from Wilhelm Huehl.

It is improved with a two story frame farmhouse, a large barn, and other outbuildings. This tract will supply a needed link in connecting forest preserve district holdings both north and south of it.

Walter J. and Franklin Barrow, operating under the firm name of Barrow Brothers, have taken an option to buy the automobile sales and service building they now occupy under lease at 218 Madison street, in Oak Park. The lot is 143x123. Walter A. Hitchcock, trustee for the National Acceptance Trust, is the owner. The option calls for a purchase price of $70,000 and extends until Jan. 1, 1933. Levi Fuller was attorney for Barrow Brothers.

Hubbard Woods Sale.

N. Landon Hoyt, who five years ago erected a one story business building at 912 Lincoln street, Hubbard Woods, which he leased to the National Tea company until 1935, yesterday sold the propert; to a syndicate identified with the Hubbard Woods Trust and Savings bank. Harold A. Mark, assistant cashier, took title for the group. The site is 50x125, with a paved alley in the rear. The three stores, all occupied by the National Tea company, are seventy feet deep. Frank Reid was broker.

William M. Knourek has transferred title in the property at 220-22 South Jefferson street, improved with a two story building, to the Factory Building corporation, which he controls. Mr. Knourek is using the property as a salesroom for woodworkers' machinery and tools. Joseph C. Pisha was attorney.
